REDS SWINGING INTO BIG BUILDUP

Truman Says U. N. Won't Let Up On Reds

Press Groups Are Lectured By President

AP's Cease-Fire Story Called Fake

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP) — President Truman announced bluntly today that the fighting will continue in Korea as long as there is a possibility of United Nations forces being "caught off-balance" by the enemy in a peace trap.

"The continued pressure of our forces on the enemy constitutes the strongest incentive for the latter to agree to a just armistice," the President told a news conference at this naval submarine base.

"Any premature slackening of our effort would cost us more casualties in the long run than need be lost."

The President followed the reading of his prepared statement with an off-the-cuff lecture to press associations and newspapers on what he said were fake cease-fire stories that grow out of hot competition for news.

He singled out a premature armistice story by the United Press' Roy Howard in 1918 and an Associated Press story out of Seoul, Korea, yesterday asserting that orders from the highest sources, possibly the White House, brought ground fighting to a halt in Korea.

Terms Stories Fakes

Mr. Truman termed the Roy Howard story a fake and said the AP story was on a parallel with it.

The President said he understood yesterday's AP story out of Seoul sprang out of the intense competition for news.

Addressing himself then to the representatives of the press associations and the independent newspapers at the conference, he said they must be very careful in this very dangerous time to stick to the truth.

It seems to him, he said, that the welfare of the United States, the United Nations and the world as a whole is much more important than any competitive situation that may exist among any newshounds.

Mr. Truman, in his prepared statement, said he hoped everybody understood "there has been no cease-fire in Korea and that there can be none until an armistice has been signed."

He said it is our duty to continue fighting until U. N. objectives are achieved.

"Only then will the future safety of the United Nations forces, including those who are prisoners of the enemy, be assured," he said. "We can not allow our men to be caught off-balance by the enemy in case we cannot reach a satisfactory armistice agreement."

AP Defends Dispatch

A spokesman for the Associated Press in New York said:

"There is no foundation for suggesting 'pressure' was involved in an Associated Press news dispatch from Seoul Wednesday speculating on the battle zone indications that orders causing a lull in the Korean ground fighting came from the 'highest sources, possibly from the White House.'"

"It was a fact that the ground shooting was halted as a result of orders or directives given to the U. N. fighting forces.

"The AP dispatch in question was part of a frontline repertorial effort to explain the effect as well as the possible origins of orders which are still surrounded by mystery. The Associated Press did not report a 'cease-fire' order had been issued. It has fully reported the facts, so far as they have been obtainable and observable, including all authoritative statements which have (1) denied any 'cease-fire' order has been issued, but (2) not disputed the fact that a lull developed in frontline ground fighting."

Air Chief Says Reds Have Two Choices

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29 (AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, chief of staff, U. S. Air Force, declared today that the "Communist enemy in Korea must either agree to a truce or again step up his investment by throwing in new forces."

Addressing the California Chamber of Commerce, the general said that one obvious solution to the enemy's problem would be an offensive air force. He called the present Red air force in Korea strictly a defensive force.

"The enemy's third successive investment toward victory has failed to pay off," he said, "but this by no means represents the ultimate in air power that the Soviet benefactor might present to his Chinese protege."

Wherry, GOP Leader In Senate, Dies At 59

Pneumonia Causes Nebraskan's Death

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — Sen. Kenneth Spicer Wherry of Nebraska, one of the top Republicans in the Senate and a jolly, aggressive salesman of old line GOP policy, died today at the age of 59.

Wherry, who had been floor leader for the Republicans since 1949, died of pneumonia. He had undergone an abdominal operation last month but lately had been reported recuperating.

GOP LEADER DIES — Sen. Kenneth Wherry (above), of Nebraska, Republican floor leader, died yesterday of pneumonia. He was 59.

◆ His secretary, Lorne Kennedy, said the doctors had authorized him to say that the operation disclosed a malignant tumor, but that the immediate cause of death was pneumonia.

Wherry became ill last night and was taken to the George Washington University Hospital this morning, suffering from chills and fever with respiratory complications. Death came at 12:45 p. m. (EST).

Gabrielson Says Loss Great

Republican National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson said the country and the Republican Party have lost a valiant fighter for the American way of life x x x his wise counsel and vigor will be irreplaceable in the critical days ahead."

A never-let-up battler for the political causes he believed in, Wherry had been looking forward to further service in the Senate and perhaps to a major role in the 1952 presidential campaign. There had been indications that his name would be put before the Republican convention as a presidential candidate.

Wherry came out of Nebraska in 1942, with a background of a great salesman—"Lightning Ken" he was called—and swept his way to high position in the Senate hierarchy. He was the first freshman senator ever to be given the job of party whip, or assistant floor leader.

Admired By Truman

He fought against virtually everything proposed or undertaken by President Truman, but the President once wrote him:

"While you and I are as far apart as the poles on policy, I can admire an honest opponent."

As the GOP floor leader, he took the stand that it was not his job to make policy, but to carry it out. However, he was a prime mover in bringing about a change in the Senate rules on limitation of debate. Under this rule, which has been criticized by advocates of Mr. Truman's "civil rights" proposals, the Senate may clamp down on filibusters by a vote of 64 of its 96 members.

Funeral arrangements, with burial expected to be at Pawnee City, will be completed later.

Military Junta's Coup Overthrows Thai Government

Premier Expected To Return To Post

BANGKOK, Thialand, Nov. 29 (AP) —A nine-man military junta tonight overthrew Thailand's government in a quiet, bloodless coup and announced it would pursue the nation's anti-Communist policy.

Premier P. Pibulsonggram, originator of the policy, was ousted but there were reports he would be returned to his new job when a new government is formed, possibly tomorrow.

(The Bangkok radio heard in London said Pibulsonggram and most of his cabinet had been reappointed.)

Motive Of Coup Obscure

The motive behind the coup remained obsecure. There was a possibility, however, that it was staged to reaffirm the government's independent position as regards young King Phumiphon Aduldet, who is returning with his queen and daughter from Switzerland.

The junta abolished the constitution and put into effect one adopted 18 years ago when the absolute monarchy was overthrown. Pibulsonggram had been arguing with the military against a coup.

(This was the first direct dispatch from Bangkok since the coup was sprung. Presumably censorship delayed the dispatch).

Foreign Policy Not Affected

The government radio repeatedly announced that tonight's events in no way affect foreign policy.

In fact, the broadcast specifically stated that the action was taken in the interest of strengthening measures to fight Communism.

Europeans in the community were asked to keep calm and not to worry about developments. Most of them did not know anything had happened.

The junta is provisionally headed by Gen. Phin Chunhawan, commander-in-chief of the army. A committee reportedly was named to reorganize the government.

Secrecy Shrouds New Jet Bomber

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The first heavy, long-distance, all-jet bomber—a plane so shrouded in secrecy that camouflage and canvas drapes will be used to keep its details from public sight—trundled out of an aircraft factory in the dark pre-dawn hours today.

The XB-52, described by its manufacturers as a "global" bomber, was rolled out of the Seattle, Wash., plant of Boeing Airplane Co. to a nearby hanger.

A company announcement said that "to help protect security of the aircraft, as well as to take advantage of light traffic on the highway over which the aircraft was moved, the XB-52 was moved at night."

Air Secretary Thomas Finletter issued a statement emphasizing the extreme care being taken to keep the huge plane from either curious or enemy eyes.

He requested that no attempts be made to photograph the XB-52 and asked cooperation of all news organizations in helping to keep information about the bomber "from any potential enemy as long as possible."

Small Blast Winds Up Atom Weapons Effects Program

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Nov. 29 (AP) — The Army concluded its atomic weapons effects program at Nevada test site today with a comparatively small but vital blast, witnessed by some of the nation's top brass and nuclear technicians.

Some 1,200 troops from Camp Desert Rock were involved, chiefly as observers, in the test which was the second in the weapons effects series — but the seventh nuclear explosion this fall at the Atomic Energy Commission's Yucca Flat site.

The explosion was not seen, felt or heard in Las Vegas, some 75 miles south.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, headed the group of military observers in this test of another of America's new nuclear weapons.

Some of the troops today were used in outlining positions and locating materiel and equipment in the field, a release by Desert Rock commander, Brig. Gen. Burdette M. Fitch, indicated.

But there was nothing to indicate they were deployed in the manner used in the historic maneuvers on Nov. 1 when troops dug positions and studied effects of a major A-bomb.

Prober Finds Apparent Tax Irregularities

King Will Refer Case To McGrath

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Rep. King (D-Calif) said tonight he was calling to the attention of Attorney General McGrath what was "apparent irregular activity on the part of the Department of Justice" in connection with a New York tax case.

King, chairman of a House Ways and Means subcommittee investigating tax fraud prosecutions, made his statement after former Assistant Attorney General T. Lamar Caudle testified he received $5,000 as a commission on the sale of an airplane to an investigator employed by two New Yorkers in the case.

Committee Counsel Adrian W. Dewind also stated that the committee had been informed the case "was to be fixed."

Day-Long Hearing

King issued his statement following a day-long hearing during which Caudle, other Justice Department officials and Charles Oliphant, chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, testified.

King's statement went on to say that although the purported "irregular activity" took place only a year ago, "the important Justice officials involved state that they have no recollection of the matter."

"One states he would not have acted as he did but for instructions given to him by one of the other two. The chief counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue is involved, and he also states he has no recollection.

"There is a $5,000 payment to one of the Justice officials—paid under circumstances apparently involving a defendant in the criminal proceedings—the acceptance of which payment the attorney general approved."

Officials Identified

The officials to whom King referred were Myer Rothwacks, chief of the criminal section of the tax division formerly headed by Caudle; Turner S. Smith, formerly Caudle's first assistant and one of those who Caudle said yesterday received a fur coat from a New York tax payer; Oliphant and Caudle himself.

All testified that they had no recollection of the authorship of a letter sent to U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol of New York, dealing with efforts to drop the prosecution of Samuel Aaron, who had been indicted and was due to be tried in a tax fraud case.

The hearing developed evidence that an "agreement" was reached between Caudle and Oliphant that Aaron "should not be prosecuted," on the basis of medical findings.

As it turned out, Aaron was prosecuted, convicted, fined $30,000 and sentenced to two years' imprisonment last November.

10 Made Orphans By Double Suicide

HAYDEN, Colo., Nov. 29 (AP) — A double suicide today made orphans of the 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Montoya.

Howard R. Root, Routt County coroner, ruled that Tony Linda Montoya, 39, killed herself and that her grief-stricken husband Phillip, 43, then shot himself to death with the same gun.

The Montoya's three youngest children were at home at the time of the shooting. The other seven children were at school.

The coroner said that both parents had been in ill health. He was an unemployed miner.

1,651 Slot Machines Seized In Georgia

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (INS) — The Justice Department announced tonight that the day-long roundup of gambling machine dealers in Georgia has resulted in seizure of 1,651 slot machines valued at $615,205.

The FBI said seizures were made at 51 cities and arrests totaled 16.

Previously, the FBI had announced seizure of 1,160 machines in 25 cities. Three men arrested late today were identified as Milton Braun of Savannah, George Young of Hinesville and Alfred Friedman of Atlanta.

TACOMA, Nov. 29 (AP)—Edgar N. Eisenhower, a brother of Gen. Dwight D. Eiesnhower, said today he hoped the general would not seek the presidential nomination on any ticket.

Gamblers Can't Fight New Tax In Federal Court

Judges Believe Law Is Constitutional

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—A special three-judge tribunal held today that gamblers cannot seek the protection of federal courts in an effort to escape complying with the new federal gambling tax.

The panel ruled that the tax law "'appears to be constitutional," but that in any event federal courts will not aid in the "protection of illegal enterprises."

"We think the act is constitutional," the judges said. "But we think it unnecessary to discuss the constitutional questions x x x."

They added that gamblers have no right to seek relief in the federal courts because, in line with the old legal principles, they do not come into court with "clean hands."

Ruling Given In Test Case

The ruling was handed down in a test case brought by a Washington man who was refused a gambling occupation stamp when he failed to give information required on the application blank.

"The complaint," the judges said, "clearly implies and plaintiff's counsel concedes in oral argument, that what plaintiff seeks is the intervention of the court for the protection of a criminal business."

Private attorneys said the case would be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

The new tax law requires all gamblers to buy a $50 occupation tax stamp and to pay 10 per cent of the wages they receive.

Way Cleared For Crackdown

The three-judge ruling cleared the way for internal revenue agents to crack down on gamblers who fail to apply for tax stamps by a Dec. 1 deadline.

Today's was the first court test of the new tax, which went into effect Nov. 1.

In a two-count injunction suit brought by Hayes L. Combs, a Washington newsstand operator, it was contended the law is invalid on the ground it requires stamp applicants to supply information which "tends to incriminate" and which could be used for prosecution.

Dean Rusk Expected To Quit State Dept.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk, a key figure in American diplomacy for several years and the architect of recent U. S. Far Eastern policy, is expected to resign in a few weeks.

It is understood that Rusk has been negotiatiing with the Rockefeller Foundation, and that various other private research groups have been interested in obtaining his services.

No successor has been selected, but it is known that among those under consideration for his Far Eastern post is John M. Allison, career diplomat and close associate of Foreign Policy Adviser John Foster Dulles in negotiating the Japanese peace treaty.

Drifts Backward To Start Car, Stops Over Torch; Bang!

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 29 (AP) —Thomas E. Gordon, of Hagerstown Route 1, came into town on a visit and parked his car on a hill, heading up.

The car wouldn't start when Gordon ended his visit, so he decided he'd back it down the hill, perhaps catch it in reverse. It came to a stop, the gas tank directly over one of those oil burning torches that mark construction projects.

Whoosh!

Gordon's car was a total loss by the time firemen got there.

Syria's Pro Red Premier Ousted

The Syrian strong man never gave Populist Marouf Dawalibi, advocate of closer Arabic-Russian ties, a chance to get set as successor to pro-Western Premier Hassan El Hakeen, a backer of the projected Middle East defense command who resigned Nov. 10.

Less than 24 hours after Dawalibi succeeded in forming a coalition cabinet with the backing of his Populists, independents and the Moslem Brotherhood, the soldiers struck.

In addition to the ministers, other Populist leaders and independent members of parliament supporting their policy were rounded up. Populist newspapers were reported suspended.

"Flying Triangle"

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Royal Air Force unveiled today what it described as the world's first twin-jet "flying triangle"—an all weather, day or night fighter known as the Gloser GA5.

Fitted with radar and intended primarily for knocking enemy bombers out of the sky, the plane is driven by two powerful Sapphire jet engines.

Pusan Arsenal Explodes; Four Koreans Killed

Factory, 40 Homes Destroyed By Blast

PUSAN, Korea, Friday, Nov. 30 (AP)—A mighty blast destroyed the South Korean government arsenal here before dawn today and devastated a wide area.

U. S. Army authorities said four civilians were known to be dead and six were seriously injured. None was American.

Two blasts and a series of small explosions lasting nearly an hour destroyed the factory and 40 homes nearby and damaged 500 other dwellings.

Might Be Sabotage

Col. Lee Hong Chong, chief of the arsenal located on Pusan's northern outskirts, said it was not known whether the fire and explosion was accidental or caused by sabotage. He said the plant was closed for the night and only guards were on duty.

A blaze started in a building about 130 yards from the ammunition depot, he said.

Following the first detonation at 4 a. m. (2 p. m. Thursday, EST) ammunition was thrown high into the air and exploded like a gigantic fireworks display.

Many Homes Destroyed

The arsenal was moved to Pusan from Yongdongpo on the outskirts of Seoul at the outbreak of the war in June, 1950.

Heavy loss of life was feared among the refugees from the northern provinces who had settled on the outskirts of the arsenal.

At least 40 houses were reported destroyed. The flimsy dwellings crumbled like matchboxes as flying debris sprayed the area.

New Deadline Set

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The armed forces again have extended the period during which men can enlist in the services after taking preinduction physical examinations for the draft.

The new deadline is Dec. 31. It had been Nov. 30.

Johnston Quits ESA Post; Asks Tighter Credit Curbs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — Eric Johnston today made a parting appeal for tougher credit controls and an eventual pay-as-you-go defense program. He warned that the economic "calm" soon may be shattered by new inflationary forces.

Johnston handed over his post as economic stabilization administrator to Roger L. Putnam, industrialist and three-term mayor of Springfield, Mass.

Putnam, sworn in at 11 a. m., E.S.T., said he had agreed to keep the job only six months and had "no illusions" that it would be easy.

But some day, he predicted, production will catch up with military and civilian demand "so this job can be eliminated."

Johnston issued a terminal report which slapped at "wishful thinking" on the possibility of dropping wage and price ceilings. He criticized Congress for a "disservice to stabilization" in the weakening of credit curbs.

Johnston is returning to the residency of the Motion Picture Association of America after 10 months in the Economic Stabilization Agency.

Allied Airmen Sight 9,200 Enemy Trucks

Firing Resumed By U. N. Artillery

SEOUL, Korea, Friday, Nov. 30 (AP) —The Fifth Air Force today reported sighting the astonishing total of 9,200 Communist trucks last night in North Korea. This is about double the previous record.

The conclusion was inescapable—the Reds were swinging into a big buildup as action died to a whisper along the fighting front.

The Allied airmen, almost supfeited with targets, attacked more than 3,500 of the trucks and claimed 300 were destroyed.

Air War Hot And Heavy

The air war raged hot and heavy over North Korea, with the Reds sending out a record one-day total of 300 to 320 Russian-made MIG jets.

The Allied artillery that opened up Thursday afternoon in the west ended a 36-hour respite. During the strange lull, Chinese soldiers had played ball games and lit bonfires within range of the silent Allied guns.

The Reds took cover again when the artillery blazed anew, but there were only a few long-range, casual patrol clashes, and as of Thursday midnight no infantry was reported in action.

On the truce conference front, negotiatiors were snarled anew over the issue of troop security during an armistice. They have until Dec. 27 to conclude an armistice. Otherwise Tuesday's agreement on a provisional buffer zone along the present frontline will not be binding. Both sides long have agreed that hostilities will continue until an armistice is signed.

Van Fleet Explains

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the Eighth Army, explained Wednesday's frontline lull as the apparent result of "misinterpretation" of a basic directive he issued to his troops.

This secret directive was generally believed to embody instructions not to fight unless attacked, but Van Fleet said: "There is no mention made in the text of ordering a cease-fire in Korea."

His clarifying instructions also were kept secret, as he said his directives "are related to future operations."

The artillery firing followed his clarification order, however.

AP Correspondent Milo Farneti quoted officers on the western front as saying they had received new "shoot to kill" instructions Thursday. This apparently referred to the clarifying order and primarily concerned artillery action.

Red Troop Withdrawal Proposal Perils Talks

MUNSAN, Korea, Friday, Nov. 30 (AP)—A Red proposal for gradual withdrawal of foreign troops threatened today to throw the Korean armistice talks back about where they were when they began last July 10.

The debate resumed at Panmunjom today at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Thursday, EST) with war in a state of some uncertainty since a provisional buffer zone was decided last Tuesday. Early withdrawal of foreign troops again has become the core of the Communist position.

When the talks began last July the Reds demanded "immediate" withdrawal of all foreign troops. The Allies forced them to abandon this on the grounds it was a political question. They agreed then that it would be the fifth and last item of discussion and would consist merely of recommendations to home governments for later decision.

Texas Oil Heir King Weds Egyptian Dancer

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 29 (AP) — Texas Oil Heir Sheppard "Abdullah" King was married today to Egyptian Dancer Samia Gamal in a Moslem religious ceremony.

A turbaned sheikh presided at the signing of the marriage contract. King, who became a Moslem and assumed the name of Abdullah, repeated in Arabic — with a Texas drawl — an expression of faith in Allah and a promise to give Samia $30,000.

Red-haired King and his dark-haired bride will live in her apartment in swanky suburban Zamalek until they leave for the United States late in December.

He requested that no attempts be made to photograph the XB-52 and asked cooperation of all news organizations in helping to keep information about the bomber "from any potential enemy as long as possible."

Small Blast Winds Up Atom Weapons Effects Program

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Nov. 29 (AP) — The Army concluded its atomic weapons effects program at Nevada test site today with a comparatively small but vital blast, witnessed by some of the nation's top brass and nuclear technicians.

Some 1,200 troops from Camp Desert Rock were involved, chiefly as observers, in the test which was the second in the weapons effects series — but the seventh nuclear explosion this fall at the Atomic Energy Commission's Yucca Flat site.

The explosion was not seen, felt or heard in Las Vegas, some 75 miles south.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, headed the group of military observers in this test of another of America's new nuclear weapons.

Some of the troops today were used in outlining positions and locating materiel and equipment in the field, a release by Desert Rock commander, Brig. Gen. Burdette M. Fitch, indicated.

But there was nothing to indicate they were deployed in the manner used in the historic maneuvers on Nov. 1 when troops dug positions and studied effects of a major A-bomb.

Prober Finds Apparent Tax Irregularities

King Will Refer Case To McGrath

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Rep. King (D-Calif) said tonight he was calling to the attention of Attorney General McGrath what was "apparent irregular activity on the part of the Department of Justice" in connection with a New York tax case.

King, chairman of a House Ways and Means subcommittee investigating tax fraud prosecutions, made his statement after former Assistant Attorney General T. Lamar Caudle testified he received $5,000 as a commission on the sale of an airplane to an investigator employed by two New Yorkers in the case.

Committee Counsel Adrian W. Dewind also stated that the committee had been informed the case "was to be fixed."

Day-Long Hearing

King issued his statement following a day-long hearing during which Caudle, other Justice Department officials and Charles Oliphant, chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, testified.

King's statement went on to say that although the purported "irregular activity" took place only a year ago, "the important Justice officials involved state that they have no recollection of the matter."

"One states he would not have acted as he did but for instructions given to him by one of the other two. The chief counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue is involved, and he also states he has no recollection.

"There is a $5,000 payment to one of the Justice officials—paid under circumstances apparently involving a defendant in the criminal proceedings—the acceptance of which payment the attorney general approved."

Officials Identified

The officials to whom King referred were Myer Rothwacks, chief of the criminal section of the tax division formerly headed by Caudle; Turner S. Smith, formerly Caudle's first assistant and one of those who Caudle said yesterday received a fur coat from a New York tax payer; Oliphant and Caudle himself.

All testified that they had no recollection of the authorship of a letter sent to U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol of New York, dealing with efforts to drop the prosecution of Samuel Aaron, who had been indicted and was due to be tried in a tax fraud case.

The hearing developed evidence that an "agreement" was reached between Caudle and Oliphant that Aaron "should not be prosecuted," on the basis of medical findings.

As it turned out, Aaron was prosecuted, convicted, fined $30,000 and sentenced to two years' imprisonment last November.

10 Made Orphans By Double Suicide

HAYDEN, Colo., Nov. 29 (AP) — A double suicide today made orphans of the 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Montoya.

Howard R. Root, Routt County coroner, ruled that Tony Linda Montoya, 39, killed herself and that her grief-stricken husband Phillip, 43, then shot himself to death with the same gun.

The Montoya's three youngest children were at home at the time of the shooting. The other seven children were at school.

The coroner said that both parents had been in ill health. He was an unemployed miner.

1,651 Slot Machines Seized In Georgia

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (INS) — The Justice Department announced tonight that the day-long roundup of gambling machine dealers in Georgia has resulted in seizure of 1,651 slot machines valued at $615,205.

The FBI said seizures were made at 51 cities and arrests totaled 16.

Previously, the FBI had announced seizure of 1,160 machines in 25 cities. Three men arrested late today were identified as Milton Braun of Savannah, George Young of Hinesville and Alfred Friedman of Atlanta.

Gamblers Can't Fight New Tax In Federal Court

Judges Believe Law Is Constitutional

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—A special three-judge tribunal held today that gamblers cannot seek the protection of federal courts in an effort to escape complying with the new federal gambling tax.

The panel ruled that the tax law "'appears to be constitutional," but that in any event federal courts will not aid in the "protection of illegal enterprises."

"We think the act is constitutional," the judges said. "But we think it unnecessary to discuss the constitutional questions x x x."

They added that gamblers have no right to seek relief in the federal courts because, in line with the old legal principles, they do not come into court with "clean hands."

Ruling Given In Test Case

The ruling was handed down in a test case brought by a Washington man who was refused a gambling occupation stamp when he failed to give information required on the application blank.

"The complaint," the judges said, "clearly implies and plaintiff's counsel concedes in oral argument, that what plaintiff seeks is the intervention of the court for the protection of a criminal business."

Private attorneys said the case would be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

The new tax law requires all gamblers to buy a $50 occupation tax stamp and to pay 10 per cent of the wages they receive.

Way Cleared For Crackdown

The three-judge ruling cleared the way for internal revenue agents to crack down on gamblers who fail to apply for tax stamps by a Dec. 1 deadline.

Today's was the first court test of the new tax, which went into effect Nov. 1.

In a two-count injunction suit brought by Hayes L. Combs, a Washington newsstand operator, it was contended the law is invalid on the ground it requires stamp applicants to supply information which "tends to incriminate" and which could be used for prosecution.

Dean Rusk Expected To Quit State Dept.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk, a key figure in American diplomacy for several years and the architect of recent U. S. Far Eastern policy, is expected to resign in a few weeks.

It is understood that Rusk has been negotiatiing with the Rockefeller Foundation, and that various other private research groups have been interested in obtaining his services.

No successor has been selected, but it is known that among those under consideration for his Far Eastern post is John M. Allison, career diplomat and close associate of Foreign Policy Adviser John Foster Dulles in negotiating the Japanese peace treaty.

Drifts Backward To Start Car, Stops Over Torch; Bang!

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 29 (AP) —Thomas E. Gordon, of Hagerstown Route 1, came into town on a visit and parked his car on a hill, heading up.

The car wouldn't start when Gordon ended his visit, so he decided he'd back it down the hill, perhaps catch it in reverse. It came to a stop, the gas tank directly over one of those oil burning torches that mark construction projects.

Whoosh!

Gordon's car was a total loss by the time firemen got there.

Syria's Pro Red Premier Ousted

The Syrian strong man never gave Populist Marouf Dawalibi, advocate of closer Arabic-Russian ties, a chance to get set as successor to pro-Western Premier Hassan El Hakeen, a backer of the projected Middle East defense command who resigned Nov. 10.

Less than 24 hours after Dawalibi succeeded in forming a coalition cabinet with the backing of his Populists, independents and the Moslem Brotherhood, the soldiers struck.

In addition to the ministers, other Populist leaders and independent members of parliament supporting their policy were rounded up. Populist newspapers were reported suspended.

"Flying Triangle"

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Royal Air Force unveiled today what it described as the world's first twin-jet "flying triangle"—an all weather, day or night fighter known as the Gloser GA5.

Fitted with radar and intended primarily for knocking enemy bombers out of the sky, the plane is driven by two powerful Sapphire jet engines.

Johnston Quits ESA Post; Asks Tighter Credit Curbs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — Eric Johnston today made a parting appeal for tougher credit controls and an eventual pay-as-you-go defense program. He warned that the economic "calm" soon may be shattered by new inflationary forces.

Johnston handed over his post as economic stabilization administrator to Roger L. Putnam, industrialist and three-term mayor of Springfield, Mass.

Putnam, sworn in at 11 a. m., E.S.T., said he had agreed to keep the job only six months and had "no illusions" that it would be easy.

But some day, he predicted, production will catch up with military and civilian demand "so this job can be eliminated."

Johnston issued a terminal report which slapped at "wishful thinking" on the possibility of dropping wage and price ceilings. He criticized Congress for a "disservice to stabilization" in the weakening of credit curbs.

Johnston is returning to the residency of the Motion Picture Association of America after 10 months in the Economic Stabilization Agency.

Pusan Arsenal Explodes; Four Koreans Killed

Factory, 40 Homes Destroyed By Blast

PUSAN, Korea, Friday, Nov. 30 (AP)—A mighty blast destroyed the South Korean government arsenal here before dawn today and devastated a wide area.

U. S. Army authorities said four civilians were known to be dead and six were seriously injured. None was American.

Two blasts and a series of small explosions lasting nearly an hour destroyed the factory and 40 homes nearby and damaged 500 other dwellings.

Might Be Sabotage

Col. Lee Hong Chong, chief of the arsenal located on Pusan's northern outskirts, said it was not known whether the fire and explosion was accidental or caused by sabotage. He said the plant was closed for the night and only guards were on duty.

A blaze started in a building about 130 yards from the ammunition depot, he said.

Following the first detonation at 4 a. m. (2 p. m. Thursday, EST) ammunition was thrown high into the air and exploded like a gigantic fireworks display.

Many Homes Destroyed

The arsenal was moved to Pusan from Yongdongpo on the outskirts of Seoul at the outbreak of the war in June, 1950.

Heavy loss of life was feared among the refugees from the northern provinces who had settled on the outskirts of the arsenal.

At least 40 houses were reported destroyed. The flimsy dwellings crumbled like matchboxes as flying debris sprayed the area.

New Deadline Set

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The armed forces again have extended the period during which men can enlist in the services after taking preinduction physical examinations for the draft.

The new deadline is Dec. 31. It had been Nov. 30.

Allied Airmen Sight 9,200 Enemy Trucks

Firing Resumed By U. N. Artillery

SEOUL, Korea, Friday, Nov. 30 (AP) —The Fifth Air Force today reported sighting the astonishing total of 9,200 Communist trucks last night in North Korea. This is about double the previous record.

The conclusion was inescapable—the Reds were swinging into a big buildup as action died to a whisper along the fighting front.

The Allied airmen, almost supfeited with targets, attacked more than 3,500 of the trucks and claimed 300 were destroyed.

Air War Hot And Heavy

The air war raged hot and heavy over North Korea, with the Reds sending out a record one-day total of 300 to 320 Russian-made MIG jets.

The Allied artillery that opened up Thursday afternoon in the west ended a 36-hour respite. During the strange lull, Chinese soldiers had played ball games and lit bonfires within range of the silent Allied guns.

The Reds took cover again when the artillery blazed anew, but there were only a few long-range, casual patrol clashes, and as of Thursday midnight no infantry was reported in action.

On the truce conference front, negotiatiors were snarled anew over the issue of troop security during an armistice. They have until Dec. 27 to conclude an armistice. Otherwise Tuesday's agreement on a provisional buffer zone along the present frontline will not be binding. Both sides long have agreed that hostilities will continue until an armistice is signed.

Van Fleet Explains

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the Eighth Army, explained Wednesday's frontline lull as the apparent result of "misinterpretation" of a basic directive he issued to his troops.

This secret directive was generally believed to embody instructions not to fight unless attacked, but Van Fleet said: "There is no mention made in the text of ordering a cease-fire in Korea."

His clarifying instructions also were kept secret, as he said his directives "are related to future operations."

The artillery firing followed his clarification order, however.

AP Correspondent Milo Farneti quoted officers on the western front as saying they had received new "shoot to kill" instructions Thursday. This apparently referred to the clarifying order and primarily concerned artillery action.

Red Troop Withdrawal Proposal Perils Talks

MUNSAN, Korea, Friday, Nov. 30 (AP)—A Red proposal for gradual withdrawal of foreign troops threatened today to throw the Korean armistice talks back about where they were when they began last July 10.

The debate resumed at Panmunjom today at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Thursday, EST) with war in a state of some uncertainty since a provisional buffer zone was decided last Tuesday. Early withdrawal of foreign troops again has become the core of the Communist position.

When the talks began last July the Reds demanded "immediate" withdrawal of all foreign troops. The Allies forced them to abandon this on the grounds it was a political question. They agreed then that it would be the fifth and last item of discussion and would consist merely of recommendations to home governments for later decision.

Texas Oil Heir King Weds Egyptian Dancer

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 29 (AP) — Texas Oil Heir Sheppard "Abdullah" King was married today to Egyptian Dancer Samia Gamal in a Moslem religious ceremony.

A turbaned sheikh presided at the signing of the marriage contract. King, who became a Moslem and assumed the name of Abdullah, repeated in Arabic — with a Texas drawl — an expression of faith in Allah and a promise to give Samia $30,000.

Red-haired King and his dark-haired bride will live in her apartment in swanky suburban Zamalek until they leave for the United States late in December.

Frigid Germans, Eying Empty Coal Bins, Blast Allied Export Policy

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, Germany—(AP)—The Germans are boiling mad at the Allies over their cold homes.

Despite postwar record coal production, the average German will get about a ton of coal to heat his house during the winter. He'll be lucky to get any at all to keep his store warm if he's a small businessman.

The big Ruhr industries—core of Germany's economy—are devouring coal supplies as fast as they are delivered.

"There are no reserve coal stocks available for domestic use," reports the Federal Economics Ministry.

Industry leaders claim some factories are unable to take American orders for defense goods because of the coal shortage.

From housewives to industrialists, Germans lambast the occupation powers for frigid homes and industrial slowdowns. They claim there would be plenty of coal if Germany were not compelled to export so much.

West German mines hit a postwar peak of 10,490,000 tons in October. During the last three months of this year, the Germans are required to sell neighboring countries 6,200,000 tons of coal. Compulsory exports during the three previous months were the same.

The seven-nation International Ruhr Authority tells the Germans how much they must ship to other countries and what the price will be.

The U. S., France, Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and West Germany are members but the Germans place the blame for the authority's actions on the big occupation powers.

The German delegate, Vice Chancellor Franz Bluecher, quit in a huff recently when the six other members refused to curtail German coal exports.

The Germans argue that their West European neighbors are draining off German coal at a fixed low price—and often resell it at a handsome profit. The Germans get $14 a ton for export coal. Meanwhile, they claim, German industry has been forced to buy 4,000,000 tons of American coal at $26 a ton during the last half year to keep factories running.

Allied officials retort the Germans themselves approved high coal exports before the Korean war brought a world coal shortage. Now, while other nations are shifting to defense production, the Germans are still producing largely for the world market.

With Europe facing a coal deficit of 8,000,000 tons during the first quarter of 1952, Allied leaders say German exports of coal must remain high.

But cold homes and stores strike at almost every German—and Allied officials concede feeling is running high against the West on the coal issue.

One answer is to gouge more coal out of the rich Ruhr valley. It now produces 370,000 tons a day. The Allies and the Germans believe output can be stepped up to 450,000 tons a day through mechanization, more miners' housing and premium plans for extra production.

But this will take time and money. Six years after the war, there are still fewer miners digging the Ruhr pits than in 1938.

The meeting is for officials and workers from all Maryland counties and Baltimore, as well as some from Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Representatives of various service clubs and organizations will also be present.

Gambling Tax Stamps Deadline Tonight

The deadline for obtaining a gambling license under the government's new wagering tax law, which went into effect November 1, is midnight tonight.

Yesterday, the Cumberland office of the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue reported no gamblers had returned a form and paid $50 for a license. The law also requires the payments of 10 per cent on all bets.

In nearby West Virginia, 39 gamblers have been issued government tax stamps on that profession. Applications for 22 others are being processed. The total is expected to run "over 100."

Fluoridation Of Public Water Supplies Backed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A special committee of the National Research Council has endorsed the fluoridation of public water supplies to reduce tooth decay.

Properly controlled, the addition of fluorides to drinking water which lacks these chemicals appears to be both safe and effective, the report stated.

Hailed by some as reducing dental decay by two-thirds, and opposed by others as of questionable value and possibly dangerous, fluoridation has been a controversial subject in many cities throughout the country.

The council's committee was appointed last spring to study the evidence on both sides and give an impartial answer.

The committee, while endorsing fluoridation, cautioned that its safety depends on proper controls and its effectiveness on proper selection of water supplies for treatment.

Fluoridation should be undertaken only under expert dental and engineering supervision by state boards of health, the committee recommended.

The National Research Council is a federation of scientific societies set up under a congressional charter before World War I. The fluoridation report was released by Dr. M. C. Winternitz, chairman of the council's division of medical sciences.

George Washington Library Back In Business In Berlin

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—The George Washington Memorial Library here is back in business again after surviving such perils as Hitler's displeasure and Allied bombing.

The library was a dream of Leon Doninian, then U. S. consul-general in Stuttgart, who interested Germans and Americans in its creation. One of those who helped was Baltimore's H. L. Mencken.

In 1932 it was opened, operating in connection with the Technical High School in Stuttgart, and in the following years it grew in popularity among Germans, both young and old.

Its main job was to spread the American story among Germans, supervised by a board of directors, composed half of Germans, half of Americans.

When Adolf Hitler's Nazis took over the state, the George Washington Memorial Library was looked on with suspicion and at one time during the Third Reich it was slated for abolition.

But Dr. L. Rothmann, director of the Technical High School, went to bat for it. With a combination of persuasiveness and tact, he managed to keep it in operation.

Then, in a bombing raid on Stuttgart in 1944, explosives rained down and blasted part of the library.

It stood gaunt among the bomb ruins of the city until 1948 when Consul Dana Hodgson wrote to the U. S. State Department for permission to re-constitute the board of directors so that the library could be once more part of Stuttgart's cultural life.

Hodgson died, before the request was granted, but his successor, Consul-General James R. Wilkinson, established the library board once more.

Later Wilkinson was assigned to Hong Kong, and the job of getting the library back on its feet was passed on to Patrick Mallon, present consul-general in Stuttgart.

On its half-American, half-German board, the U. S. side is composed of Conrad Bareiss, an American businessman who lives in Switzerland, Dwight Horner, of the U. S. State Commission in Stuttgart, and Marcus L. Hoover, U. S. resident officer here.

The Stepinac Story

Reports from Belgrade and Rome indicate that Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia is about to make a second offer of freedom to Archbishop Aloysius Stepinac. The Catholic Primate of Yugoslavia has been imprisoned since 1946, when he was convicted as a "war criminal" on charges of collaborating with the Nazis in World War II.

Sentenced on October 11, 1946, to 16 years' imprisonment at hard labor, Archbishop Stepinac has been reported to be enjoying the privileges of a special prisoner. At least, he has been interviewed by members of the press in his Lepoglava prison cell. If released in the near future, he would presumably be allowed to live as a private citizen and clergyman in his native village of Krasic. Belgrade would undoubtedly refuse to recognize him as the Roman Catholic Primate of Yugoslavia.

The Archbishop was convicted on 14 charges. Nine other priests, including his secretary, were convicted at the same time. The Zagreb court confiscated the Archbishop's property and deprived him of civil rights.

Twelve of the charges against Archbishop Stepinac were of collaboration with the Axis powers and their puppet Croatian state. The other two charges were of supporting anti-Tito groups, including terrorists. The Archbishop admitted blessing Ustashis—leaders of the pro-Axis government in Croatia—and attending Ustashi functions. He denied the major charges and maintained that his conscience was clear.

The Archbishop's last pastoral letter had disclosed that the Tito regime had been trying to induce the Yugoslav church to sever relations with the Vatican. Stepinac later accused the Tito government of killing priests, and he voiced fears that the Catholic Church in Yugoslavia would be annihilated.

Three days after Stepinac was sentenced, the Vatican excommunicated all Catholics who had "concurred physically or morally" in his conviction. Tito was stripped of his church rights.

Objections to the Stepinac trial were raised by Acting Secretary of State Acheson as well as by church groups in the United States. The Stepinac arrest stepped up the anti-Yugoslav sentiment created here when two unarmed American transport planes were shot down over Yugoslavia in August, 1946. Yugoslavia eventually paid an indemnity of $150,000 to the families of U. S. airmen who had been killed.

In June, 1948, the break between Tito and Stalin became apparent. Since then, as relations between Yugoslavia and the United States bettered, the eventual release of the Archbishop has been predicted more and more often. Roman Catholic, Orthodox, and Protestant leaders in Belgrade agreed in September, 1950, that the Tito regime had relaxed its control over church affairs.

The Yugoslav government in July, 1950, said it had offered to free Stepinac if he would leave the country, but that the Vatican had rejected the offer. Later that month, Senator McMahon (D., Conn.) conferred with Tito in Belgrade and urged the release of the Archbishop as a measure to improve Yugoslav relations with the West.

Soviet Fight On Religion

At the current sessions of the UN General Assembly in Paris, the United States is expected to bring up again the suppression of religion and the persecution of ecclesiastics behind the Iron Curtain. After all, the peace treaties with Hungary, Bulgaria, and Romania pledge those countries to protect the fundamental freedoms of the individual.

If accusations are made that those freedoms are being violated, the ranking American, British and Soviet diplomats in the country concerned are, under the treaties, to pass on the charges. The next step provided is for the accused nation to appoint a representative to an international commission set up to consider the charges. But in the past nothing could be done under these treaty provisions because the Soviet bloc insisted that the issue was purely a domestic affair.

Some of the worst religious persecution in the Soviet satellite states has been visited on Roman Catholics. For these the Vatican of course can speak. Other religious martyrs behind the Iron Curtain are so-called Orthodox Catholics, and the various Orthodox bodies recognize no extra-national religious authority like that exercised by the Pope as head of the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

When the Communists first came to power in Russia, they followed the philosophy of Marx and Lenin in forbidding religious instruction, banning church worship, and promoting atheism. Later, they found it more expedient to sanction church activities wherever they had succeeded in making a church subservient to them.

Cross-Border Swindling

For nine years the Securities and Exchange Commission has been seeking to bring about extradition from Canada of swindlers who have made a rich harvest out of selling bogus securities, mostly mining stocks, to Americans. Some of these swindlers are themselves Americans, driven from New York and other cities of the United States by the rigidity of blue sky laws.

Once in 1942, and again in 1945, conventions were signed between the United States and Canada for the extradition of these swindlers, who of late are alleged to have been mulcting American "investors" out of as much as $1,000,000 a week, but neither was ratified by the Canadian Parliament, after which it would have required ratification by the United States Senate.

Now a third convention has been signed, it is announced by the State Department, which feels it was drafted in a form to make ratification easy in both countries. By it offenders, who have used the long distance telephone to intrigue prospective customers, would be extradited to stand trial in federal courts in the respective communities where their "investing" victims lived.

One reason why it would seem that the Canadian Parliament will no longer ignore this extradition plan is that under the stress of world conditions the U. S. has been drawn still closer to the country with which it has long had an unfortified border extending more than 3,000 miles.

An instance of this is the vast radar network to guard the Arctic frontier from Newfoundland to Alaska in which the United States and Canada are partners.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Common Cold

Susceptibility to colds varies. Some folks are fortunate and virtually never have one; others encounter five or six a year. The individual who is tense, nervous, or underweight, is more likely to be afflicted and vice versa. Those with chronic sinus trouble or allergies also are more pre-disposed.

Most common colds are brought on by a filtrable virus. In others, especially in babies and young children, bacteria like the streptococcus, pneumococcus, and staphylococcus play a role. The cold itself is not serious and usually is well under control in four or five days. It is the complications that are troublesome, particularly when the disease spreads to sinuses, ears, or lungs. We have the sulfonamides, penicillin, and the newer antibiotics to thank for keeping down such complications and it is here that these remedies are of value rather than in treating the cold itself. They are not needed for ordinary infections and for this and other reasons rarely are advocated in treating the common cold. The drugs are potent and there is danger of toxic reactions. In addition, more than one person has developed sensitivity to penicillin after using it for a relatively mild infection. This in turn might deprive him of its benefit at some future time when it would prove life saving. This plan is similar to our conservation program: the idea is not to exploit our present resources lest we jeopardize the future.

Going to bed and staying there offers one of our best remedies for a cold, not only to hasten cure but to protect others. For relief of discomfort we have aspirin, Dover's powder, or phenacetin mixtures. There is no special diet to follow but the foods recommended usually include fruit juices, soups, tea, milk, cream, butter, eggs, vegetables, salads, and meat, fish, and fowl. Liquids unlimited should be the rule. If the room is dry a steam inhalator will help moisten the membranes of the nose and mouth; this puts them in better condition to heal.

Many claims have been made for the antihistamines but these drugs are losing their popularity gradually for several reasons. In the first place the common cold does not have a single cause and the allergic aspect is only one part of the process. Furthermore, symptoms vary with the origin of the illness, the season, and the degree of susceptibility. It is agreed that those manifestations brought on by allergy are relieved by the antihistamines but they will not help distress stemming from viral or bacterial invasion. The products also may induce troublesome reactions such as dizziness or drowsiness; these may lead to accidents among auto drivers or operators of complex machinery. As predicted, the antihistamines are not the panaceas the manufacturers have tried to lead us to believe. What new drug will they introduce next?

Bed rest is not only a good remedy but an excellent preventive. Many have found themselves more susceptible to colds when they become fatigued through staying up late several night in a row. Working in a dusty environment has a similar effect. Over-indulgence in alcohol lowers resistance and also influences adversely the membranes of the nose and throat. Beyond this there is no sure-fire method of warding off colds. Vaccines are not the answer nor is there any evidence that vitamins are effective along this line.

DAILY WINE

R. J. A. writes: Would a quart of sherry a day be too much for a woman of 46?

REPLY

This is an individual problem as some individuals can tolerate this much wine without damaging their health. Many French and Italians have lived to a ripe old age drinking wine like water. Wine contains calories and also stimulates appetite, hence obesity may be encouraged. In addition, drinking may become a habit and now and then has a harmful effect when the drinker forgets to eat.

ELIMINATE OFFENDER

Mrs. J. S. writes: What is the usual treatment for contact dermatitis?

REPLY

If the offending agent can be eradicated, the skin outbreak will vanish. Meanwhile a soothing ointment or calamine lotion will help allay itching. An antihistaminic ointment also may prove useful.

ANNUAL VISITATION

M. B. writes: Every year I have an attack of gout. Do you think that if I eliminated proteins from my diet between attacks the disorder would disappear?

REPLY

This might help but there is no need to deny yourself all proteins. It is the foods high in purins that cause trouble. These include meat, fish, and fowl, especially kidneys, liver, brains, sweetbreads, anchovies, herring, and sardines.

Russian Attack On Yugoslavia Gravest Threat; Release Of Archbishop Stepinac Was Problem For Tito; Acheson Mistakes Ear Plugs For Sleeping Pills

WASHINGTON — Meeting with the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington last month, General Eisenhower indicated that the greatest danger of war was a possible attack on Yugoslavia by Soviet satellites next spring.

If this happens, U. S. defense planners have figured the Red armies are almost certain to strike through the Ljubljana Gap in Northern Yugoslavia, then rush down the Dalmatian coast to Sovietized Albania. This not only would cut off most Allied supplies sent to the aid of Yugoslavia, but would put Moscow within a few minutes' bombing distance of Rome and the Vatican.

Thus the entire Adriatic seacoast of Italy from Venice to Brindici would face a Red waterfront, and the Italian population, one-third Communist, inevitably would be subject to sabotage, upheaval and eventual revolution.

These were some of the factors I had in mind in urging Marshal Tito to cut red tape and release Archbishop Stepinac right away. For this now famous churchman had become not only a football of politics but a symbol of persecution, which was seriously hurting relations between our two countries.

Actually I knew, from having spent two years in Yugoslavia directing Quaker relief work after World War I, also from my visit there last winter, that there is little religious discrimination in Yugoslavia. I have served on the same hospital board with Moslems, Orthodox and Catholics, seen them work together and live together. Probably there is more tolerance there than here.

Symbol Of Bitterness

Furthermore, the National Catholic Welfare Council in cooperation with CARE picked a Catholic attorney, John A. Zvetina of Chicago, who speaks the language and who made a thorough survey of Yugoslavia last September to see whether CARE food packages were being distributed fairly as between Catholic and non-Catholic, Communist and non-Communist. He returned with a highly favorable report.

Despite this, it was only natural that the continued incarceration of Archbishop Stepinac should rankle many Catholics in this country.

In releasing him, however, Tito faced a domestic problam which, I regret to say, was comparable perhaps to that of Senator Russell of Georgia if he were suddenly to reverse himself and vote for the FEPC for Southern Negroes. For in Orthodox Serbia the religious massacres that took place under Hitler, and for which Archbishop Stepinac was imprisoned, still cause great bitterness. It is charged that 700,000 Serbs were killed in these church massacres because they refused to desert the Orthodox faith.

What complicated Tito's political problem was that Serbia is that part of the Yugoslav confederation where he is least popular, where he has to gain strength rather than lose it. In Serbia, Archbishop Stepinac has become a burning, bitter symbol. Thus Tito, while winning friends in the U.S.A., knew that he would have to make some enemies at home.

The fact remains that, despite these misunderstandings, Yugoslavia is more vital to the military defense of the Vatican than any other country in the world. For, should Red armies take the Adriatic coast of Yugoslavia, it would be only a short time before Italy must come under Moscow's wing.

Acheson's Ear Plugs

When Secretary of State Acheson first arrived in Paris, he found his room over an entrance where the loudspeaker below was busy, day and night, calling chauffeurs and their cars. Sleep was impossible and Mrs. Acheson went out to buy some ear plugs.

Returning half an hour later, she found her husband asleep. Carefully, she laid two old-fashioned red, wax-and-wool ear plugs on the bedside table near the Secretary of State.

Later and much to her dismay she came back to find him trying to swallow them.

He thought they were sleeping pills!

NOTE—At Paris, Acheson has again been talking about resigning. Physically tired from the long-winded diplomatic debates, discouraged over the lack of UN progress, Dean has forcefully realized that every politician arriving in Paris beats a track to Eisenhower's door, while virtually ignoring the Secretary of State. Feeling that he is a liability, Acheson has been talking of handing in his resignation so as to be out of the way before the political campaign gets started.

Wilson's Production

Appointment of Roger L. Putnam to the key job of economic stabilizer is the first sign that the White House is getting fed up with Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson; also that Truman is listening to new Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney.

Wilson had been telling associates that he would name the new economis stabilizer. He was particularly anxious to name him because it was the friction between Wilson and Eric Johnston that caused the latter's resignation. Despite this, the President put in his own man.

Furthermore, the Democrat he named, ex-Mayor Putnam of Springfield, Mass., is a friend of Democratic Chairman McKinney. The two worked closely together in the Office of War Contract Negotiation, both are bank officials, and Putnam is also president of the Package Machinery Co., a director of the Perkins Machine and Gear Co., and the Van Norman Co. He also has the unique distinction of being the sole trustee of the Lowell Observatory of Flagstaff, Ariz.

The President got to know Charles E. Wilson when he was vice chairman of the old Ward Production Board, at which time Truman was chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee. Wilson, however, didn't have to take the brickbats and the responsibilities Chairman Donald Nelson did. Now that he is in the No. 1 spot, he hasn't been able either to stand the gaff or get out production.

Real fact is that U. S. military production is so bad that it can hardly be published.

Her father's estate was left largely to her mother during Mrs. Roosevelt's lifetime . . . . Congressman Sam Yorty of California has been making gleeful speeches in which he refers to California's Senator Knowland as the "Senator from Formosa." He says even Republicans Californians aren't much interested in Formosa . . . . Some of the Eisenhower backers are a little dubious about too much Dewey influence in the new Ike setup. They distrust a remark by Kansas' Harry Darby: "Everything must clear with New York."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Somebody has figured out a way to put the Communists on the spot in the Korean truce negotiations and yet maintain the theory that no cease-fire is in effect or likely to be till an armistice is signed.

But, for practical purposes, if the Communist Chinese and North Koreans do not conduct offensive operations, the UN forces will operate on a defensive basis, too.

No agreement is required to bring about such a stabilized condition on the battlefield. All that is necessary is world-wide publicity stating that one side will not move forward on the ground. Then it becomes necessary for the other side to accept such a state of affairs or to continue offense operations.

The denial from Key West, Fla., that the President had ordered a cease-fire is correct. Nobody here ordered any such thing but, when it comes to selecting what strategy is to be used on the battlefield, the supreme commander—in this case, General Ridgway—can adopt any tactics of restraint that he desires and is not committed to them a moment longer than he cares to remain committed.

Not Taking Advantage

The maneuver back of a self-restraint strategy is clear enough. The United Nations has been accused of carrying on a war of "aggression." The Communist propaganda broadcasts have insisted that the UN negotiators were seeking to prolong the war and didn't have a sincere desire to make a truce. By adopting measures of restraint in the matter of offense, the UN establishes clearly the principle that, while the talks have a chance of success, there will be no effort to take advantage of the situation to move the battle line farther than has been agreed upon.

As a matter of fact, there is nothing to be gained by risking lives in any operations of offense if at the end of the 30 days of negotiation an agreement will have been reached on a cease-fire, because at that time the battle line is to be the same one that has already been agreed upon pending the disposition of the two points in dispute—the exchange of prisoners and the problem of inspection of possible buildups behind the opposing forces.

If, at the end of 30 days, the two items have not been settled, then the fighting goes on to another battle line, but whatever could be gained in territory during the 30 days would not be worth risking any casualties to get.

This policy is understandable if it be conceded that the United Nations members are merely trying to liquidate the Korean affair with the least damage to human life and with no regard whatsoever for the possible consequences of a stalemated war and stalemated peace.

If, as a consequence of an armistice, the Communists accept the doctrine that they are supposed to have been defeated, that their aggression is presumed to have been repelled and that hence no further aggression will occur, then a settlement at the present battle line will have the effects claimed for it by its proponents.

No Less Tension

If, on the other hand, it is an uneasy truce with threats of a recurring war and with large numbers of American boys indefinitely bogged down guarding the battle line in Korea, it will be apparent that the psychological impression which the exponents of a "truce without peace" have been expecting to result will vanish from the interna-

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Free Hand

Thus far, in the widespread discussion of Senator Robert A. Taft's book, "A Foreign Policy for Americans," little has been said about his basic proposition, which is that the policy must be a restoration of a free hand.

Up to 1917, the United States was never what the internationalists have come to call isolationist. This country, from the days when Benjamin Franklin and John Jay were sent to Europe to deal with foreign powers has had close and intimate relations with European and Asiatic countries, but the guiding principle was friendship, amity, cooperation but no entanglements. We did very well with that program up to Woodrow Wilson. Then we got entangled.

During the period of non-entanglement our foreign policy was premised upon three basic prinicples:

1. The full sovereignty of the United States must and will be respected at any cost. To assert this principle we went into the War of 1812; we asserted ourselves against the Barbary pirates; we established a line of precedents throughout the world that rights enjoyed by any nationals anywhere were to be enjoyed by Americans everywhere. (The Open Door policy).

2. The principle was established that while the form of government accepted by a people is strictly their own choice (Declaration of Independence), the two American continents were not subject to further colonization by European nations (the Monroe Doctrine) nor would new monarchies be tolerated (our attitude toward Maximilian in Mexico).

This was of the greatest importance, for it freed our boundaries from entanglements in European dynastic and trade wars.

3. The principle was asserted and established that the lines of access to the United States had to be kept open (freedom of the seas). This was particularly important for a young nation, for if we had recognized that any one country controlled the seas, the United States could never have developed its vast industrial strength. It would have suffered from a condition called in Asia, semi-colonialism.

This free hand has been growing steadily less free since Woodrow Wilson moved the United States into the affairs of Europe. Now our hand is no longer free; it is shackled.

Senator Taft says of this:

"Our traditional policy of neutrality and non-interference with other nations was based on the principle that this policy was the best way to avoid disputes with other nations and to maintain the liberty of this country without war. From the days of George Washington that has been the policy of the United States. It has never been isolationism; but it has always avoided alliances and interference in foreign quarrels, as a preventive against possible war, and it has always opposed any commitment by the United States, in advance, to take any military action outside of our territory. It would leave us free to interfere or not interfere according to whether we consider the case of sufficiently vital interest to the liberty of this country. It was the policy of the free hand."

Taft's view is that the United States can afford to depart from this principle only if an "effective international organization" is established. He does not believe that the United Nations is such, giving as his reason:

"The United Nations has failed to protect our peace, I believe, because it was organized on an unsound basis with a veto power in five nations and is based, in fact, on the joint power of such nations, effective only so long as they agree. I believe the concept can only be successful if based on a rule of law and justice between nations and willingness on the part of all nations to abide by the decisions of an impartial tribunal."

While many have criticized Senator Taft's position on foreign affairs by picking on details of statement, I have sought for his basic philosophy, and I think this is it: that while it could be advantageous to this country, in the present circumstances of the world, to sacrifice a degree of its free hand, the risk should only be taken if an international organization is based on law and not upon the political whimsicalities of those who can use the veto.

"A rule of law and justice" is the phrase he employs. The rule of law we know in this country; it safeguards us in our own nation from the tyranny of politicians from the rule of the majority and the pressure of the minority. As we depart from it, our own administration becomes corrupt and our people fearful. If the rule of law can truly be applied to nations, a way might be found to international peace.

Matter Of Fact

Scope Of The Trouble

WASHINGTON

One of the best indices of the present relationship between American business and American politics is the condition of the Washington lawyers, whose tribe is increasing and growing fatter at a remarkable rate. Why they increase, and how fat they can get, is suggested by an experience of John J. McCloy's.

When McCloy was winding up his remarkable service at the War Department, he was offered a Washington law partnership with a guaranteed income of $350,000 a year. The rather obscure man who made this fantastic offer had formerly been an able but middle-grade government official. He did his law business in a small suite of offices with one or two clerks and two or three stenographers. But in proof of his good faith, he showed McCloy a list of retainers from large corporations amounting, altogether, to about $1,000,000 annually.

"The money's nothing," he told McCloy. "If you don't take it the Treasury will. And you don't have to worry about doing anything you won't like to earn it. These businessmen pay me because I know my way around the government, and they don't. There's nothing wrong in showing people the ropes. That's all there is to it."

McCloy preferred to go into one of the great New York law firms —the vast law factories with national reputations, which in fact make smaller net profits than several small Washington law office. But McCloy's old-fashioned finickiness has nothing to do with the moral of this tale, which is, simply, that businessmen will now pay almost anything to ease their dealings with the government.

Reasons Are Obvious

The reasons for this are obvious enough. In the last 20 years, the government has grown so enormous that it is like a labyrinth. It has also assumed so many novel functions and powers that government decisions now affect the welfare of almost all businesses. Guides through the labyrinth are therefore in urgent demand; and this is the source of the influence business.

The influence business has many permutations and combinations, not all of them evil. You can sell knowledge which is also influence, like McCloy's friend, who simply found out which official had the power to decide his clients' problems, and then arrange for his clients to meet those officials. Or you can sell this kind of influence, plus a little or a lot of improper political influence. Or you can even sell influence which you have not got. This reporter knows of one great corporation executive who paid $5,000 for a chance to appear before a Senate committee when the senators had already decided, on their own hook, to invite him to testify.

The more astute and richer corporations not only pay generous retainers to representatives in Washington; they also seek to strengthen the hand of their ambassadors in the capital by making large political contributions.

Sometimes the campaign funds go to individual politicians, for a sympathetic senator is a very useful thing. Sometimes they are used to nourish powerful local political organizations—an unpublished "Life" survey showed that in 1948, more than half the state governments were dominated in this manner by various large business interests. And regularly, every four years, the contributions of the businessmen provide the main sinews of war for the Democratic and Republican Presidential campaigns.

Under Heavy Pressure

Many of these corporate contributions are made through dummies, and written off as business expenses. The real object of the contributors is almost invariably to have sure friends at court, when regulations, or franchises, or tax matters, or other things of importance to businessmen are under governmental consideration. If you like to think of it that way, the whole process amounts to open corruption openly arrived at, in which the politicians and the businessmen are jointly implicated.

Yet in the present circumstances, both businessmen and poiticians are under almost irresistible pressure. The politicians cannot meet the steeply mounting cost of their campaigns without the contributions of the businessmen. Equally, the businessmen feel themselves at the mercy of the monster government. They are inevitably tempted, when a few thousand dollars wisely invested in political contributions may pay a return in millions, or tens of milions, or even, perhaps, hundreds of millions. And these are the sums at stake today in the government's decisions of issues affecting individual businesses.

The nub of the problem, in short, is that contributions which corporations hardly feel are matters of life and death to campaigning politicians; while political decisions the public hardly notices may mean severe losses or immense profits to the corporations. In this situation, moral lectures are mere prating; for the corruption will go on as long as the temptation is so great. And the only way to solve the problem is to remove, or at least to lessen, the temptation.

The Stepinac Story

Reports from Belgrade and Rome indicate that Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia is about to make a second offer of freedom to Archbishop Aloysius Stepinac. The Catholic Primate of Yugoslavia has been imprisoned since 1946, when he was convicted as a "war criminal" on charges of collaborating with the Nazis in World War II.

Sentenced on October 11, 1946, to 16 years' imprisonment at hard labor, Archbishop Stepinac has been reported to be enjoying the privileges of a special prisoner. At least, he has been interviewed by members of the press in his Lepoglava prison cell. If released in the near future, he would presumably be allowed to live as a private citizen and clergyman in his native village of Krasic. Belgrade would undoubtedly refuse to recognize him as the Roman Catholic Primate of Yugoslavia.

The Archbishop was convicted on 14 charges. Nine other priests, including his secretary, were convicted at the same time. The Zagreb court confiscated the Archbishop's property and deprived him of civil rights.

Twelve of the charges against Archbishop Stepinac were of collaboration with the Axis powers and their puppet Croatian state. The other two charges were of supporting anti-Tito groups, including terrorists. The Archbishop admitted blessing Ustashis—leaders of the pro-Axis government in Croatia—and attending Ustashi functions. He denied the major charges and maintained that his conscience was clear.

The Archbishop's last pastoral letter had disclosed that the Tito regime had been trying to induce the Yugoslav church to sever relations with the Vatican. Stepinac later accused the Tito government of killing priests, and he voiced fears that the Catholic Church in Yugoslavia would be annihilated.

Three days after Stepinac was sentenced, the Vatican excommunicated all Catholics who had "concurred physically or morally" in his conviction. Tito was stripped of his church rights.

Objections to the Stepinac trial were raised by Acting Secretary of State Acheson as well as by church groups in the United States. The Stepinac arrest stepped up the anti-Yugoslav sentiment created here when two unarmed American transport planes were shot down over Yugoslavia in August, 1946. Yugoslavia eventually paid an indemnity of $150,000 to the families of U. S. airmen who had been killed.

In June, 1948, the break between Tito and Stalin became apparent. Since then, as relations between Yugoslavia and the United States bettered, the eventual release of the Archbishop has been predicted more and more often. Roman Catholic, Orthodox, and Protestant leaders in Belgrade agreed in September, 1950, that the Tito regime had relaxed its control over church affairs.

The Yugoslav government in July, 1950, said it had offered to free Stepinac if he would leave the country, but that the Vatican had rejected the offer. Later that month, Senator McMahon (D., Conn.) conferred with Tito in Belgrade and urged the release of the Archbishop as a measure to improve Yugoslav relations with the West.

Soviet Fight On Religion

At the current sessions of the UN General Assembly in Paris, the United States is expected to bring up again the suppression of religion and the persecution of ecclesiastics behind the Iron Curtain. After all, the peace treaties with Hungary, Bulgaria, and Romania pledge those countries to protect the fundamental freedoms of the individual.

If accusations are made that those freedoms are being violated, the ranking American, British and Soviet diplomats in the country concerned are, under the treaties, to pass on the charges. The next step provided is for the accused nation to appoint a representative to an international commission set up to consider the charges. But in the past nothing could be done under these treaty provisions because the Soviet bloc insisted that the issue was purely a domestic affair.

Some of the worst religious persecution in the Soviet satellite states has been visited on Roman Catholics. For these the Vatican of course can speak. Other religious martyrs behind the Iron Curtain are so-called Orthodox Catholics, and the various Orthodox bodies recognize no extra-national religious authority like that exercised by the Pope as head of the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

When the Communists first came to power in Russia, they followed the philosophy of Marx and Lenin in forbidding religious instruction, banning church worship, and promoting atheism. Later, they found it more expedient to sanction church activities wherever they had succeeded in making a church subservient to them.

Cross-Border Swindling

For nine years the Securities and Exchange Commission has been seeking to bring about extradition from Canada of swindlers who have made a rich harvest out of selling bogus securities, mostly mining stocks, to Americans. Some of these swindlers are themselves Americans, driven from New York and other cities of the United States by the rigidity of blue sky laws.

Once in 1942, and again in 1945, conventions were signed between the United States and Canada for the extradition of these swindlers, who of late are alleged to have been mulcting American "investors" out of as much as $1,000,000 a week, but neither was ratified by the Canadian Parliament, after which it would have required ratification by the United States Senate.

Now a third convention has been signed, it is announced by the State Department, which feels it was drafted in a form to make ratification easy in both countries. By it offenders, who have used the long distance telephone to intrigue prospective customers, would be extradited to stand trial in federal courts in the respective communities where their "investing" victims lived.

One reason why it would seem that the Canadian Parliament will no longer ignore this extradition plan is that under the stress of world conditions the U. S. has been drawn still closer to the country with which it has long had an unfortified border extending more than 3,000 miles.

An instance of this is the vast radar network to guard the Arctic frontier from Newfoundland to Alaska in which the United States and Canada are partners.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Common Cold

Susceptibility to colds varies. Some folks are fortunate and virtually never have one; others encounter five or six a year. The individual who is tense, nervous, or underweight, is more likely to be afflicted and vice versa. Those with chronic sinus trouble or allergies also are more pre-disposed.

Most common colds are brought on by a filtrable virus. In others, especially in babies and young children, bacteria like the streptococcus, pneumococcus, and staphylococcus play a role. The cold itself is not serious and usually is well under control in four or five days. It is the complications that are troublesome, particularly when the disease spreads to sinuses, ears, or lungs. We have the sulfonamides, penicillin, and the newer antibiotics to thank for keeping down such complications and it is here that these remedies are of value rather than in treating the cold itself. They are not needed for ordinary infections and for this and other reasons rarely are advocated in treating the common cold. The drugs are potent and there is danger of toxic reactions. In addition, more than one person has developed sensitivity to penicillin after using it for a relatively mild infection. This in turn might deprive him of its benefit at some future time when it would prove life saving. This plan is similar to our conservation program: the idea is not to exploit our present resources lest we jeopardize the future.

Going to bed and staying there offers one of our best remedies for a cold, not only to hasten cure but to protect others. For relief of discomfort we have aspirin, Dover's powder, or phenacetin mixtures. There is no special diet to follow but the foods recommended usually include fruit juices, soups, tea, milk, cream, butter, eggs, vegetables, salads, and meat, fish, and fowl. Liquids unlimited should be the rule. If the room is dry a steam inhalator will help moisten the membranes of the nose and mouth; this puts them in better condition to heal.

Many claims have been made for the antihistamines but these drugs are losing their popularity gradually for several reasons. In the first place the common cold does not have a single cause and the allergic aspect is only one part of the process. Furthermore, symptoms vary with the origin of the illness, the season, and the degree of susceptibility. It is agreed that those manifestations brought on by allergy are relieved by the antihistamines but they will not help distress stemming from viral or bacterial invasion. The products also may induce troublesome reactions such as dizziness or drowsiness; these may lead to accidents among auto drivers or operators of complex machinery. As predicted, the antihistamines are not the panaceas the manufacturers have tried to lead us to believe. What new drug will they introduce next?

Bed rest is not only a good remedy but an excellent preventive. Many have found themselves more susceptible to colds when they become fatigued through staying up late several night in a row. Working in a dusty environment has a similar effect. Over-indulgence in alcohol lowers resistance and also influences adversely the membranes of the nose and throat. Beyond this there is no sure-fire method of warding off colds. Vaccines are not the answer nor is there any evidence that vitamins are effective along this line.

Returning half an hour later, she found her husband asleep. Carefully, she laid two old-fashioned red, wax-and-wool ear plugs on the bedside table near the Secretary of State.

Later and much to her dismay she came back to find him trying to swallow them.

He thought they were sleeping pills!

NOTE—At Paris, Acheson has again been talking about resigning. Physically tired from the long-winded diplomatic debates, discouraged over the lack of UN progress, Dean has forcefully realized that every politician arriving in Paris beats a track to Eisenhower's door, while virtually ignoring the Secretary of State. Feeling that he is a liability, Acheson has been talking of handing in his resignation so as to be out of the way before the political campaign gets started.

Wilson's Production

Appointment of Roger L. Putnam to the key job of economic stabilizer is the first sign that the White House is getting fed up with Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson; also that Truman is listening to new Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney.

Wilson had been telling associates that he would name the new economis stabilizer. He was particularly anxious to name him because it was the friction between Wilson and Eric Johnston that caused the latter's resignation. Despite this, the President put in his own man.

Furthermore, the Democrat he named, ex-Mayor Putnam of Springfield, Mass., is a friend of Democratic Chairman McKinney. The two worked closely together in the Office of War Contract Negotiation, both are bank officials, and Putnam is also president of the Package Machinery Co., a director of the Perkins Machine and Gear Co., and the Van Norman Co. He also has the unique distinction of being the sole trustee of the Lowell Observatory of Flagstaff, Ariz.

The President got to know Charles E. Wilson when he was vice chairman of the old Ward Production Board, at which time Truman was chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee. Wilson, however, didn't have to take the brickbats and the responsibilities Chairman Donald Nelson did. Now that he is in the No. 1 spot, he hasn't been able either to stand the gaff or get out production.

Real fact is that U. S. military production is so bad that it can hardly be published.

Washington Pipeline

Anna Roosevelt Boettiger has recovered from the illness that required her to live in the Southwest, and is looking for a job in New York. Her father's estate was left largely to her mother during Mrs. Roosevelt's lifetime . . . . Congressman Sam Yorty of California has been making gleeful speeches in which he refers to California's Senator Knowland as the "Senator from Formosa." He says even Republicans Californians aren't much interested in Formosa . . . . Some of the Eisenhower backers are a little dubious about too much Dewey influence in the new Ike setup. They distrust a remark by Kansas' Harry Darby: "Everything must clear with New York."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Somebody has figured out a way to put the Communists on the spot in the Korean truce negotiations and yet maintain the theory that no cease-fire is in effect or likely to be till an armistice is signed.

But, for practical purposes, if the Communist Chinese and North Koreans do not conduct offensive operations, the UN forces will operate on a defensive basis, too.

No agreement is required to bring about such a stabilized condition on the battlefield. All that is necessary is world-wide publicity stating that one side will not move forward on the ground. Then it becomes necessary for the other side to accept such a state of affairs or to continue offense operations.

The denial from Key West, Fla., that the President had ordered a cease-fire is correct. Nobody here ordered any such thing but, when it comes to selecting what strategy is to be used on the battlefield, the supreme commander—in this case, General Ridgway—can adopt any tactics of restraint that he desires and is not committed to them a moment longer than he cares to remain committed.

Not Taking Advantage

The maneuver back of a self-restraint strategy is clear enough. The United Nations has been accused of carrying on a war of "aggression." The Communist propaganda broadcasts have insisted that the UN negotiators were seeking to prolong the war and didn't have a sincere desire to make a truce. By adopting measures of restraint in the matter of offense, the UN establishes clearly the principle that, while the talks have a chance of success, there will be no effort to take advantage of the situation to move the battle line farther than has been agreed upon.

As a matter of fact, there is nothing to be gained by risking lives in any operations of offense if at the end of the 30 days of negotiation an agreement will have been reached on a cease-fire, because at that time the battle line is to be the same one that has already been agreed upon pending the disposition of the two points in dispute—the exchange of prisoners and the problem of inspection of possible build-ups behind the opposing forces.

If, at the end of 30 days, the two items have not been settled, then the fighting goes on to another battle line, but whatever could be gained in territory during the 30 days would not be worth risking any casualties to get.

This policy is understandable if it be conceded that the United Nations members are merely trying to liquidate the Korean affair with the least damage to human life and with no regard whatsoever for the possible consequences of a stalemated war and stalemated peace.

If, as a consequence of an armistice, the Communists accept the doctrine that they are supposed to have been defeated, that their aggression is presumed to have been repelled and that hence no further aggression will occur, then a settlement at the present battle line will have the effects claimed for it by its proponents.

No Less Tension

If, on the other hand, it is an uneasy truce with threats of a recurring war and with large numbers of American boys indefinitely bogged down guarding the battle line in Korea, it will be apparent that the psychological impression which the exponents of a "truce without peace" have been expecting to result will vanish from the interna-

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Free Hand

Thus far, in the widespread discussion of Senator Robert A. Taft's book, "A Foreign Policy for Americans," little has been said about his basic proposition, which is that the policy must be a restoration of a free hand.

Up to 1917, the United States was never what the internationalists have come to call isolationist. This country, from the days when Benjamin Franklin and John Jay were sent to Europe to deal with foreign powers has had close and intimate relations with European and Asiatic countries, but the guiding principle was friendship, amity, cooperation but no entanglements. We did very well with that program up to Woodrow Wilson. Then we got entangled.

During the period of non-entanglement our foreign policy was premised upon three basic prinicples:

1. The full sovereignty of the United States must and will be respected at any cost. To assert this principle we went into the War of 1812; we asserted ourselves against the Barbary pirates; we established a line of precedents throughout the world that rights enjoyed by any nationals anywhere were to be enjoyed by Americans everywhere. (The Open Door policy).

2. The principle was established that while the form of government accepted by a people is strictly their own choice (Declaration of Independence), the two American continents were not subject to further colonization by European nations (the Monroe Doctrine) nor would new monarchies be tolerated (our attitude toward Maximilian in Mexico).

This was of the greatest importance, for it freed our boundaries from entanglements in European dynastic and trade wars.

3. The principle was asserted and established that the lines of access to the United States had to be kept open (freedom of the seas). This was particularly important for a young nation, for if we had recognized that any one country controlled the seas, the United States could never have developed its vast industrial strength. It would have suffered from a condition called in Asia, semi-colonialism.

This free hand has been growing steadily less free since Woodrow Wilson moved the United States into the affairs of Europe. Now our hand is no longer free; it is shackled.

Senator Taft says of this:

"Our traditional policy of neutrality and non-interference with other nations was based on the principle that this policy was the best way to avoid disputes with other nations and to maintain the liberty of this country without war. From the days of George Washington that has been the policy of the United States. It has never been isolationism; but it has always avoided alliances and interference in foreign quarrels as a preventive against possible war, and it has always opposed any commitment by the United States, in advance, to take any military action outside of our territory. It would leave us free to interfere or not interfere according to whether we consider the case of sufficiently vital interest to the liberty of this country. It was the policy of the free hand."

Taft's view is that the United States can afford to depart from this principle only if an "effective international organization" is established. He does not believe that the United Nations is such, giving as his reason:

"The United Nations has failed to protect our peace, I believe, because it was organized on an unsound basis with a veto power in five nations and is based, in fact, on the joint power of such nations, effective only so long as they agree. I believe the concept can only be successful if based on a rule of law and justice between nations and willingness on the part of all nations to abide by the decisions of an impartial tribunal."

While many have criticized Senator Taft's position on foreign affairs by picking on details of statement, I have sought for his basic philosophy, and I think this is it: that while it could be advantageous to this country, in the present circumstances of the world, to sacrifice a degree of its free hand, the risk should only be taken if an international organization is based on law and not upon the political whimsicalities of those who can use the veto.

"A rule of law and justice" is the phrase he employs. The rule of law we know in this country; it safeguards us in our own nation from the tyranny of politicians, from the rule of the majority and the pressure of the minority. As we depart from it, our own administration becomes corrupt and our people fearful. If the rule of law can truly be applied to nations, a way might be found to international peace.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Scope Of The Trouble

WASHINGTON

One of the best indices of the present relationship between American business and American politics is the condition of the Washington lawyers, whose tribe is increasing and growing fatter at a remarkable rate. Why they increase, and how fat they can get, is suggested by an experience of John J. McCloy's.

When McCloy was winding up his remarkable service at the War Department, he was offered a Washington law partnership with a guaranteed income of $350,000 a year. The rather obscure man who made this fantastic offer had formerly been an able but middle-grade government official. He did his law business in a small suite of offices with one or two clerks and two or three stenographers. But in proof of his good faith, he showed McCloy a list of retainers from large corporations amounting, altogether, to about $1,000,000 annually.

"The money's nothing," he told McCloy. "If you don't take it the Treasury will. And you don't have to worry about doing anything you won't like to earn it. These businessmen pay me because I know my way around the government, and they don't. There's nothing wrong in showing people the ropes. That's all there is to it."

McCloy preferred to go into one of the great New York law firms—the vast law factories with national reputations, which in fact make smaller net profits than several small Washington law office. But McCloy's old-fashioned finickiness has nothing to do with the moral of this tale, which is, simply, that businessmen will now pay almost anything to ease their dealings with the government.

Reasons Are Obvious

The reasons for this are obvious enough. In the last 20 years, the government has grown so enormous that it is like a labyrinth. It has also assumed so many novel functions and powers that government decisions now affect the welfare of almost all businesses. Guides through the labyrinth are therefore in urgent demand; and this is the source of the influence business.

The influence business has many permutations and combinations, not all of them evil. You can sell knowledge which is also influence, like McCloy's friend, who simply found out which official had the power to decide his clients' problems, and then arrange for his clients to meet those officials. Or you can sell this kind of influence, plus a little or a lot of improper political influence. Or you can even sell influence which you have not got. This reporter knows of one great corporation executive who paid $5,000 for a chance to appear before a Senate committee when the senators had already decided, on their own hook, to invite him to testify.

The more astute and richer corporations not only pay generous retainers to representatives in Washington; they also seek to strengthen the hand of their ambassadors in the capital by making large political contributions.

Sometimes the campaign funds go to individual politicians, for a sympathetic senator is a very useful thing. Sometimes they are used to nourish powerful local political organizations—an unpublished "Life" survey showed that in 1948, more than half the state governments were dominated in this manner by various large business interests. And regularly, every four years, the contributions of the businessmen provide the main sinews of war for the Democratic and Republican Presidential campaigns.

Under Heavy Pressure

Many of these corporate contributions are made through dummies, and written off as business expenses. The real object of the contributors is almost invariably to have sure friends at court, when regulations, or franchises, or tax matters, or other things of importance to businessmen are under governmental consideration. If you like to think of it that way, the whole process amounts to open corruption openly arrived at, in which the politicians and the businessmen are jointly implicated.

Yet in the present circumstances, both businessmen and poiticians are under almost irresistible pressure. The politicians cannot meet the steeply mounting cost of their campaigns without the contributions of the businessmen. Equally, the businessmen feel themselves at the mercy of the monster government. They are inevitably tempted, when a few thousand dollars wisely invested in political contributions may pay a return in millions, or tens of milions, or even, perhaps, hundreds of millions. And these are the sums at stake today in the government's decisions of issues affecting individual businesses.

The nub of the problem, in short, is that contributions which corporations hardly feel are matters of life and death to campaigning politicians; while political decisions the public hardly notices may mean severe losses or immense profits to the corporations. In this situation, moral lectures are mere prating; for the corruption will go on as long as the temptation is so great. And the only way to solve the problem is to remove, or at least to lessen, the temptation.

High School Wrestler Dies Trying To Sweat Off Weight

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Nov. 29 (AP)—A 16-year-old high school student died in a school shower today while trying to sweat off enough weight to make a weight limit for a wrestling match.

The body of Kenneth Averill was found in a small individual shower room by McKinley High School Wrestling Coach Lloyd Wilson. Linn County Coroner Robert Brosh said there were "strong indications" the boy had suffocated.

Wilson said the boy, who wrestles at 95 pounds, was a pound and a half over the weight limit for a scheduled match tonight.

Wilson said he took the boy to a small shower room off the coach's office, and the boy stood on a chair and turned on the hot water.

The coach said he returned about 15 minutes later and found Averill lying on the floor.

Coroner Brosh ordered an autopsy. He said there were some small burns on Averill's body from the hot water, and a bruise on the head, apparently suffered when he fell from the chair.

Rose-Holm Marital Troubles Reach Court

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—The martial troubles of Showman Billy Rose and his comely wife Eleanor Holm, were taken to court today but the legal papers were promptly sealed.

Their marriage of 12 years ran into stormy weather last July when blonde Joyce Matthews, former wife of Comedian Milton Berle, slashed her wrists in Rose's apartment above the Ziegfield Theater.

The Roses appeared in public together after this and seemed to have patched things up, but early last month Miss Holm locked Rose out of their East Side apartment.

Rubber Workers' Pay Hike Okayed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (INS)—The Wage Stabilization Board tonight approved pay increases of up to 13 cents an hour for more than 100,000 rubber workers, but refused to make them retroactive as provided in work contracts.

The board action was taken in passing on contracts agreed upon by the CIO United Rubber Workers' Union and the "big four" rubber companies—U. S. Rubber, Firestone Tire and Rubber, B. F. Goodrich and Goodyear Tire and Rubber.

Under the ruling, seven cents an hour of the wage boosts will become effective on the dates in the contract. The remaining six cents will take effect Oct. 16, the date following the latest cost-of-living rise as shown by the Labor Department index.

Baltimore Mayor Not Candidate For Senate

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro announced today he would not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate next year.

His statement squelched persistent reports the second-term mayor and former congressman from the Fourth District would try for the seat now held by Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor (D-Md), whose term expires next year.

Five Children's Death Due To Parental Neglect

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 29 (AP)—A coroner's jury said today that the death of five children in a trailer fire here Saturday was due to parental neglect.

The jury, after an inquest into the deaths of the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Martin Price, said the children "came to their deaths by means of third-degree burns caused by accidental fire due to the neglence of the parents of the children."

Testimony at the inquest, conducted by Coroner G. O. Martin, established that the children had been left to themselves in the trailer for at least three hours before the fire.

Boys Get Terms At "Hard Labor"

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 29 (AP)—Three boys, aged 9, 10, and 14, will serve terms at "hard labor" for malicious mischief to property of a Washington County farmer.

Judge Evan Crossley ordered the boys to report to the farmer, Bruce Hoffman, for three successive Saturdays to work out the damage they did.

The boys were accused of breaking into an old mill on Hoffman's property and destroying or damaging machinery and materials stored there.

Coal-For-Europe Conference Held

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Defense officials conferred today with John L. Lewis and two big coal mine operators on the possibility of stepping up exports of coal to Europe. The miners' chief and the operators assured them the coal can be produced.

Eric Johnston, economic stabilization director, told a news conference he had had a meeting with Lewis, George Love, president of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co., Pittsburgh, and R. E. Salvati, president of the Island Creek Coal Co., Huntington, W. Va.

The group also conferred with Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson.

"They have agreed to cooperate with each other, and with Mr. Wilson, to get more coal to Europe at lower prices," Johnston said. In response to questions, he said he had no idea what arrangements might be made but that Lewis and the operators "will explore all the possibilities."

Journal Says Comic Books Destroying U. S.

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The weekly New Statesman and Nation declared today the United States is being destroyed from within by its own comic books.

If the trend continues, the leftist journal of opinion said, the strongest nation in the world may some day fall apart like the Roman empire.

Already, it asserted, "the printed word is on its way out" for the main mass of city dwelling Americans.

It said the comic books glorify violence, expose the young mind to sex and sadism and have "strongly fascist" tendencies. It said they teach children "that violence is heroic, and murder a red-hot thrill."

Cattle Rustlers Sent To Prison

ROCKVILLE, Md., Nov. 29 (AP)—Three Washington, D. C., men were sentenced to eight years in the Maryland Penitentiary today for cattle rustling.

"In the old west," commented Montgomery County Circuit Judge Charles W. Woodward in passing sentence, "a crime of this type was a capital offense."

The men, who had pleaded guilty to larceny charges, are Victor E. Baldwin, 32, a Silver Spring restaurateur; Robert L. Hambleton, 43, and his son-in-law, John M. Dupont, 22, an unemployed carpenter.

The three were charged with taking three prize cows worth $1,000 apiece from the Germantown farm of A. Harding Paul last August 20. Baldwin was arrested at a Winchester, Va., cattle auction when he attempted to claim a check for the animals. He implicated the other two who were arrested in Washington.

Professor Seeks New Md. Seat In Congress

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 29 (AP)—Henry R. Hergenroeder, a Baltimore college professor, today became the first candidate for Maryland's new congressional seat.

Hergenroeder, 31, filed for the Democratic nomination in the 7th District. Population gains in the last decade entitled Maryland to a new district, and the 1951 Legislature established it in Baltimore.

Four Sons In 11 Months

MEDFORD, Wis., Nov. 29 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin Lemke has given birth to twin sons for the second time in less than 11 months.

The 30-year-old father added two rooms to the Lemke home to accomodate Tommy and Timmy, born last Jan. 2. He isn't sure how he'll make room for his two new sons, born Tuesday at Medford Hospital.

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP)— Winston Churchill will celebrate his 77th birthday tomorrow around a 75-pound cake in the shape of his square derby hat—what the British call a bowler.

The cake is decorated with 200 leaves, each inscribed with a phrase commemorating the honors and incidents of the prime minister's career.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Ever been with a person who fidgeted so much that you began to feel fidgety yourself? You can "catch" another's nervous tension as readily as the sniffles, unless you have built up a terrific amount of resistive composure. The contagious aspect of habitual tenseness makes the jumpy person as unwelcome on the social scene as a rhinitis carrier.

But the composed woman is always welcome — others seek her out for the restful atmosphere they enjoy whenever they are with her. You can make certain that the latch string always will be out for you if when you make your entrance such serenity enters, too.

Signs of Tension

Test yourself with these questions to ascertain whether you are a joy and a balm to your friends and family or whether you should take to heart the corrective measures that follow:

Do you ever find yourself gesticulating extravagantly? It's one of the first signs of nervous tension.

Do you chatter incessantly . . . feel a constant urge to talk? If so, your nerves are getting the better of you.

Are your mouth, eyes and brows overly active in a reach for facial expression? Grimacing is also a pressure gauge.

Are you easily upset by trivial mischance? When petty annoyances make you boil, watch out! Your tension is steadily mounting.

Tension Chasers

When you find your composure losing ground, take ten minutes off immediately to reorganize your work schedule. Ration your energies and allow more time for recreation, rest, fresh air, and exercise. These are the great tension relievers.

If you say you can't take the time, remember that is a tension indication, too. It's up to you to make the time. Once you do, you'll discover how pleasant it is to be freed from the hampering grip of your nerves. One of the greatest benefits you'll enjoy is finding you can accomplish more work with greater ease in less time! A mark worth shooting at? Especially so with the holidays just ahead.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—These are the wonderful cold, sunny, expectant days of autumn in New York, the days that may make those of you in the outlands think about coming to the big town for a few days of pleasant ——raising—so I thought I would take you quietly in hand for a few moments and tell you how you can waste your time most profitably.

To begin with, the theatrical season to date has been a pretty sharp disappointment and now everyone appears to be sitting back and hoping desperately that the Oliviers will end the doldrums when they arrive next month in the two versions of Cleopatra—Shaw and Shakespeare—that they have been doing so successfully in London. You can forget about getting seats to those until next spring, however, so perhaps we'd better see what else is at hand.

The selling-out shows are "Call Me Madam," "Guys And Dolls," "South Pacific," "The King And I," "Top Banana" and "The Moon Is Blue," and of these all but "Top Banana" are holdovers from last season. Incidentally, all but "The Moon Is Blue" are musicals.

For the serious students of the drama, there are many play scrambling along on Broadway at the moment but none of them is a masterpiece. You can get a mild, enjoyable, chuckly evening out of the Jessica Tandy-Hume Cronyn vehicle, "The Fourposter," and you can roll around in tragedy that never quite comes off if you see the Uta Hagen version of the Shaw classic, "Saint Joan."

The performers are, this season, generally better than their material, with the exception of Miss Hagen and a few others. "Top Banana," for instance is no ball-of-fire musical but Phil Silvers is. Bert Lahr is at the peak of his incomparable form in a revue called "Two On The Aisle," in which Dolores Gray also does a good enough job to make me forget how bad she was when I saw her in London in "Annie Get Your Gun." Miss Olga San Juan of the movies is a definite addition to a gloomy musical called "Paint Your Wagon" and Miss Gertrude Lawrence, always wonderful, lifts a ponderous mediocre book up by its shoelaces in "The King And I."

* * *

The saloons are doing nicely in the matter of talent; at the moment, for instance, Mary Raye and Naldi, who remain the finest ballroom dancers in the world, are performing at the Waldorf, while Miss Celeste Holm, the lodestar of my sentimental heart, is charming the cash customers at the Plaza.

El Morocco remains the place to see and be seen, of course, and you always have your expectations heightened when you visit there because Errol Flynn and somebody who dislikes him may start a fight. Or Humphrey Bogart.

At a place called Tony's Caprice in the Fifties there is an amiable and talented pianist named Hugh Shannon who can entertain you for hours, and Miss Pearl Bailey, the nonpareil, is at La Vie en Rose.

Most of the taverns in town these days don't go in quite so much for cutting your Scotch as they used to but you must be warned that the minimums are up a dollar or two and that here and there you will see that holdover from the Twenties, a cover charge. Don't take any chances on getting a table, either; call up in the afternoon and reserve one, even if it's just the Stage Delicatessen on Seventh Avenue that you're headed for.

* * *

A look at the United Nations Building along the East River in the Forties should be a must on everyone's list; its sides are nothing but thousands of windows and at night they are all lighted, indicating either that the protectors of the world are still working or that the scrubwomen have started early.

You might get up real early and go for a walk around the Central Park reservoir, too; it's good for your circulation and, more important, you may get a glimpse of K. Hepburn running around it, all any sane man can ask.

You will find the city a little more crowded than ever this fall, since traffic is slowly but surely edging toward that day when every car in New York will be stopped, unable to proceed in any direction.

The whale still hangs from the ceiling in the Museum of Natral History, for those of you who like to make the pilgrimage, and if you men want to buy some clothes that are really gone (or should be be gone, I guess) and will make you king of the barber shop back home on Saturday nights, look along 125th Street in Harlem.

There is, in all, something for everyone. Autumn in New York is here and you can forget all that Paris in the spring stuff.

Opti-Mrs. Plan Yule Activities

The Opti-Mrs. Club held a combined business meeting and stork shower Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harold Naughton, MacDonald Terrace. Mrs. Robert Collins and Mrs. Ellis Batdorff were cohostesses.

Members voted to give a Christmas basket to a needy family and completed plans for the club's Christmas celebration. Mrs. Bernard Whitacre was named chairman for the basket arrangements.

The Christmas party is to be in the form of a dinner party, with husbands of members as guests. It is to be held December 7 at 6:30 o'clock at the Ali Ghan Country Club. Gifts are to be exchanged and cards will be played during the evening. Mrs. Earl Nonneman was named chairman. The committee assisting consists of Mrs. Robert Doty, Mrs. Walter Wiers, Mrs. Wilbur Clinger and Mrs. Howard Fisher.

Mrs. Byron Kight was honored at the stork shower, at which time a pink and blue color scheme was carried out in the decorations. The shower gifts were arranged in a doll carriage trimmed in pink and blue streamers.

New Body Armor Might Cut War Deaths In Half

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK—(AP)—New body armor might prevent 50 to 75 per cent of deaths of fighting men in Korean battle, Col. John R. Wood, Army Medical Corps, reports.

The armor is eight-pound vests, made of layers of nylon or fiberglass cemented by plastics. They protect the chest and abdomen.

Fifty such suits were tested successfully in Korea. Most of a regiment is expected to get the armor vests soon for more tests, said Col. Wood, chairman of the Army's Medical Research and Development Board, Army Surgeon-General's Office. He spoke at a meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' Association.

The vests can stop missiles flying at speeds of 1,000 to 1,500 feet per second. he said.

A study of battlefield deaths and wounds showed 75 per cent were caused by missiles speeding 1,000 feet or less per second. The vests could stop them, potentially saving up to 75 per cent of men hit in the trunk.

Machine-gun and rifle bullets start out at much higher speeds. Speed falls off with distance, or by deflection. Fragments from shells start out fast, but lose speed quickly.

The vests are worn outside of some clothing, as a cushion against impact. Arms, legs, and neck still are exposed. Helmets protect the head against missiles up to 1,500 feet per second.

The 50 suits in Korea were worn by men in all forms of fighting—fliers, artillerymen, riflemen, medics, and others. Col. Wood said they were "tremendously acceptable" to the men. The armor gives a soldier more confidence, makes him a better, more aggresive fighting man, he said.

The battlefield death rate still is about 20 per cent, only slightly below that in World Wars I and II, he reported.

The vests are a project of research by the Army, Navy, and Air Force, Col. Wood said.

To Form Industry

Folsom B. Taylor, former manager of the Fort Cumberland Hotel, has entered the roller bearing industry.

Taylor resigned his position as manager of the Fort Stanwix Hotel in Johnstown, Pa., last month to form the Folsom B. Taylor Associates, Inc., in Baltimore.

The Wall Street Journal reports the Lott Development Corporation of Philadelphia has entered into a contract under which the Taylor firm will manufacture the new and improved Lott roller bearings.

The Taylor concern, the Journal stated, is prepared to build one or more plants as soon as government requirements are met and materials are available.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Trying To Get Something For Nothing

"Do you want to go to the racetrack with us tomorrow?" said Grantland Rice. "It's the last day of the season." I'd only been once before this year.

John Wheeler

John McNulty, who writes about Third Avenue, Ed Duffy, the cartoonist, the dean of sport writers, and yours truly set out, and I was feeling pretty confident in that crowd I would come home rich. About 30,000 other jerks showed up with the same idea, trying to get something for nothing.

We arrived stuffed with the Racing Form, scratch sheets, and other sources of information on the habits and speed of horses. We sat down in a box marked "official," and were enjoying the fall sunshine with great assurance, when an usher led a gent and a couple of pretty women into our rookery and hinted everyone would be happier if we got out. We moved to another that was empty and more hospitable.

During the afternoon, I had plenty of time to think since I didn't waste any going to the cashier's windows, as I never had a winning ticket. Of course, I realized someone had to support the poor people who run tracks and keep their Cadillacs filled with gas and fur coats on the backs of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and I did my share in a small way.

Then I got to wondering, this being the last day of the New York season, what all those rushing, panting characters would do when heartlessly thrown off the premises, following the last race, and, after the band had played Auld Lang Syne. Of course, they could put their money, if any, in savings banks, but they would have to leave it there at least overnight. Because the government has run most of the bookmakers out of business, it looks like a tough winter.

Suddenly I was whacked on the back by a stylish figure who turned out to be Herbert Bayard Swope. We got to talking of Freddie Benham, about whom a book was written lately, but unfortunately it has not had the wide sale it deserves.

"He was in the Foreign Legion in the first World War, you remember," said Swope, "and, when I went to the Peace Conference in Paris, he had no money and attached himself to me as a secretary-valet for a modest stipend." (Mr. S. was an outstanding journalist and won a Pulitzer prize.)

"I was to go up to Coblenz, Germany, to attend a big affair," he went on, "all dress uniforms and tails. I told him to pack my bag. When I took my things out, I found he'd put in everything—white tie, studs, vest, coat, etc.—but the pants, and, in the emergency, I had to borrow a pair from a German newspaperman which came only to the top of my socks and looked as if I were compromising with knee breeches. After I charged him with it on my return, he replied,

"'Listen, boss! A valet's entitled to one mistake, ain't he?'"

To fill out the column with racing chit chat, there is the story of how Frank Erickson started as a bookmaker to become big enough to attract the attention of the Kefauver Committee and a star in its cast of characters. He was a waiter in a restaurant and on the side took bets from customers for the local pros. One day the runner didn't show up, and he stuffed the card in his pocket. After the race, he collected from the sucker who had lost.

This started him in business for himself, and he had no bets for the commisioner the next time he came around. He would put the slips in his locker to settle up after the final results. Some of the food hustlers on his team found out about this system and got tips from poolrooms on the early winners. Then they would pad his collection with tickets that called for a payoff. Anyway, this petty larceny couldn't have hurt him much as he became the biggest operator around New York.

As we started for home, I noticed what are called "stoopers," guys who go around picking up discarded pari-mutuel tickets, hoping to find a winner. Nobody in our crowd needed a caddy to carry his bankroll, when we headed out of the horse yard.

New Body Armor Might Cut War Deaths In Half

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK—(AP)—New body armor might prevent 50 to 75 per cent of deaths of fighting men in Korean battle, Col. John R. Wood, Army Medical Corps, reports.

The armor is eight-pound vests, made of layers of nylon or fiberglass cemented by plastics. They protect the chest and abdomen.

Fifty such suits were tested successfully in Korea. Most of a regiment is expected to get the armor vests soon for more tests, said Col. Wood, chairman of the Army's Medical Research and Development Board, Army Surgeon-General's Office. He spoke at a meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' Association.

The vests can stop missiles flying at speeds of 1,000 to 1,500 feet per second. he said.

A study of battlefield deaths and wounds showed 75 per cent were caused by missiles speeding 1,000 feet or less per second. The vests could stop them, potentially saving up to 75 per cent of men hit in the trunk.

Machine-gun and rifle bullets start out at much higher speeds. Speed falls off with distance, or by deflection. Fragments from shells start out fast, but lose speed quickly.

The vests are worn outside of some clothing, as a cushion against impact. Arms, legs, and neck still are exposed. Helmets protect the head against missiles up to 1,500 feet per second.

The 50 suits in Korea were worn by men in all forms of fighting—fliers, artillerymen, riflemen, medics, and others. Col. Wood said they were "tremendously acceptable" to the men. The armor gives a soldier more confidence, makes him a better, more aggresive fighting man, he said.

The battlefield death rate still is about 20 per cent, only slightly below that in World Wars I and II, he reported.

The vests are a project of research by the Army, Navy, and Air Force, Col. Wood said.

To Form Industry

Folsom B. Taylor, former manager of the Fort Cumberland Hotel, has entered the roller bearing industry.

Taylor resigned his position as manager of the Fort Stanwix Hotel in Johnstown, Pa., last month to form the Folsom B. Taylor Associates, Inc., in Baltimore.

The Wall Street Journal reports the Lott Development Corporation of Philadelphia has entered into a contract under which the Taylor firm will manufacture the new and improved Lott roller bearings.

The Taylor concern, the Journal stated, is prepared to build one or more plants as soon as government requirements are met and materials are available.

The Old Second Guesser

Trying To Get Something For Nothing

"Do you want to go to the racetrack with us tomorrow?" said Grantland Rice. "It's the last day of the season." I'd only been once before this year.

John Wheeler

John McNulty, who writes about Third Avenue, Ed Duffy, the cartoonist, the dean of sport writers, and yours truly set out, and I was feeling pretty confident in that crowd I would come home rich. About 30,000 other jerks showed up with the same idea, trying to get something for nothing.

We arrived stuffed with the Racing Form, scratch sheets, and other sources of information on the habits and speed of horses. We sat down in a box marked "official," and were enjoying the fall sunshine with great assurance, when an usher led a gent and a couple of pretty women into our rookery and hinted everyone would be happier if we got out. We moved to another that was empty and more hospitable.

During the afternoon, I had plenty of time to think since I didn't waste any going to the cashier's windows, as I never had a winning ticket. Of course, I realized someone had to support the poor people who run tracks and keep their Cadillacs filled with gas and fur coats on the backs of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and I did my share in a small way.

Then I got to wondering, this being the last day of the New York season, what all those rushing, panting characters would do when heartlessly thrown off the premises, following the last race, and, after the band had played Auld Lang Syne. Of course, they could put their money, if any, in savings banks, but they would have to leave it there at least overnight. Because the government has run most of the bookmakers out of business, it looks like a tough winter.

Suddenly I was whacked on the back by a stylish figure who turned out to be Herbert Bayard Swope. We got to talking of Freddie Benham, about whom a book was written lately, but unfortunately it has not had the wide sale it deserves.

"He was in the Foreign Legion in the first World War, you remember," said Swope, "and, when I went to the Peace Conference in Paris, he had no money and attached himself to me as a secretary-valet for a modest stipend." (Mr. S. was an outstanding journalist and won a Pulitzer prize.)

"I was to go up to Coblenz, Germany, to attend a big affair," he went on, "all dress uniforms and tails. I told him to pack my bag. When I took my things out, I found he'd put in everything—white tie, studs, vest, coat, etc.—but the pants, and, in the emergency, I had to borrow a pair from a German newspaperman which came only to the top of my socks and looked as if I were compromising with knee breeches. After I charged him with it on my return, he replied,

"'Listen, boss! A valet's entitled to one mistake, ain't he?'"

To fill out the column with racing chit chat, there is the story of how Frank Erickson started as a bookmaker to become big enough to attract the attention of the Kefauver Committee and a star in its cast of characters. He was a waiter in a restaurant and on the side took bets from customers for the local pros. One day the runner didn't show up, and he stuffed the card in his pocket. After the race, he collected from the sucker who had lost.

This started him in business for himself, and he had no bets for the commisioner the next time he came around. He would put the slips in his locker to settle up after the final results. Some of the food hustlers on his team found out about this system and got tips from poolrooms on the early winners. Then they would pad his collection with tickets that called for a payoff. Anyway, this petty larceny couldn't have hurt him much as he became the biggest operator around New York.

As we started for home, I noticed what are called "'stoopers," guys who go around picking up discarded pari-mutuel tickets, hoping to find a winner. Nobody in our crowd needed a caddy to carry his bankroll, when we headed out of the horse yard.

Rieve Says New Yarns Increase Competition

The newer synthetic yarns are giving the older ones a headache, Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), said at the dinner Wednesday at Ali Ghan Country Club when he spoke before members of Local 1874.

Local 1874, celebrating its 15th anniversary had as its guests many national and regional officers of the Textile Workers Union.

Rieve; George Baldanzi, executive vice president; and William Pollock, general secretary-treasurer, were the main speakers.

Rieve said the new processes of making synthetic rayon yarns has resulted in terrific competition in the textile markets.

The national president remarked that it has been pointed out that Cumberland needs more diversified industries. He declared governments are assisting the development of new industries by loans and offering tax exemptions.

He stated he would be glad to visit agencies in Washington with officials from here in an effort to locate new plants in Cumberland and other distress areas.

Rieve declared that often the government will assist in the development of a new industry and locate it in a wilderness.

On top of the plant itself, the government then has to assist in the construction of a community, with schools, hospitals and homes, he contended. Cumberland has the labor and an established community, he pointed out.

Baldanzi presented a congratulatory address to the local union. He saluted Local 1874 and recalled the early struggles here in which he participated.

Pollock outlined to the local members the conditions that exist in the synthetic yarn industry today.

Yesterday, the national union officials toured the Amcelle plant of Celanese Corporation. A luncheon at the plant cafeteria followed.

In the afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock the national union was host to Local 1874 members at an open house in the union hall.

Judge Stays Execution Of Noah Beeman

Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday issued an order of court staying the execution of Noah Earl Beeman, 24-year-old Midland man, who was convicted in the penknife slaying of his wife, Donna (Airhart) Beeman, at the Airhart home last August.

The order staying the execution of Beeman scheduled for the week of December 3 followed after Edwin T. Swenson, warden of the Maryland penitentiary telephoned the office of Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden yesterday to determine the procedure.

Swenson said he wanted an official notice of the appeal so the execution could be stayed. Earl E. Manges, one of Beeman's defense attorneys, went to Judge Henderson's chambers to obtain the order of court.

Judge Henderson said the order of court is required in the case under a new law. The act governing the sentencing and warrant for the execution of convicted slayers places certain powers in the hands of the sentencing judge. Previously, notice of appeal and certification of the court clerk to the warden stayed the execution.

Judge Henderson said it is the first time the procedure taken yesterday has been used in Maryland. Manges said that he had told Swenson an order of court would be required when he talked to the warden some time ago, but the prison official said the notice of appeal was all that was needed. Swenson said yesterday he did not have a certificate from the clerk of court on the appeal by Beeman.

Potomac Valley Dairy Group To Elect Officers Dec. 5

Officers will be elected and the annual report of the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association will be given at a meeting of the group Wednesday, December 5, at 7:30 p. m. in the office of County Farm Agent Ralph L. McHenry.

Harry E. Miller and Wheeler W. Arnold, supervisors for the association, will deliver the report.

Officers of the association are John T. Mason, president; J. E. Prettyman, secretary-treasurer; Harry H. Delbrook, George Brinker and J. G. Shumaker, directors.

The bulk of the dairy farmers enrolled in the organization have their farms in Allegany county and Mineral county, W. Va. A few are located in Bedford county, Pa.

McHenry said the primary purpose of the organization is to compile accurate records of butterfat and milk production by cows registered with the group. The two supervisors also keep records of the type of feed provided for the cows and from these the dairy farmer can decide what type feed to use, decide on what cows to breed and also which ones should be culled from the herds due to poor production.

During 1950 the average production of cows in the group was 7,092 pounds of milk with a 290.4 pounds of butterfat. Due to recommendations the averages during 1951 increased to 7,650 pounds of milk and 307.1 pounds of butterfat.

Six cows made the honor roll by producing more than 500 pounds of butterfat from July, 1950 to July, 1951. A graded Holstein owned by Shumaker Brothers produced the largest amount of butterfat with 676 pounds. The five-year-old cow also produced 16,394 pounds of milk.

Other cows in the top group were owned by John R. Adams, John T. Mason and the Brinker Brothers.

Cows which produced from 450 to 499 pounds of butterfat during the same period were owned by Stanley Weimer, Glen Savage Dairy, Shumaker Brothers, Brinker Brothers, John T. Mason and John R. Adams.

Cows which produced between 400 and 449 pounds of butterfat for the period are owned by Harry H. Delbrook, Andrew A. Schuller and the men listed above.

Area Industries Aid Scrap Drive

Five area industries have responded to the drive started by a mobilization committee organized by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce to divert metal critically needed in the steel industry.

Headed by John A. Jones, an engineer at the Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation, the committee has received favorable responses of cooperation from Celanese, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, Union Firebrick Company at Jennings, Georges Creek Coal Company and the Livingstone Machine and Tool Company of Frostburg.

In fact, two of them reported on their disposition of scrap metal during October. Kelly officials stated that 302,600 pounds had been shipped while Celanese sold 66,400 pounds.

Large industries collect and sell scrap as a matter of routine and economy, Anthony Saeli, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce pointed out.

The committee, he said, is seeking active participation in the scrap drive from small firms which have unusable metal lying around dormant.

The committee is not asking these establishments to disturb their normal procedure of disposing of their scrap metal, but is urging them to search for outmoded equipment no longer being used.

The results of the first return have been gratifying, Saeli said, but the committee naturally hopes that many more will send their scrap to the steel industry.

68 New Voters Register During County-Wide Tour

A total of 68 new voters registered during visits to six county communities this month by registrars of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

William A. Wilson, chairman of the board, said there are some people who think the board is conducting a general re-registration but this is not true. The only ones who are supposed to register are persons who reach voting age and those who wish to re-register after having had their names stricken from poll books. These latter individuals' names were removed for failure to vote at least once during the past five years. All of those affected were notified of this action.

The best results were obtained in Westernport where 30 persons, 18 Republicans and 12 Democrats signed up. Of the grand total, 42 were Republican voters and 25 Democrats. One new voter declined to list himself as either Republican or Democrat.

Frostburg had 14 new voters sign up; Lonaconing 14; Barton one voter; Mt. Savage six; and Cresaptown only three.

Wilson said the results on the first tour were not as good as had been expected. He said another tour of county communities will be announced later.

The Election Board has three women assisting Ervin Neat and C. William McDermott, the registrars, in transcribing names from the old poll books to the new visible file system. This is a tremendous task and will probably require the balance of the winter months.

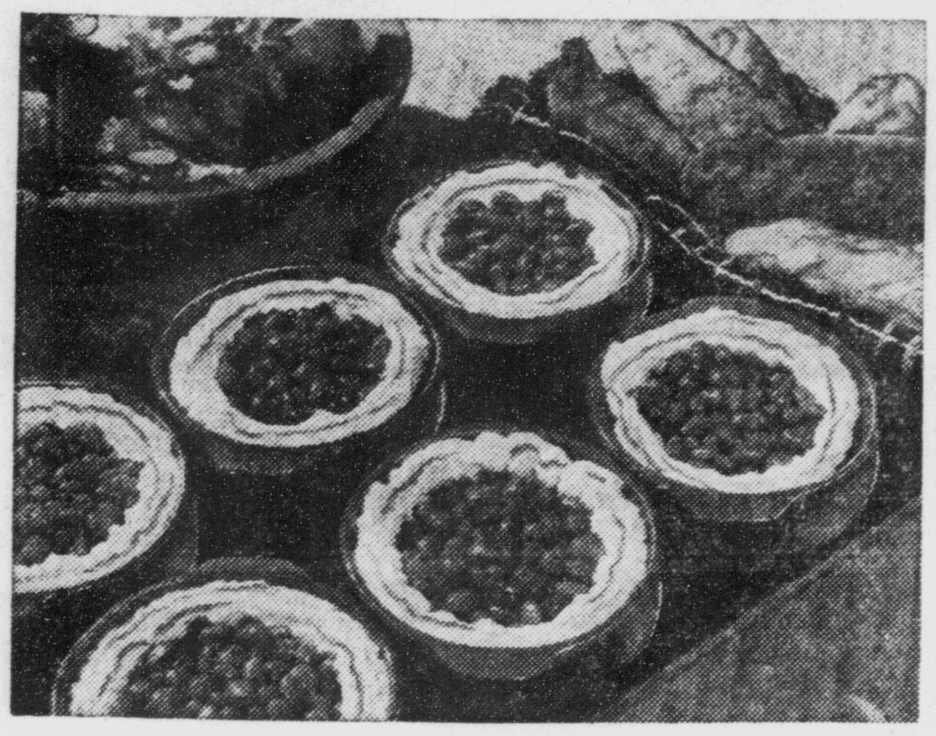
Variety For A Favorite



Canned baked beans, or pork and beans, are good the year around but they are especially welcome on crisp chilly days when more hearty food is needed.

For a change that should receive a chorus of "Wonderful!", dress them up with a surprise topping. Simply heat the beans in either individual bean pots or in the family size baking dish as you prefer. Just before taking them to the table add a border of whipped cream seasoned with pickle relish and horseradish. The tanginess of this topping sets off the sweet rich flavor of the beans.

Make it an oven meal with the Horseradish Baked Beans, serve crunchy cornbread sticks, and the family favorite, apple crisp made from ready to use canned apples.

A tossed vegetable salad is a nice change from cole slaw to serve with baked beans.

Horseradish Baked Beans

2 1-lb. cans baked beans, or pork and beans
½ cup whipping cream
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
1 tablespoon pickle relish

Heat beans in individual bean pots or a 1-quart baking dish. When ready to serve garnish with mixture of whipped cream, horseradish and pickle relish. Six generous servings.

Fine Flavored Yams For Golden Ring Molds

Golden yams are just the "stuff" that fine-flavored and lovely-looking molds are made of. A very dressed-up "company dish" and a most unusual way to bring your traditional "sweets" to the table at holiday time. Then, too, a sweet potato ring mold will hold another vegetable, simplifying a serving problem and looking pretty as a picture while doing it.

You'll find the pulp of a fresh-cooked or canned Louisiana yam has nice substance and the quality of "staying put," so that this mold is all pure sweet potato.

Molded Sweet Potato, Cashew Garnish

¼ cup soft butter
3 tablespoons flour
½ cup sliced cashew nuts
1 cup brown sugar (lightly packed)
3 cups mashed Louisiana Yams, canned or fresh
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup pineapple or orange juice

Spread butter over the ring mold in a thick coat and dust with flour. Distribute nuts over the bottom; sprinkle with brown sugar. Set in refrigerator; chill 10 minutes. Mix yams with remaining ingredients; press carefully into chilled mold. Set in pre-heated, moderate oven (350 F.); bake 1 hour. Let mold stand 15 minutes before unmolding. Serve while hot filled with peas or other vegetable. Serves 6-8.

PARTY SANDWICHES

Good-to-look-at as well as good-to-eat dainty sandwiches are made by cutting paper thin slices of dark and light bread into bars or circles, spreading a dark piece with cream cheese and a light piece with deviled ham or meat. Put together in layers. You can start and end with either light or dark to give an assortment.

NEW ENGLAND CABBAGE SALAD

A cool, fresh salad makes any meal more appetizing. The New Englanders have a magic recipe in this crisp salad. For Saturday night supper, try their special version of cabbage salad along with two other famous New England dishes, baked beans and brown bread.

New England Cabbage Salad

1 small firm head cabbage
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons sugar
salt
¼ cup lemon juice or vinegar
3 tablespoons margarine
½ cup cream, whipped cayenne
sliced green peppers

Shred the cabbage which has been washed, drained, and chilled. Toss with the dressing. Sprinkle with cayenne. Chill before serving, if desired.

To make the dressing, first beat the eggs slightly. Put in the mustard, sugar, salt, lemon juice or vinegar, and margarine. Cook in a double boiler or in a boiler over very low heat. Stir constantly until thickened. Cool. Chill. Add whipped cream just before mixing with the salad.

Pumpkin Pecan Sundae

¾ cup cooked, strained pumpkin
½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup maple sirup
½ cup chopped pecans
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Blend pumpkin, sugar and seasoning in saucepan; stir in maple sirup. Cook until smooth and thickened, about 8 minutes; remove from heat. Saute pecans in butter over medium heat 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Fold into sauce. Serve as sundae sauce over ice cream. Serves 6.

All over the nation gingerbread men and gingerbread houses are being fashioned to delight children at Christmas time. In centuries gone by it was the other way around, for it was the custom for children to give gingerbread to their elders as a symbol of love and honor. Modern gingerbread is extra nutritious because it is made fith enriched flour, which provides protein, essential B-vitamine and food iron for good health. It is not an especially rich dessert, and so it is popular for the everyday menu. Squares of warm gingerbread are well liked with whipped cream or lemon sauce. They're very good with chocolate sauce, too.

Pennsylvania Dutch Woman Wins Prizes With Poor Man's Chicken Dinner Recipes

An attractive young farm woman, cooking what she called a "poor man's version" of a Pennsylvania Dutch chicken dish, won first place in a cooking contest held recently in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Mrs. Thomas Loose, who lives with her husband and three lusty youngsters on a 128-acre farm in the Pennsylvania Dutch country, says the dish is a favorite in her home. It is called Lebanon Baked Chicken and uses three cups of milk and a sizeable chunk of butter to lend extra flavor and richness.

A strictly original dish, Chicken Cashew, in which rich cashew nuts, cooked chicken, cream, and sherry are combined into a casserole treat, won a prize for Mrs. Paul Hoch, another farm housewife, who lives near Carlisle, in the contest at the Farm Show Building in Harrisburg.

Pink-cheeked housewives in quaint lace caps and teen-aged girls competed with old and new recipes. The recipes, all using the popular broiler-fryer chickens that are now in such good supply and at the lowest prices in months.

Lebanon Baked Chicken

- 1 2½-3 lb. chicken (ready to cook)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup flour
- ¼ lb. butter
- 3 cups milk
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Roll pieces of disjointed chicken in flour and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Melt butter in baking dish, add chicken and bake at 425 degrees until thoroughly browned — about 15 minutes. Add scalded milk and bake uncovered at 350 degrees until meatiest pieces are tender — about one hour—turning occasionally. Serves 4 to 5.

Chicken Cashew

- 1 2½ to 3½ lb. chicken (ready to cook)
- 1 cup ground cashew nuts
- ¼ teaspoon sage
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 cup cream
- 1½ tablespoons sherry
- ½ cup bread crumbs

Boil chicken with 1 teaspoon salt and 1 rib celery until tender. Cool, remove meat and dice. Into a greased casserole put ½ cup ground cashews, then a layer of chicken. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, sage, and parsley. Add another layer of nuts and chicken, then remaining seasonings. Pour over this cream and sherry. Top with bread crumbs and a few broken cashews. Baked in oven pre-heated to 325 degrees until top is browned—about 25-30 minutes. Serves 4-6.

Chicken Casserole De Luxe

- 1 3-lb. chicken (ready to cook)
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 medium onion
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 8-oz. pkg. egg noodles
- 1 can mushroom soup
- 1 cup buttered bread crumbs.

Cook chicken, celery and onions till tender. Remove meat from bones and chop fine. Strain stock. Add noodles to stock and cook eight minutes. Drain liquid from noodles. Combine chopped chicken and noodles in mixing bowl. To soup add enough stock to make three cups and season with 1½ teaspoons salt. Add soup-stock mixture to chicken and noodles and mix. Place mixture in a greased casserole and sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves 6.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

Children have always loved peanut butter, and they are certain to love crisp, crunchy peanut butter cookies even more. These cookies served with a glass of milk make a wonderful after-school snack.

Peanut Butter Cookies

- 3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 cup margarine
- 1 cup peanut butter
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- ½ teaspoon vanilla

Sift the flour and soda together. Cream the margarine until light and fluffy. Cream the peanut butter into the margarine, mixing in the brown and white sugar. Beat the eggs, one at a time, and add vanilla. Mix in the sifted dry ingredients. Form the dough into small balls and put on a lightly greased baking sheet. Press lightly with a fork to make a criss-cross design on top of each cookie. Bake in a moderate oven (350 to 375° F.) for 10 to 15 minutes. This makes about six and one-half dozen cookies.

For other nutritious, taste-tempting recipes write today to National Cotton Council, P. O. Box 76, Memphis, Tenn., for your free copy of the new 24-page, two-color recipe booklet, "Menu Magic with Margarine."

Baked Chicken, Wine Sauce

- 1 3-lb. broiler-fryer (cut in frying pieces)
- ¾ cup flour
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ lb. butter
- ½ cup chicken stock
- ½ cup sauterne wine

Mix flour, salt and pepper and roll chicken pieces in it. Saute chicken in butter till golden brown. Place pieces in a baking dish with chicken stock, made from neck and giblets, and wine. Cover dish and bake in slow oven at 325 degrees for about 1 hour, or until largest pieces are tender. Serve with broccoli or garnish with parsley.

Egg Baked In Cheese Rice

- 2 cups cooked rice
- 2 tablespoon butter, melted
- ¾ cup light cream
- ⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
- ⅔ cup grated cheese
- 6 eggs
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- 2 cups bread crumbs

To cooked rice add 2 tablespoons melted butter, ¼ cup cream, cayenne and nutmeg. Line a 1-quart baking dish with the rice and sprinkle with ⅓ cup of grated cheese. In center of the rice-lined dish break 6 eggs, season with salt and paprika and cover top with bread crumbs. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Sprinkle with ⅓ cup cheese. Place baking dish in shallow pan half filled with hot water. Bake at 375 degrees until eggs are firm.

APPLE 'N' CHICKEN

Called the simplest and easiest way of cooking a broiler-fryer chicken, Apple 'N' Chicken is nothing more than roasting these tender and plump "all purpose" chickens with a juicy apple thrust inside for stuffing. The smaller chickens generally cost about 10c less per pound than heavier bird.

Select two broiler-fryers weighing from 2¼ to 3¼ lbs. each, ready to cook. Wash inside and out. Rub inside lightly with salt and put apple in each. Truss legs to tails and tuck wings under back. Rub with fat and put breast up on rack in roasting pan. Roast at 350 degrees for two hours or until knife insert in fleshy part of thick shows no pink meat. These smaller birds may be carved just like turkeys.

MEAT MAGIC

Make the most of that last bit of cooked chicken by serving it creamed style. You can prepare a quick version this way: Add the diced meat (about 1 cup) to 1 can of condensed cream of chicken soup blended with ½ cup milk. A little chopped, cooked green pepper and some chopped pimiento livens the flavor. Pour this over hot buttered biscuits for luscious eating. Nice with this are buttered green beans and jellied cranberry sauce for a relish.

Pennsylvania Dutch Woman Wins Prizes With Poor Man's Chicken Dinner Recipes

An attractive young farm woman, cooking what she called a "poor man's version" of a Pennsylvania Dutch chicken dish, won first place in a cooking contest held recently in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Mrs. Thomas Loose, who lives with her husband and three lusty youngsters on a 128-acre farm in the Pennsylvania Dutch country, says the dish is a favorite in her home. It is called Lebanon Baked Chicken and uses three cups of milk and a sizeable chunk of butter to lend extra flavor and richness.

A strictly original dish, Chicken Cashew, in which rich cashew nuts, cooked chicken, cream, and sherry are combined into a casserole treat, won a prize for Mrs. Paul Hoch, another farm housewife, who lives near Carlisle, in the contest at the Farm Show Building in Harrisburg.

Pink-cheeked housewives in quaint lace caps and teen-aged girls competed with old and new recipes. The recipes, all using the popular broiler-fryer chickens that are now in such good supply and at the lowest prices in months.

Lebanon Baked Chicken

1 2½-3 lb. chicken (ready to cook)
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup flour
¼ lb. butter
3 cups milk
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Roll pieces of disjointed chicken in flour and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Melt butter in baking dish, add chicken and bake at 425 degrees until thoroughly browned — about 15 minutes. Add scalded milk and bake uncovered at 350 degrees until meatiest pieces are tender — about one hour—turning occasionally. Serves 4 to 5.

Chicken Cashew

1 2½ to 3½ lb. chicken (ready to cook)
1 cup ground cashew nuts
¼ teaspoon sage
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 cup cream
1½ tablespoons sherry
½ cup bread crumbs

Boil chicken with 1 teaspoon salt and 1 rib celery until tender. Cool, remove meat and dice. Into a greased casserole put ½ cup ground cashews, then a layer of chicken. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, sage, and parsley. Add another layer of nuts and chicken, then remaining seasonings. Pour over this cream and sherry. Top with bread crumbs and a few broken cashews. Baked in oven pre-heated to 325 degrees until top is browned—about 25-30 minutes. Serves 4-6.

Chicken Casserole De Luxe

1 3-lb. chicken (ready to cook)
1½ teaspoons salt
1 medium onion
1 cup chopped celery
1 8-oz. pkg. egg noodles
1 can mushroom soup
1 cup buttered bread crumbs.

Cook chicken, celery and onions till tender. Remove meat from bones and chop fine. Strain stock. Add noodles to stock and cook eight minutes. Drain liquid from noodles. Combine chopped chicken and noodles in mixing bowl. To soup add enough stock to make three cups and season with 1½ teaspoons salt. Add soup-stock mixture to chicken and noodles and mix. Place mixture in a greased casserole and sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves 6.

Baked Chicken, Wine Sauce

1 3-lb. broiler-fryer (cut in frying pieces)
¾ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
⅛ lb. butter
½ cup chicken stock
½ cup sauterne wine

Mix flour, salt and pepper and roll chicken pieces in it. Saute chicken in butter till golden brown. Place pieces in a baking dish with chicken stock, made from neck and giblets, and wine. Cover dish and bake in slow oven at 325 degrees for about 1 hour, or until largest pieces are tender. Serve with broccoli or garnish with parsley.

Egg Baked In Cheese Rice

2 cups cooked rice
2 tablespoon butter, melted
¾ cup light cream
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
⅔ cup grated cheese
6 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
2 cups bread crumbs

To cooked rice add 2 tablespoons melted butter, ¼ cup cream, cayenne and nutmeg. Line a 1-quart baking dish with the rice and sprinkle with ⅓ cup of grated cheese. In center of the rice-lined dish break 6 eggs, season with salt and paprika and cover top with bread crumbs. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Sprinkle with ⅓ cup cheese. Place baking dish in shallow pan half filled with hot water. Bake at 375 degrees until eggs are firm.

Nice with this are buttered green beans and jellied cranberry sauce for a relish.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

Children have always loved peanut butter, and they are certain to love crisp, crunchy peanut butter cookies even more. These cookies served with a glass of milk make a wonderful after-school snack.

Peanut Butter Cookies

3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup margarine
1 cup peanut butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
½ teaspoon vanilla

Sift the flour and soda together. Cream the margarine until light and fluffy. Cream the peanut butter into the margarine, mixing in the brown and white sugar. Beat the eggs, one at a time, and add vanilla. Mix in the sifted dry ingredients. Form the dough into small balls and put on a lightly greased baking sheet. Press lightly with a fork to make a criss-cross design on top of each cookie. Bake in a moderate oven (350 to 375° F.) for 10 to 15 minutes. This makes about six and one-half dozen cookies.

Leftover Roast Success

A treasured recipe among practical homemakers is one which can be used to glorify any kind of leftover roast. Due to the present large pork supply, you'll probably be enjoying juicy pork loin roasts and shoulder roasts often these days. With the leftovers from these or any other roasts, you can make this easy casserole. In hot fat lightly fry some chopped celery and onion. Combine with diced or ground leftover roast and diced cooked vegetables in equal amounts. Moisten this mixture with white sauce or leftover gravy, or a mixture of both. Season well with salt and pepper and a little Worcestershire sauce. (If you don't have any leftover, try one of the good canned beef gravies on the market. Or make gravy from bouillon cubes or bottled meat extract.) Pour mixture into a greased casserole and bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for about 30 minutes. To further glorify this dish, upon removal from the oven top with mashed white or sweet potatoes, and place under the broiler for a few minutes to brown.

Swiss Miss Omelettes

The French have a way with omelettes, large or small, plain or filled. Given a skillet, some fresh eggs and margarine, they can prepare a tender, delicate omelette in a twinkling.

1. Mix the eggs lightly with a fork.
2. Place the margarine in a skillet and let it brown lightly. This makes the eggs congeal quickly and gives the omelette a good taste and a nice brown color.
3. Pour enough of the beaten egg to make an individual omelette into the hot margarine and stir briskly and quickly with a fork.
4. Cook only until the omelette is congealed and remove from the skillet immediately.

SWISS MISS OMELETTES

6 eggs, beaten lightly
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons fortified margarine
1 tablespoon fortified margarine
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon finely grated onion
1 cup finely cut chipped beef*
¼ cup cream
4 thin slices Swiss cheese

Add salt and pepper to beaten eggs. Melt 3 tablespoons margarine in a small skillet over low heat and make 8 individual omelettes out of the egg mixture. Set omelettes aside. Melt 1 tablespoon margarine in skillet. Blend in flour and add milk, chipped beef and onion. Cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Place about 2 tablespoons chipped beef mixture in center of each omelette and roll. Place rolls in a well-margarined shallow baking dish. Top with cream and cover with cheese slices. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 20 minutes, or until cheese melts.

Yield: 4 servings.

Leftover Roast Success

A treasured recipe among practical homemakers is one which can be used to glorify any kind of leftover roast. Due to the present large pork supply, you'll probably be enjoying juicy pork loin roasts and shoulder roasts often these days. With the leftovers from these or any other roasts, you can make this easy casserole. In hot fat lightly fry some chopped celery and onion. Combine with diced or ground leftover roast and diced cooked vegetables in equal amounts. Moisten this mixture with white sauce or leftover gravy, or a mixture of both. Season well with salt and pepper and a little Worcestershire sauce. (If you don't have any leftover, try one of the good canned beef gravies on the market. Or make gravy from bouillon cubes or bottled meat extract.) Pour mixture into a greased casserole and bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for about 30 minutes. To further glorify this dish, upon removal from the oven top with mashed white or sweet potatoes, and place under the broiler for a few minutes to brown.

Swiss Miss Omelettes

The French have a way with omelettes, large or small, plain or filled. Given a skillet, some fresh eggs and margarine, they can prepare a tender, delicate omelette in a twinkling.

1. Mix the eggs lightly with a fork.
2. Place the margarine in a skillet and let it brown lightly. This makes the eggs congeal quickly and gives the omelette a good taste and a nice brown color.
3. Pour enough of the beaten egg to make an individual omelette into the hot margarine and stir briskly and quickly with a fork.
4. Cook only until the omelette is congealed and remove from the skillet immediately.

SWISS MISS OMELETTES

6 eggs, beaten lightly
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons fortified margarine
1 tablespoon fortified margarine
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon finely grated onion
1 cup finely cut chipped beef*
¼ cup cream
4 thin slices Swiss cheese

Add salt and pepper to beaten eggs. Melt 3 tablespoons margarine in a small skillet over low heat and make 8 individual omelettes out of the egg mixture. Set omelettes aside. Melt 1 tablespoon margarine in skillet. Blend in flour and add milk, chipped beef and onion. Cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Place about 2 tablespoons chipped beef mixture in center of each omelette and roll. Place rolls in a well-margarined shallow baking dish. Top with cream and cover with cheese slices. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 20 minutes, or until cheese melts.

Yield: 4 servings.

*Virginia Ham may also be used.

Baked Cheese Puff

Butter
4 slices American cheese
4 eggs
2 cups milk
½ tablespoon salt

Make two ordinary cheese sandwiches with the bread, butter, and cheese. Place the sandwiches in shallow baking dish. Beat eggs slightly (as for custard). Add milk and salt. Pour this mixture over the cheese sandwiches and bake in slow oven, 325°F., about 45 minutes. Serves 4.

Succotash Au Gratin

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2 cups cooked whole kernel corn
3 cups cooked green beans
1 cup grated American cheese

Melt butter in large saucepan; blend in flour. Add milk gradually and cook until mixture boils and thickens, stirring constantly. Stir in salt, pepper, and dry mustard. Add corn, beans, and cheese; heat until cheese is melted, and vegetables are hot. Serves 6.

HEART-WARMER

On a cold night, plan a cheerful supper that features pork and beans. Top each serving with a strip of crisp bacon. And accompany the beans with steamed brown bread and generous helpings of apple-nut salad.

Drink Your Apple A Day

After hustling around with the morning's work, you'll find a tall, tall glass of cold, cold apple juice wonderfully refreshing and a great picker-upper and, of course, pure pure apple juice is as wholesome as it is good to taste. By keeping several cans or bottles of it always chilling in the refrigerator, it will be handy, sparkling cold and delicious when you want it.

Your table during the holiday season can be laden with delightful treats that cost very little. Cranberry-filled Econe Layer is a delicious luncheon bread that carries out the Christmas color scheme. To make it, spread a mixture of ½ cup chopped cranberries, ¼ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind between two layers of scone dough. Sprinkle the top with orange sugar and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) 25 minutes. Serve cranberry-flavored scone wedges with chicken salad and a fruit gelatin mold.

Breakfast Sets Pace

When 64 Pennsylvania families participated in a year-long program of good nutrition, careful medical tests found their health greatly improved. Scientists said the widespread improvement of breakfast was one of the most potent factors in bringing up the dietary as a whole. Let breakfast set the pace for good nutrition in your family.

Cookies baked by the basketfuls are the answer to the fall dessert and snack problem. Drop cookies, especially if they are the quick-mix kind, can be mixed in a jiffy and dropped casually and quickly from a spoon to a baking sheet. You'll have a crowd of customers ready and waiting before they come out of the oven. If you wish, decorate the cookies with icings made from confectioners' sugar, adding a garnish of chopped nuts.

Vary the stuffing you use for roast chicken: add finely chopped parsley, or chopped pecans to it sometime.

Pie of the Month

Mark a special family occasion with a rich and warm mincemeat pie, served with soft custard or hot brandy sauce and coffee.

If your husband remarks that he likes to see company come because then the food is extra good, it's time to pamper him alone!

Bake him a luscious mince pie, with an "M" pricked in the top crust for easy identification. (This also serves a purpose—that of letting steam escape during baking.) Or, he'll be equally pleased if you surprise him with a good mincemeat pie from your bakery.

Using packaged mincemeat, all that remains is to make a fine flaky pastry to carry the filling. The experts have pastry-making down to a few simple rules: Cut shortening into flour to make a dry crumbly mixture. Sprinkle only enough water over different portions of the mixture to make it hold together when pressed, and roll out lightly.

Though it really needs no trimmings, this wonderful two-crusted mincemeat pie may be garnished with wedges of cheese, or a custard, rum or brandy sauce.

MINCEMEAT PIE

Pastry

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening
3 to 5 tablespoons cold water

Sift together flour and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add water. Mix into a dry crumbly dough. Toss on floured pastry cloth. Press dough together. Roll about ⅛ inch thick. Line pie pan with pastry. Fill with mincemeat. Moisten edge of pastry. Cover with top pastry and trim edges. Flute edges with thumb and forefinger, or press together with tines of fork. Prick or slit top of pastry. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 10 to 15 minutes. Reduce to moderate oven (350°F.) and continue baking 30 minutes.

Filling

2 to 3 cups mincemeat

Makes 1 9-inch pie.

Use slices of enriched bread to make attractive garnishes for casseroles. Cut slices with a doughnut cutter or with cookie cutters. Place over casseroles of creamed tuna and peas, creamed chicken or turkey. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Place in moderate oven (375° F.) until cheese is melted and bread is a delicate brown. The toast adds good nourishment as well as good looks, since it provides essential B-vitamins and food iron.

Crushed peppermint stick candy, leftover from holiday time, is delicious added to tapioca pudding.

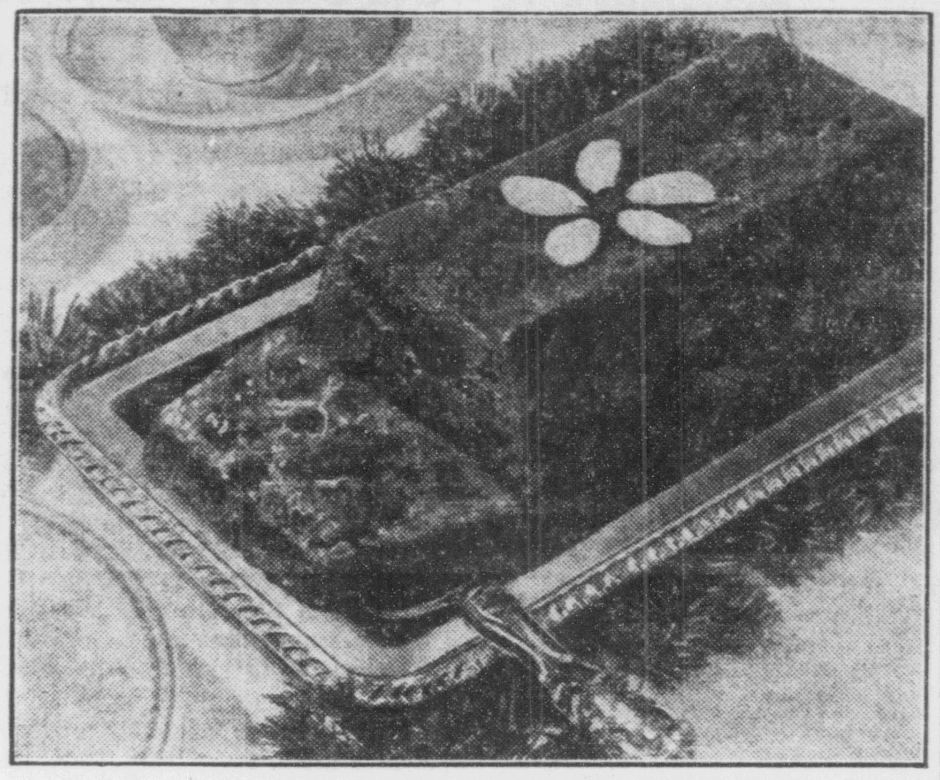
Surprise Fruit Cake



A BEAUTIFUL mincemeat cake—made with condensed tomato soup as the liquid—has a rich texture and keeps especially well.

Almost as enjoyable as the holidays ahead are the festive preparations—like making fruit cake. You've a treat in store in a new cake that calls for condensed tomato soup as liquid and mincemeat as the fruit.

A richer texture results from the use of the soup. And the cake keeps moist so long, thanks to this combination of ingredients. It's a dessert worthy of any occasion. Serve it at the holiday feast or whenever refreshments are in order.

SURPRISE FRUIT CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon powdered cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2½ cups "prepared" mincemeat or 2, 9-ounce packages "condensed". (Add 1 cup water; boil 3 minutes, cool.)
2 eggs, well beaten
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
1 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and spices. Cream shortening and sugar; add cold mincemeat and mix thoroughly. Blend in eggs. Add flour mixture alternately with soup; stir until smooth. Mix in nuts. Pour into two greased loaf pans (8" x 5" x 2½") or one 9½" tube pan; bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 80 minutes, or until done. Cool; serve with hard sauce or cover with your favorite white frosting.

Lemon Frosting

4 tablespoons milk
1 package coconut fudge mix
½ teaspoon lemon extract

Keep water boiling in bottom of double boiler. Measure milk into top part. Add entire contents of package of coconut fudge mix. Allow to stand without stirring about a minute. Then stir 3 to 4 minutes — until glossy. DO NOT BEAT. Add lemon extract. Spread frosting on cooled cake. To keep frosting soft for easy spreading, replace top of double boiler over hot water.

When the young crowd drops in to inspect your Christmas tree and gifts, they'll be hungry, as always. Serve turkey sandwiches with cranberry sauce, and pass a tray of holiday cookies with mugs of hot chocolate. If they come for supper, hot waffles are a good dish. The waffles may be topped with creamed turkey. Or, if a dessert waffle is preferred, date waffles with a tangy lemon sauce offer a new approach to a waffle supper.

Drink Your Apple A Day

After hustling around with the morning's work, you'll find a tall, tall glass of cold, cold apple juice wonderfully refreshing and a great picker-upper and, of course, pure pure apple juice is as wholesome as it is good to taste. By keeping several cans or bottles of it always chilling in the refrigerator, it will be handy, sparkling cold and delicious when you want it.

Your table during the holiday season can be laden with delightful treats that cost very little. Cranberry-filled Econe Layer is a delicious luncheon bread that carries out the Christmas color scheme. To make it, spread a mixture of ½ cup chopped cranberries, ¼ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind between two layers of scone dough. Sprinkle the top with orange sugar and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) 25 minutes. Serve cranberry-flavored scone wedges with chicken salad and a fruit gelatin mold.

Breakfast Sets Pace

When 64 Pennsylvania families participated in a year-long program of good nutrition, careful medical tests found their health greatly improved. Scientists said the widespread improvement of breakfast was one of the most potent factors in bringing up the dietary as a whole. Let breakfast set the pace for good nutrition in your family.

Cookies baked by the basketfuls are the answer to the fall dessert and snack problem. Drop cookies, especially if they are the quick-mix kind, can be mixed in a jiffy and dropped casually and quickly from a spoon to a baking sheet. You'll have a crowd of customers ready and waiting before they come out of the oven. If you wish, decorate the cookies with icings made from confectioners' sugar, adding a garnish of chopped nuts.

Vary the stuffing you use for roast chicken: add finely chopped parsley, or chopped pecans to it sometime.

Pie of the Month

Mark a special family occasion with a rich and warm mincemeat pie, served with soft custard or hot brandy sauce and coffee.

If your husband remarks that he likes to see company come because then the food is extra good, it's time to pamper him alone!

Bake him a luscious mince pie, with an "M" pricked in the top crust for easy identification. (This also serves a purpose—that of letting steam escape during baking.) Or, he'll be equally pleased if you surprise him with a good mincemeat pie from your bakery.

Using packaged mincemeat, all that remains is to make a fine flaky pastry to carry the filling. The experts have pastry-making down to a few simple rules: Cut shortening into flour to make a dry crumbly mixture. Sprinkle only enough water over different portions of the mixture to make it hold together when pressed, and roll out lightly.

Though it really needs no trimmings, this wonderful two-crusted mincemeat pie may be garnished with wedges of cheese, or a custard, rum or brandy sauce.

MINCEMEAT PIE

Pastry

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening
3 to 5 tablespoons cold water

Sift together flour and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add water. Mix into a dry crumbly dough. Toss on floured pastry cloth. Press dough together. Roll about ⅛ inch thick. Line pie pan with pastry. Fill with mincemeat. Moisten edge of pastry. Cover with top pastry and trim edges. Flute edges with thumb and forefinger, or press together with tines of fork. Prick or slit top of pastry. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 10 to 15 minutes. Reduce to moderate oven (350°F.) and continue baking 30 minutes.

Filling

2 to 3 cups mincemeat

Makes 1 9-inch pie.

Use slices of enriched bread to make attractive garnishes for casseroles. Cut slices with a doughnut cutter or with cookie cutters. Place over casseroles of creamed tuna and peas, creamed chicken or turkey. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Place in moderate oven (375° F.) until cheese is melted and bread is a delicate brown. The toast adds good nourishment as well as good looks, since it provides essential B-vitamins and food iron.

Crushed peppermint stick candy, leftover from holiday time, is delicious added to tapioca pudding.

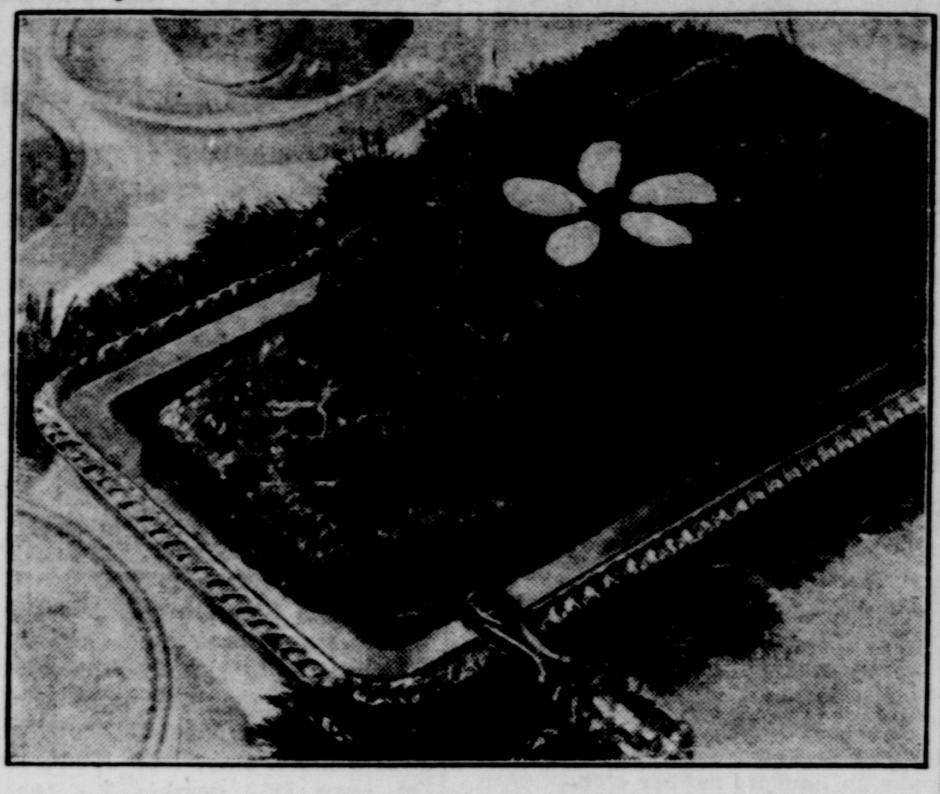
Surprise Fruit Cake



A BEAUTIFUL mincemeat cake—made with condensed tomato soup as the liquid—has a rich texture and keeps especially well.

Almost as enjoyable as the holidays ahead are the festive preparations—like making fruit cake. You've a treat in store in a new cake that calls for condensed tomato soup as liquid and mincemeat as the fruit.

A richer texture results from the use of the soup. And the cake keeps moist so long, thanks to this combination of ingredients. It's a dessert worthy of any occasion. Serve it at the holiday feast or whenever refreshments are in order.

SURPRISE FRUIT CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon powdered cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2½ cups "prepared" mincemeat or 2, 9-ounce packages "condensed". (Add 1 cup water; boil 3 minutes, cool.)
2 eggs, well beaten
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
1 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and spices. Cream shortening and sugar; add cold mincemeat and mix thoroughly. Blend in eggs. Add flour mixture alternately with soup; stir until smooth. Mix in nuts. Pour into two greased loaf pans (8" x 5" x 2½") or one 9½" tube pan; bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 80 minutes, or until done. Cool; serve with hard sauce or cover with your favorite white frosting.

Lemon Frosting

4 tablespoons milk
1 package coconut fudge mix
½ teaspoon lemon extract

Keep water boiling in bottom of double boiler. Measure milk into top part. Add entire contents of package of coconut fudge mix. Allow to stand without stirring about a minute. Then stir 3 to 4 minutes — until glossy. DO NOT BEAT. Add lemon extract. Spread frosting on cooled cake. To keep frosting soft for easy spreading, replace top of double boiler over hot water.

When the young crowd drops in to inspect your Christmas tree and gifts, they'll be hungry, as always. Serve turkey sandwiches with cranberry sauce, and pass a tray of holiday cookies with mugs of hot chocolate. If they come for supper, hot waffles are a good dish. The waffles may be topped with creamed turkey. Or, if a dessert waffle is preferred, date waffles with a tangy lemon sauce offer a new approach to a waffle supper.

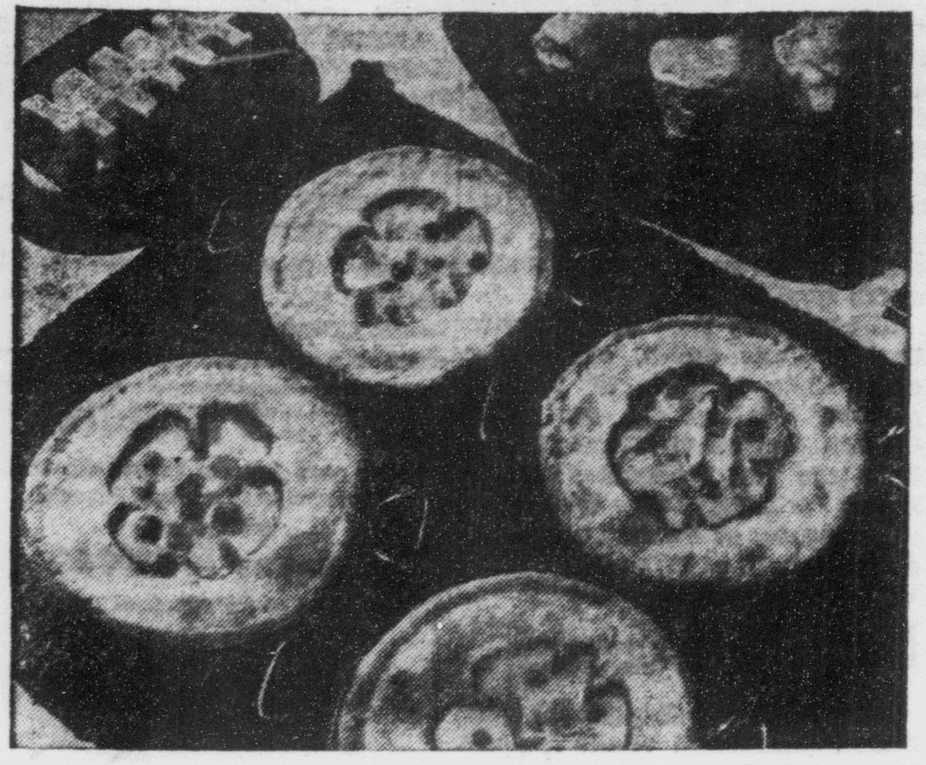
Turkey Pies after Thanksgiving



There's double luck in these Savory Turkey Pies. First of all, they turn the last of the holiday turkey into an old-fashioned and highly satisfying dish. And, secondly, the cut-outs which center the crust of each pie are shaped to resemble a four-leaf clover – the symbol of good luck which leads you to anticipate the flaky crust, the delicious filling.

The pastry topping, purposely rolled out to be slightly thick, is made with yellow table margarine for extra richness and table flavor. Now that margarine is available in most states in pre-colored, quarter-pound prints, thrifty homemakers are finding it a perfect all-purpose product for use as a table spread, a rich shortening, a flavor seasoning.

SAVORY TURKEY PIES
(Makes 4 servings)
¼ cup table margarine
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon minced onion
2 cups milk
2 cups cooked turkey
1 cup cooked, diced carrots
1 cup cooked peas

Melt margarine in top part of double boiler; add flour, salt, pepper, onion and blend well. Gradually pour milk into flour, stirring constantly. Continue to cook and stir until thickened. Fold in carrots and peas. Pour mixture into four individual casseroles. Cover with flaky margarine pastry and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) 10 minutes, or until golden brown.

FLAKY MARGARINE PASTRY
2 cups all-purpose flour, sifted
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup table margarine
⅓ cup cold water

Sift flour and salt. Cut in margarine with pastry blender or two knives until it is evenly distributed to resemble the size of peas. Gently stir cold water into flour mixture until water is absorbed. Press lightly into a ball and wrap in waxed paper. Chill 15 to 30 minutes. Roll out pastry to fit casseroles, allowing an extra inch all around. Cut openings in centers of each in the shape of a four-leaf clover to allow steam to escape. Adjust pastry over turkey mixture, folding edge of dough under to make a double layer. Press edges against rims with tines of fork.

Apples At Their Best

Most people think there's nothing better than apple pie at its warm, juicy best. But if you take the makings of an apple pie—crisp new fall apples, a bit of pastry, spices and sugar—and combine them in a little different fashion, you're more than apt to come up with something just as good. That's saying a lot, but try "Apple Dumplings" or "Applescotch Pie" and see if it isn't so.

Bran Pastry
¼ cup ready-to-eat bran
1½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
4 tablespoons cold water

Crush bran into fine crumbs; mix with flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Add water, a little at a time, until dough is moist enough to hold together.

Apple Dumplings
1 recipe Bran Pastry.
6 medium-sized apples, peeled, cored
6 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon butter or margarine
½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter or or margarine
½ cup water

Roll out pastry into large rectangle about ⅛-inch thick; cut into squares about 6x6 inches. Place 1 apple in the center of each pastry square. Fill center of each apple with mixture of brown sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg; dot with butter. Bring opposite corners of pastry together over top of apple; moisten edges with water and seal. Repeat with other corners. Prick pastry with fork. Place in greased casserole. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes. Combine sugar, water and melted butter; baste dumplings. Reduce heat to 350° F. Continue baking dumplings about 45 minutes, basting every 15 minutes with syrup.

Yield: 6 servings.

Applescotch Pie
1 recipe Bran Pastry.
½ cup water
1 teaspoon vinegar
¾ cup brown sugar
5 cups sliced raw apples
2 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Cook water, vinegar and one-half the sugar to boiling point; add apples and simmer until tender; remove apples. Combine remaining sugar, flour and salt and add to syrup. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add butter and vanilla; cool.

Place apples in pie pan lined with Bran Pastry; add butterscotch mixture and cover with top crust, or lattice strips of pastry. Bake in moderately hot oven (425° F.) 30-35 minutes.

Yield: 1 9-inch pie.

Milk and milk products give us all the calcium we need in our day-to-day diets. Include soups made with milk, creamed or scalloped dishes, milk desserts and ice cream often in family menus.

If you're planning to bake a coffee cake as a surprise for Christmas brunch, make it quickly by the muffin method so that you'll have time to join in the holiday fun. Sprinkle an unusual Coconut Lemon Topping evenly over the coffee cake batter in 9-inch layer pan. Then, with floured fingertip, press a star design deeply into the coffee cake. Bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 25 minutes. To make the Coconut Lemon Topping, combine 1 tablespoon shredded lemon rind, 2 tablespoons sugar, and 3 tablespoons enriched flour. Cut or rub in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine until mixture is crumbly. Add 2 tablespoons shredded coconut and mix lightly.

West Virginia County Names Provide Link With Mountain State's Virginia Heritage

By ALBERT D. DARBY, JR.
News Staff Writer

Cumberland's West Virginia neighbors generally like to disregard the fact that the Mountain State was once a part of old Virginia.

Similarly, Virginians like to carry on a sort of feud with West Virginia by ignoring the fact the latter state once was the western third of Virginia.

Cross State Lines

Despite these general attitudes, natives of West Virginia have gone to Virginia and there gained a measure of fame. On the other hand a number of natives of the Old Dominion have migrated to West Virginia to rise to prominence.

A few names will illustrate the point. Both of Virginia's United States Senators, Harry F. Byrd and A. Willis Robertson, were born in Martinsburg, W. Va. The late James H. Price, who was governor of Virginia from 1938 until 1942, was born in Greenbrier County, W. Va. Just this month Dr. Mack I. Shanholtz, who was born at Cold Stream in nearby Hampshire County, W. Va., assumed new duties as Virginia's State Health Commissioner.

On the other hand West Virginia's former United States Senator Chapman Revercomb was born in Covington, Va. Then, too, Louis A. Johnson who gained prominence if not fame as Secretary of Defense while a resident of Clarksburg, W. Va., first saw the light of day in Roanoke, Va.

Virginia Heritage

One sure way in which West Virginia can never forget its Virginia heritage is in its county names. A check shows that 32 of the 55 county names in West Virginia honor persons whose fame is connected with Virginia.

As a matter of fact a reading of these names is like recalling a Who's Who of Virginia in the 75 years between 1775 and 1850.

The years have obscured the fame of many of these persons although a few are known to every schoolboy. Certainly, no youngster of school age would have any difficulty in telling how Jefferson County, Marshall County and Monroe County got their names.

Early Presidents

Thomas Jefferson and James Monroe, who gained greatest fame as early presidents of the United States, earlier rose to prominence as governors of post - Revolutionary War Virginia. Incidentally, they are only two of the 13 Virginia governors for whom West Virginia counties were named. Of course, these counties all were named while they were still a part of Virginia.

Earliest governor for whom a West Virginia county is named is Norborne Berkeley, Baron de Botetourt, who was Virginia's colonial governor between 1768 and 1770.

The post-Revolutionary governors whose names West Virginia counties still honor are Jefferson, 1779-81; Edmund Jennings Randolph, 1786-88; Robert Brooke, 1794-96; James Wood, 1796-99; Monroe, 1799-1803; William H. Cabell, 1805-08 John Tyler, Sr., 1808-11 (his son, John, later was tenth president of the United States); William Cary Nicholas, 1814-1816; James Patton Preston, 1816-19; James Pleasants, Jr., 1822-25; Thomas Walter Gilmer, 1840-41, and James McDowell, 1842-44.

Ritchie Ancestor

Marylanders probably will be interested to know that the Governor Cabell in the previous list was the great-grandfather of Albert Cabell Ritchie, who served four terms as governor of Maryland. Ritchie incidentally, was born on Governor Street in Richmond, just a stone's throw from the Virginia Governor's Mansion. Another great-grandson of Governor Cabell is James Branch Cabell, the distinguished Virginia-born novelist.

John Marshall, whose famed decisions in 34 years as chief justice of the United States, beginning in 1801, were instrumental in the development of a strong Federal government, heads the list of six Virginia-born jurists whose names are permanently memoralized by West Virginia counties.

Another of these jurists who served on the United States Supreme Court was Philip P. Barbour, appointed shortly after Marshall's death and who served in the highest court the last four years of his life. Barbour earlier had been Speaker of the United States House of Representatives and a Federal District judge.

The other four jurists for whom West Virginia counties are named all served on the Virginia State Supreme Court of Appeals. They were Edmund Pendleton, first president of the Virginia State Supreme Court, from 1779 until 1803; Spencer Roane, appointed in 1794 and a member of the court for 27 years; Abel Parker Upshur and Henry St. George Tucker, who was president of the state's top court from 1831 until his retirement in 1841.

Defies Tradition

The tradition in Virginia seems to be that the descendants of the great men of the past descend to mediocrity. Not so the Tucker family. Every generation contains men of distinction in law, education or religion.

A son of the Henry St. George Tucker for whom the county is named, John Randolph Tucker, followed his father as a member of Congress and devoted much of his life as a professor of law at Washington and Lee University. Tucker Hall, which houses the W&L Law School, was named for him.

A second Henry St. George Tucker, a grandson of the first, also followed the footsteps of his grandfather and father to Congress. In 1925 he created a stir in Congress by refusing to accept an increase in salary which had been voted him. His own grandfather had acted similarly in 1816.

Another grandson of the first Henry St. George Tucker was Beverley D. Tucker, who rose to become the Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Virginia. His two sons both also became bishops. One, who bears the traditionally distinguished name, Henry St. George, is the retired presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States. His brother, Beverley, is Episcopal bishop of Ohio. In the current younger generation, a great grandson of the first Henry St. George Tucker, whose name is John Randolph Tucker, Jr., is a young Richmond lawyer who has been elected to the Virginia House of Delegates.

Two other Virginians beside Jefferson who signed the Declaration of Independence have given their names to West Virginia counties. They are Carter Braxton and Benjamin Harrison.

Virginia soldiers have not been overlooked in the naming of West Virginia counties. The names of three are carried by counties. They are Col. Charles Lewis, a native of Augusta County, Va., who was killed in the Battle of Point Pleasant, 1774, when the unfriendly Indians were driven back into Ohio, General Hugh Mercer and General Daniel Morgan, both of whom gained fame in the Revolutionary War. Histories indicate definitely that both Lewis and Morgan were with General Edward Braddock in his tragic defeat after they left Fort Cumberland and there is some evidence that Mercer, then in the Pennsylvania militia, also suffered in the defeat.

The eight others with Virginia connection cannot readily be classified as in the previous listings.

One of the most prominent in this group is George Mason, author of the Virginia Constitution and a member of the convention that framed the United States Constitution. Actually, because he feared a strong Federal government, Mason opposed adoption of the Constitution.

Then there is Samuel Hardy, who had risen to considerable prominence when he died at the young age of 27. One of the charter members of the famed Phi Beta Kappa Society at the College of William and Mary, along with John Marshall and Spencer Roane, Hardy was lieutenant-governor of Virginia for a few months in 1782, when he was only 24 and served in the Continental Congress the last two years of his short life.

One newspaperman is memorialized in the name of a West Virginia county. He is Thomas Ritchie, who for 41 years, beginning in 1804, edited a Richmond newspaper. He was popular in the western part of the state for his advocacy of internal improvements. Another man whose name is carried by a West Virginia county is John Taylor, who rose to prominence as a conservative United States Senator.

Born In Maryland

One of the men for whom a West Virginia county was named was born in Maryland but began his career in Virginia. He was William Wirt, a native of Bladensburg, who began his practice of law at Culpepper, Va. While acting as government counsel in the 1807 treason trial of Aaron Burr he delivered a lengthy grandiloquent speech which for years was a favorite for schoolboy recitations. He reached his greatest fame as United States Attorney-General from 1817 until 1829. In 1832 he was presidential candidate of the Anti-Masonic Party and received the electoral votes of Vermont.

Philip Doddridge is unique among the Virginians remembered in the names of West Virginia counties. He actually lived nearly all his life in Brooke County, in what after his death became West Virginia. Born in Bedford County, Pa., he later moved to Brooke County and was a United States Congressman from western Virginia when he died.

No account about West Virginia counties would be complete without mention of Sir Walter Raleigh and Pocahontas, the Indian princess. Although he never set foot on Virginia soil, Raleigh was actually the spiritual father of the colony. He named the colony for Queen Elizabeth, the virgin queen, and in 1584 and 1585 sent out explorers and colonists, but no permanent settlements resulted.

Although the story of her saving Captain John Smith, one of the early white colonists in Virginia, probably was just the product of Captain Smith's vivid imagination, it is true that Pocahontas was an Indian princess born about 1595 the daughter of Powhatan, the Indian chieftain of Virginia.

Earthworms Not So Lowly

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (INS) — If you still think of earthworms as nothing but fishbait, you've missed the boat.

Dr. G. E. Gates, head of the biology department at Colby College, said today that earthworms have been used in medicines the world over because of their very high vitamin content.

Moreover, Dr. Gates said, history books tell of roast worms putting in a very successful appearance on the banquet tables of France.

Not every earthworm will fit into a baitcan, either, he continued. Some Texas varieties reach six feet in length, and Australia outdoes even the Lone Star State with a giant species 12-feet long.

Nor are earthworms always in the ground. In Central America and New Guinea they live in trees 40 to 60 feet high, and in Siam worms have been found on the roofs of the tallest buildings.

And here's another angle Dr. Gates pointed out: Species of the earthworm in the East Indies can warble a creditable tune. Probably something like "I've Got My Love To Keep Me Worm."

So next time you hear somebody casting aspersions on the lowly earthworm, don't get hooked — put in a plug for the old boy.

Washington County Bids For Quick Start On Chronic Disease Hospital

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — (AP) — The Washington County commissioners have voted to press for a quick start on the construction of a state chronic disease hospital on the north edge of Hagerstown.

Winslow F. Burhans, chairman of the board, said the commissioners of the other Western Maryland counties will be asked to join in an appeal to the Maryland General Assembly. The campaign also will be carried on among state senators and members of the House of Delegates from the western counties.

Burhans said the need for a chronic disease hospital has grown acute since the temporary institution at Camp Ritchie was ordered shut down.

The state now is in the process of transferring its patients to the Deershead Chronic Disease Hospital on the Eastern Shore at Salisbury. Most of the patients at Ritchie were sent there from the western counties and at Salisbury they are now far from homes and families.

Maryland has a long-range program for building three chronic disease hospitals—one on the Eastern Shore, one in Baltimore and one in Western Maryland. They would provide care for needy persons who require hospitalization for chronic illnesses, mostly associated with old age.

The temporary hospital was set up at Camp Ritchie to provide such care but this facility was lose when the federal government exercised its option and took over the Maryland National Guard camp last summer for part of a communications center it is building in the mountains along the Pennsylvania state line.

The Deershead hospital on the Eastern Shore, only one of the three to be actually built under the long-range plan, opened a little more than a year ago.

Meantime, Maryland has bought the city's old Sydenham Communicable Disease Hospital in Baltimore and plans to use it at least temporarily as the chronic disease hospital for the Baltimore area.

Washington County already has agreed to provide the land for the permanent Western Maryland hospital. The county commissioners voted to give to the state the present site of the Washington County Home for the Aged just across the north city limits.

Car Hits Cruiser; No Charges Filed

A police cruiser in charge of Patrolman Joseph H. Stitcher, 29, of 1019 Frederick Street, was damaged yesterday in an accident at Bedford Street and Pearre Avenue.

His parked vehicle was struck by a 1950 convertible driven by Don Dorfman, 38, of Philadelphia. Total damage to both machines was estimated at $100.

Police said a bus stopped opposite the cruiser to discharge passengers. As Dorfman, traveling south on Bedford Street, attempted to go between the two vehicles another car pulled out from behind the bus. Dorfman swerved to the right and hit the cruiser.

No charges were filed against Dorfman.

West German Government Gives Aid To War Criminals

BONN, Germany, Nov. 28—(AP)—The West German government has set aside nearly $500,000 for legal aid to German war criminals.

Any German convicted by the Allies of World War II crimes or still awaiting trial can tap this fund to pay his defense costs—if he is broke.

More than 200 are still awaiting trial in France on war crimes charges, they say. About 400 are serving war crimes sentences in various West European countries. Over 1,000 are in allied war crimes prisons inside Germany. Many of these are appealing their convictions.

German officials say this special fund was set up to "give every accused the possibility of a lawful defense. This applies also to cases where sentence has already been passed."

The justice ministrys' budget, recently published, shows that the fund totals 2,000,000 marks.

The budget lists the fund as "expenses inside and out side of the country necessary to extend sufficient law protection to Germans who are being pursued or convicted for acts in connection with war events." It adds:

"In the interest of Germans still being held, a further extension of law protection as well as the acceleration of trials is deemed necessary.

Justice ministry officials are unable to say how much of the fund has been spent. The appropriation expires in March, 1952.

Allied officials were chagrined early this year when they learned that the government had spent more than $12,000 in American currency in an effort to halt the execution of seven Nazis convicted of slaughtering millions during the war.

This sum was paid to an American attorney in Washington who handled their appeals before the Supreme Court. The seven were hanged at the U.S. Army's war crimes prison in Landsberg.

Germany's New Navy "Will Run" In Event Of War

EMDEN, Germany, Nov. 28—(AP)—"Those white yachts over there are Germany's new navy," smiled the old whiskered fisherman.

"It's a navy that will run away in case of war."

All along the German North Sea coast between Cuxhaven and Emden, it is common knowledge that pleasure boats have been prepared by cautious, well-to-do Germans to carry them to distant refuge if war breaks out.

They are tied up in small and big harbors. It is difficult to estimate their total number, but it is probably over 100. Several more wealthy families recently have bought and equipped such yachts.

Many an old seadog is reported to have made quite a lot of money buying and reselling old yachts to nervous landlubbers.

Some of the yachts have not gone out on a cruise in the past year, but they are regularly overhauled and inspected for sea-fitness.

Big sedans have been seen by fishermen bringing loads of provisions to be put aboard the idle craft.

Most owners are tight-lipped about their emergency plans, but the wife of an export merchant said frankly:

"Within two hours our boat would be ready to sail. Over there we could sell it for $50,000 and get a new start in life.

"The pantry is well equipped and fuel is stowed away in the saloon. For our family of five and the three sailors there is still enough room."

"Over there," in this woman's case, means the United States. But others prefer such destinations as South Africa and South America.

For a transatlantic passage, an average motor yacht would need about three weeks and would use three tons of diesel oil, harbor men say. For completely outfitting it, the cost ranges up to 200,000 d-marks ($47,600).

"One thing is certain," said the export merchant's wife, "D-day will not find us unprepared.

"But don't think we have got the war jitters," she added quickly.

Delays In Using V-2s May Have Cost Hitler War

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK — (AP) — Hitler's ignorance of science possibly cost him the war, and certainly made the Allied victory much easier.

This is the gist of a report on Germany's guided missiles—the V-2 and the V-1—by Joseph Warner Angell, historian of the U. S. Air Force, in the December Atlantic Magazine.

The historian quotes Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's book, Crusade In Europe, that use of these missiles six months earlier would have made the cross-channel invasion more difficult if not impossible.

Why the delay of six months? The historical records show Hitler four times turning thumbs down on these missiles. Each time he refused to give them priority. The last refusal was because of a dream.

His dream was that the V-2 would never land on England.

He took it as an inspiration and said 'I can rely on my inspirations."

Probably the Germans would have had the V-2 ready for firing on England and other enemies not merely six months earlier but a year or two earlier except for Hitler's delays.

The V-2 came into being only because some of the military clique, the old-line generals, believed in this scientific miracle. They kept the work going, at slowed pace, wheenver Hitler turned his back.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (INS) — Chances are that if we do get a peace in Korea we'll be a lot more inclined to use native troops hereafter in our ideological wars in far places.

This is a popular thought with millions of Americans, especially those with relatives in uniform. Chiang Kai Shek destroyed much of the effectiveness of the rancid propaganda campaign against him in this country by offering (as he continues to offer) 30,000 well-trained Chinese nationalist troops to fight on our side in Korea, under American command.

But do we know much about handling and understanding native troops? Not too much, but we learned a lot in Korea. From all reports we have produced a first class South Korean army out of the ruins of the makeshift one which was cut to pieces so badly. Some military people think that if we give the ROK's enough stuff and a little high-level guidance they'll be able to hold that truce line that is being drawn and, in time, we can pull all our men out of there.

One U. S. officer who has made a comprehensive study of the use of native troops by those past-masters of such tactics, the British, and by our own hesitant leaders, is Lt. Col. Harold L. Oppenheimer, USMC. Col. Oppenheimer, a Harvard graduate, gathered material for his PhD thesis by studing Bolivia's Aymara Indians as a member of a Harvard anthropological expedition, had a tough war, became a very successful businessman in Kansas City after the war, then returned to the Marines when the Korean War began.

For a time during the big war he was CO of a Samoan Marine company. His reports to his superiors on this experience and the fruits of his studies are getting more attention paid to them now than perhaps any reports of the same nature that ever preceded them.

The colonel's premise is simple: It is not true that "the only good native troops are always on the other side." He says that we can seriously reduce the numerical superiority of our foe by making intelligent use of millions of allies in India, Japan, Formosa and the Philippines, and the presumption is that we could find other millions in Eastern Europe and elsewhere if trouble erupted.

Oppenheimer says that the proper understanding of the word "native" cannot be overestimated. In the large Oriental group a "native" might range all the way from a zoot suiter from Tokyo to an Eskimo blubber fancier from the upper waters of the Yukon. An "African native" might be either a Negrito pygmy or an Englishman from Capetown.

If in time we do deal with "natives" to help us defend our civilization, our officers, the colonel suggests, must have a knowledge of and tolerance for a host of sincerely and deep-rooted cultures, including representatives of what he calls a "non-material culture." And this would include those natives' birth customs, child training, sexual practices, religious beliefs, dances and ceremonies, methods of warfare, customs and taboos relating to food, shelter and clothing, legends and folk lore, and burial rites.

The British formed in India what Oppenheimer calls "the best large scale unit of its kind since the days of the Roman empire," one with high morale and extreme loyalty to the crown. Indian troops fought for Britain in every theater of war in World War II, suffering, among other things, nearly 200,000 casualties. Yet Britain had to learn the hard way. The great mutiny at Meerut a century ago was caused by a rumor among the Moslem troops that a new British army rifle grease was made from pork fat, and a rumor among Hindu units that it was rendered from the sacred cow.

But they learned. Col. Lawrence even got the Arabs to fight for him. If we are to parallel Britain's success, and tap (in the case of the Orient) unlimited friendly manpower to help us in our historic task, great care must be taken in the selection of officers assigned to such duty. An officer, he concludes, must have:

"Force, command presence, dignity of demeanor, intelligence, presence of mind, and loyalty to those above and those below. When dealing with troops whose past cultural-historical backgrounds give them a distrust and underlying antagonism to the white man, the outstanding leadership qualification must be this: To have the welfare of your troops sincerely at heart and to let them know it."

Cleric Believes West Cannot Regain Early Christians' Sense Of Urgency

ATLANTA—(AP)—A U. S. Protestant leader says he did not believe Western civilization could regain "wholesale" the sense of urgency of the early Christians who converted pagan Rome.

At the same time, however, Dr. Roswell P. Barnes of New York added, "but I believe we will get this sense of urgency in groups that have considerable influence."

Barnes is director of the Division of Christian Life and Work of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. He was here for the council's southern convocation.

The religious historian and student of philosophy also said in an interview he thought there was a "perceptible trend away from the theories of rationalization which has greatly influenced past U. S. thinking, including that of many early founding fathers."

Barnes, a Presbyterian, said that in the West "the Christian tradition is taken too much for granted. There is no opposition. There is more of the dynamism in churches emerging in the Communist zone of Germany than in the safe Western zone."

The trend away from rationalization, which produced the French Revolution and the so-called age of reason, is manifested in part, said Barnes, by the "increased receptivity of mass media of communications" to the message of the churches.

"I believe," Barnes declared, "that probably the revelation of civic corruption and the penetration of community life, notably government, by organized gambling and vice x x x has led a lot of people to believe that something dangerous has happened to moral standards.

"I think there will be a tendency to more general recognition of the need for the moral and religious foundations undergirding democracy. I believe that most people have thought 'In God We Trust' was a pleasant and commendable reference to presumed piety in American tradition x x x

Today In Washington

On the pages of history the record will show that the UN forces went into Korea not only to repel aggression but to unify Korea and establish peace throughout the country—not just in the southern half which is under UN control. The great powers of the world will be revealed as having failed to defeat the armies of North Korea and Communist China by driving them out of the north country. For the Communists have consistently refused to allow any UN machinery to function in Northern Korea.

If the armistice results merely in a subsequent deadlock on political questions which are to be taken up after the cease-fire, it will be debatable just what the whole UN undertaking will actually have accomplished to enhance either the prestige or the power of that instrument of collective security on which the nations outside the Communist bloc have pinned their hopes for the maintenance of peace in the world.

There is some talk that the UN might be willing to trade the item of inspection and give it up if an exchange of prisoners can be effected. The desire to stop the fighting now—the desire for peace at almost any price—is the basic motive of the present negotiations and it would not be surprising to see a "de facto" cease-fire develop into a permanent one as months and months go by without any inspection system agreed upon and without any exchange of prisoners and perhaps without any more than an informal cease-fire of the type now being reported from Korea.

Cleric Believes West Cannot Regain Early Christians' Sense Of Urgency

ATLANTA—(AP)—A U. S. Protestant leader says he did not believe Western civilization could regain "wholesale" the sense of urgency of the early Christians who converted pagan Rome.

At the same time, however, Dr. Roswell P. Barnes of New York added, "but I believe we will get this sense of urgency in groups that have considerable influence."

Barnes is director of the Division of Christian Life and Work of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. He was here for the council's southern convocation.

The religious historian and student of philosophy also said in an interview he thought there was a "perceptible trend away from the theories of rationalization which has greatly influenced past U. S. thinking, including that of many early founding fathers."

Barnes, a Presbyterian, said that in the West "the Christian tradition is taken too much for granted. There is no opposition. There is more of the dynamism in churches emerging in the Communist zone of Germany than in the safe Western zone."

The trend away from rationalization, which produced the French Revolution and the so-called age of reason, is manifested in part, said Barnes, by the "increased receptivity of mass media of communications" to the message of the churches.

"I believe," Barnes declared, "that probably the revelation of civic corruption and the penetration of community life, notably government, by organized gambling and vice x x x has led a lot of people to believe that something dangerous has happened to moral standards.

"I think there will be a tendency to more general recognition of the need for the moral and religious foundations undergirding democracy. I believe that most people have thought 'In God We Trust' was a pleasant and commendable reference to presumed piety in American tradition x x x

On the pages of history the record will show that the UN forces went into Korea not only to repel aggression but to unify Korea and establish peace throughout the country—not just in the southern half which is under UN control. The great powers of the world will be revealed as having failed to defeat the armies of North Korea and Communist China by driving them out of the north country. For the Communists have consistently refused to allow any UN machinery to function in Northern Korea.

If the armistice results merely in a subsequent deadlock on political questions which are to be taken up after the cease-fire, it will be debatable just what the whole UN undertaking will actually have accomplished to enhance either the prestige or the power of that instrument of collective security on which the nations outside the Communist bloc have pinned their hopes for the maintenance of peace in the world.

There is some talk that the UN might be willing to trade the item of inspection and give it up if an exchange of prisoners can be effected. The desire to stop the fighting now—the desire for peace at almost any price—is the basic motive of the present negotiations and it would not be surprising to see a "de facto" cease-fire develop into a permanent one as months and months go by without any inspection system agreed upon and without any exchange of prisoners and perhaps without any more than an informal cease-fire of the type now being reported from Korea.

Kiwanis Hears School Principal

KEYSER, W. Va.—Parker Black, principal of Keyser High School, explained plans and limitations in the county school system to the Kiwanis Club at a dinner-meeting Wednesday at First Methodist Church.

Black noted that teachers are overloaded with students. In Keyser High School, he said, there are 800 students and 50 teachers. But he said the schools are trying to do their best under the circumstances.

The standing of rural schools has been greatly improved since inception of the county unit school system, Black said. He added, however, that the effect on city schools has been the opposite, but that school standings will be equalized in the future.

"The people who have children in school want the best for them, but the cost is high. Yet," he declared, "the heavy taxpayers object to higher taxes.

"I find the general setup in Keyser is exceptionally good," he said. "The teachers are responsive and the physical equipment is good, although we are trying to improve and add to our present setup all the time."

Kiwanis Hears School Principal

KEYSER, W. Va.—Parker Black, principal of Keyser High School, explained plans and limitations in the county school system to the Kiwanis Club at a dinner-meeting Wednesday at First Methodist Church.

Black noted that teachers are overloaded with students. In Keyser High School, he said, there are 800 students and 50 teachers. But he said the schools are trying to do their best under the circumstances.

The standing of rural schools has been greatly improved since inception of the county unit school system, Black said. He added, however, that the effect on city schools has been the opposite, but that school standings will be equalized in the future.

"The people who have children in school want the best for them, but the cost is high. Yet," he declared, "the heavy taxpayers object to higher taxes.

"I find the general setup in Keyser is exceptionally good," he said. "The teachers are responsive and the physical equipment is good, although we are trying to improve and add to our present setup all the time."

Keyser B & O Crossing May Be Reopened

Would Alleviate Traffic Problem

KEYSER, W. Va.—Keyser may be a step nearer solution of a traffic problem which has been the subject of many City Council discussions in the past several years.

C. T. Williams, Cumberland division superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, told Mayor Chester J. Compton yesterday he would ask his company to reopen the Water Street crossing and close the East Street crossing.

Williams' proposal followed a conference with Mayor Compton, Councilman Raymond Murray and Elmer J. Hartman and W. P. Frye, Keyser general yardmaster.

North End, separated from the rest of the city by the B & O tracks, often is isolated for some time when long trains block the Main Street and East Street crossings.

Mayor Compton and the two councilmen agreed that the city would bear the expense of grading and opening the northern approach to the Water Street crossing, which was closed several years ago.

Williams said only two 150-car trains per week will be made up here in the future. Shorter trains, he said, will not interfere with the Water Street crossing.

He also said the B & O will try to keep the Main Street crossing open from 6 to 7 a. m., 8 to 9 a. m., and 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., peak traffic periods.

Williams said he expected a reply from the Baltimore office soon.

W. Va. Parochial Students May Get Free Text Books

Tucker County Asks Legal Opinion

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 29 (AP)—The Attorney General's office said that only those pupils in parochial schools whose parents are unable to supply them with textbooks may be given books by a county Board of Education.

The opinion, written by Assistant Attorney General George W. Stokes, was directed to Tucker County Prosecutor D. E. Cuppett. In West Virginia, prosecuting attorneys act as legal advisers for Boards of Education.

Lists Exception

Stokes wrote, "it is clear that, with one exception, our statutes limit the distribution of free textbooks solely to free schools."

Stokes quoted the exception, from state law, as follows:

"The Board of Education of every county, upon application of the proper authorities of any private school, may likewise provide state adopted textbooks for use of the pupils enrolled therein whose parents, in the judgment of the board, are unable to provide same."

The assistant attorney general concluded: "We are of the opinion that free textbooks may be furnished to pupils in parochial schools only as authorized in the latter statute."

He added that the question of the ability of the parents to provide the books is an administrative matter to be decided by the Board of Education in Tucker County.

Bus Transportation

Prosecutor Cuppett, in asking for legal advice, had said textbooks were furnished pupils of a parochial school in Tucker County only after textbooks had been distributed to all other county schools.

Cuppett said the books are distributed and returned to the County Board of Education without any expense to the board.

Today's opinion by the attorney general also said a school board's authority to transport parochial students in the public school buses was "very questionable."

Stokes quoted state law to the effect that transportation is expressly provided for public school students only.

Keyser B & O Crossing May Be Reopened

Would Alleviate Traffic Problem

KEYSER, W. Va.—Keyser may be a step nearer solution of a traffic problem which has been the subject of many City Council discussions in the past several years.

C. T. Williams, Cumberland division superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, told Mayor Chester J. Compton yesterday he would ask his company to reopen the Water Street crossing and close the East Street crossing.

Williams' proposal followed a conference with Mayor Compton, Councilman Raymond Murray and Elmer J. Hartman and W. P. Frye, Keyser general yardmaster.

North End, separated from the rest of the city by the B & O tracks, often is isolated for some time when long trains block the Main Street and East Street crossings.

Mayor Compton and the two councilmen agreed that the city would bear the expense of grading and opening the northern approach to the Water Street crossing, which was closed several years ago.

Williams said only two 150-car trains per week will be made up here in the future. Shorter trains, he said, will not interfere with the Water Street crossing.

He also said the B & O will try to keep the Main Street crossing open from 6 to 7 a. m., 8 to 9 a. m., and 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., peak traffic periods.

Williams said he expected a reply from the Baltimore office soon.

Odd Fellows, Rebekahs Intertained At Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va.—W. B. "Ted" Kesner, Keyser, presented local entertainers who performed dances and special musical numbers at a meeting of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs held Monday evening in the I.O.O.F. Temple on North Mineral Street.

After the entertainment, Grand Warden V. Brown Kooken, of Maryland grand lodge, led the group in singing Christmas carols, sacred and popular songs. The meeting was for the entertainment of the Tri-State Grands Association.

Past Grand Ira Lease of Philos Lodge, Westernport, president of the group, conducted the meeting, at which three new members were received.

The December meeting will be held in Cumberland, Friday, December 21, with Chosen Friends and Chapel Hill lodges being hosts. At this meeting the annual Christmas party will be held.

W. Va. Parochial Students May Get Free Text Books

Tucker County Asks Legal Opinion

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 29 (AP)—The Attorney General's office said that only those pupils in parochial schools whose parents are unable to supply them with textbooks may be given books by a county Board of Education.

The opinion, written by Assistant Attorney General George W. Stokes, was directed to Tucker County Prosecutor D. E. Cuppett. In West Virginia, prosecuting attorneys act as legal advisers for Boards of Education.

Lists Exception

Stokes wrote, "it is clear that, with one exception, our statutes limit the distribution of free textbooks solely to free schools."

Stokes quoted the exception, from state law, as follows:

"The Board of Education of every county, upon application of the proper authorities of any private school, may likewise provide state adopted textbooks for use of the pupils enrolled therein whose parents, in the judgment of the board, are unable to provide same."

The assistant attorney general concluded: "We are of the opinion that free textbooks may be furnished to pupils in parochial schools only as authorized in the latter statute."

He added that the question of the ability of the parents to provide the books is an administrative matter to be decided by the Board of Education in Tucker County.

Bus Transportation

Prosecutor Cuppett, in asking for legal advice, had said textbooks were furnished pupils of a parochial school in Tucker County only after textbooks had been distributed to all other county schools.

Cuppett said the books are distributed and returned to the County Board of Education without any expense to the board.

Today's opinion by the attorney general also said a school board's authority to transport parochial students in the public school buses was "very questionable."

Stokes quoted state law to the effect that transportation is expressly provided for public school students only.

Tight Labor Market Noted In Six Areas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Labor Department today reported more jobs than workers in six areas of the nation but said that in 15 other areas workers outnumbered available jobs.

The report was based upon a survey of 174 major production centers conducted by the Bureau of Employment Security.

Areas listed as having more jobs than workers available were: Hartford, Conn.; Indianapolis; Wichita, Kas.; San Diego; the Aiken, S. C.-Augusta, Ga., area, and the Davenport-Rock Island-Moline Area.

Those where workers outnumbered jobs were, for the most part, in the highly industrialized New England, and Pennsylvania regions. The areas: Brockton, Fall River, Lawrence and Lowell, Mass.; Manchester, N. H.; Providence, R. I.; Altoona, Scranton, and Wilkes Barre-Hazelton areas of Pennsylvania; Atlantic City, N. J., New York, N. Y.; Asheville, N. C.; Terre Haute, Ind.; Beaumont-Port Arthur, Tex., area and Laredo, Tex.

In addition, the bureau said the job short areas include these five districts ordinarily not included in the bureau's regular survey of available labor supplies: Pottsville, Pa., Uniontown-Connellsville area of Pennsylvania; Cumberland, Md.; Crab Orchard, Ill., and Vincennes, Ind.

Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, in commenting on the report, said the outlook is "for progressively tighter labor markets"—more jobs—in many of the major production centers as defense manpower requirements expand.

Marion Signs With Browns

Marty Gets 3-Year Coach-Player Pact

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29 (AP)—Marty Marion was back in St. Louis major league baseball today.

The smiling thin man, fired only recently as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, signed not one contract but two with the St. Louis Browns for a three-year hitch. One contract was as a coach and the other as a player.

That's because Marty feels sure that he is about to overcome a bad knee and back which last season kept him from his 11-year stand in the Cardinal infield where he became known as Mr. Shortstop.

Owner Bill Veeck, himself full of smiles at the signing today, explained that while Marion was nailed down by two contracts he could leave the Browns anytime he gets a chance to manage a major league club.

To get Marion, Veeck reportedly had to put $15,000 a year on the line as a coach and another $10,000 or so if he makes his comeback as a shortstop. Marty reportedly got around $35,000 for his one year as manager of the Cardinals.

Veeck hired him primarily as a coach but he left no doubt Marty would be a happy addition afield for the Browns who are undergoing a winter overhauling.

Marty says his knee is well, He was out last season following an operation on it. His bad back? Well, he says, his physician thinks if he keeps on taking prescribed strengthening exercises it should be in shape by spring.

The 33-year-old Marion turned down an attractive offer with the Boston Braves because "I wanted to stay in St. Louis."

Marty steered the Cardinals into third place in the National League race last season.

When Marion was dropped as Cardinal manager it generally was understood that owner Fred Saigh felt he lacked aggressiveness. Saigh still is on a hunt for a manager. The word is that he has his eye on fiery Eddie Stanky, New York Giant second baseman.

WILDERNESS BATTLE—These two big buck deer, their horns locked in a grim battle to the death, were found early Wednesday in a wooded area south of Warrenton, Mo. The deer at the right was dead, apparently from exhaustion and starvation. The victor was freed by sawing off most of its horns, and was reported recovering at a nearby farm. Conservation Agent Marshall Long estimated the bucks weighed about 300 pounds each and said they were the biggest he has seen in Missouri.

Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Department, reports that wholesale game law violations, principally jacklighting of deer, are keeping state game officials on their toes.

A number of arrests have been made and some fines imposed but the law-breaking continues, Vaughn says.

Reports of jacklighting of deer have come from practically every county in which deer are found. In some measure, Vaughn attributes these illegal acts to the shortages of domestic meats.

Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke reports that most of the deer killed by spotlight hunters are during the months of October and November and early December. The animals are traced to their feeding grounds and the lights used by the hunters seem to charm the deer long enough for them to be easy targets for high powered guns used by the law violators.

Minke believes Maryland should have a law similar to that of Pennsylvania which states that a gun must be in a case or securely wrapped when carried in an automobile. He also recommends stiffer fines for violators.

Fines are supposed to run from $100 to $200 but in only one out of 10 cases this year has the maximum penalty been imposed. The majority were around $100 while one was $50.

From Morgantown comes word that three members of Moorefield High's P.V.C. championship team are among the candidates for this year's West Virginia Class "B" all-state football squad.

They are End Jim Hardy, Tackle Wayne Hefner and Back Robert Myers.

Petersburg's Vikings believe John Goldizen, tackle, is one of the best and Charles Town High in Jefferson county submits the name of Dickie Hughes, scatback who scored 94 of his team's 135 points.

Rowlesburg's undefeated River Lions, coached by George Ayersman, have Ed Powell, halfback, who scored 134 points; Bob Peaslee, tackle, and Center Shahan.

Kingwood has several candidates headed by Jim Laraway, All-State fullback.

Keyser and Martinsburg are the only Class "A" schools in the eastern part of the state. Martinsburg is booming Don Netoskie, halfback, and Mel Hamilton, quarterback, while Keyser is boasting Neil Leary, 215-pound, 6-3 center, and Back Joe Swisher.

On the same night John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh launches his 24th season as head coach of the Penn-Avenue-Fort Hill quints. The Sentinels play Hagerstown here.

Allegany teams have engaged in 639 games since Bowers took over and have won 495 and lost 144 for a percentage of .775. Five more wins will put Bowers in the "500" class in victories.

Cavanaugh-coached teams have played 588 basketball games, winning 443 and losing 145 for an average of .753.

Paul Menton, Baltimore Evening Sun sports editor, says there are a dozen or more football coaches in line for the coach-of-the-year awards, including Tatum of Maryland and Caldwell of Princeton, but he thinks Clarence L. "Biggie" Munn deserves the award without debate.

"What coach ever had a team before which beat Ohio State, Michigan and Notre Dame in the same season and also remained undefeated?" Menton asks.

"Michigan State had to reach peak form in the second game of the season, maintain it until last Saturday when it crushed Michigan on successive weeks. Yet its finest performance was in November against Notre Dame. The Irish were never in the ball game and the 35-0 score was the worst suffered by a team coached by Frank Leahy."

Tiger Gridder Says Dartmouth Played "Dirty"

Accuses Indians Of Fouling Kazmaier

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 29 (INS) — Princeton quarterback George Stevens charged today that a Dartmouth player was out "to get" All-America Dick Kazmaier in the season finale between the two schools last Saturday.

Stevens, Kazmeier's room-mate, made his charge in the "Daily Princetonian," the university undergraduate newspaper. Other members of the unbeaten Tiger team accused Dartmouth of "dirty football" and added fire to the rhubarb that has followed the rough game.

"Kazmaier was roughed up on just about every play in the first quarter by Dartmouth's Don Myers," Stevens was quoted as saying.

"On the buck lateral series where I fake a handoff to Kaz, he was given a going over by Myers even though he did not have the ball."

Stevens added that after awhile Kazmaier asked him to do something about it and he (Stevens) told the referee.

"Kaz told me Myers was out to get him on every play," Stevens declared.

Twelve players were helped from the field in the rugged game which the Tigers won, 13 to 0, to run their victory streak to 22 straight. Two received major injuries. Kazmaier suffered a broken nose and a concussion and Dartmouth's Jim Miller sustained a fractured leg.

Princeton coach Charlie Caldwell has announced he will recommend to the rules committee that the penalty for unnecessary roughness be made more severe.

Texas Aggies Defeat Texas By One Point

Longhorns Lose 1st Time In 12 Years; 40,500 See Battle

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 29 (AP)—Texas A. & M. bound up its football season into one frenzied afternoon and beat its greatest rival, Texas, 22-21, today in a wild, rib-cracking game that saw members of the two teams coming to blows in the finish.

The triple rapiers of Aggieland—Yale Lary, Glenn Lippman and Billy Tidwell—and that giant of the shot put circle, Darrow Hooper, furnished the power that brought A & M its first win over Texas in 12 victory-starved years.

A crowd of 40,500 went wild as A. & M. staved off two mighty Texas drives in the last minutes and June Davis missed a field goal from the Aggie 30-yard line with 10 seconds to go.

So bitter was the battle that players on both sides swung at each other repeatedly in the last quarter and once a Texas player came off the bench to hit Charley Hodge, Aggie end, during a pile-up at the sidelines.

A. & M. had reached the end of the gridiron road today without a victory in conference play this season. Texas still was in the race for a share of the title, but Aggieland wasn't to be denied this time.

Lippman Runs Wild

Lippman, who personally gained 172 yards in 19 bull-like runs, led the Aggie ground assault that was fearsome to behold. Dan Page speared a tremendous Texas air game and Gib Dawson, a whirling dervish of a halfback, smashed and crashed for long gains and raced 65 yards for one Longhorn touchdown.

The Aggies scored first on a 14-yard run by Tidwell but Texas tied it up on Dawson's great run. Then Texas took the lead in the second period as the result of a mighty pass that Page boomed to Gilmer Spring on the Aggie 45. Spring sprinted to the eight before Lary ran him down. Page, Don Barton and Dick Ochoa alternated in hammering to the score, Ochoa making it in a dive over from one foot out. Davis converted.

Hooper, who had kicked the extra point after the first Aggie touchdown, tried a field goal from the Texas 35 but it was wide.

The half ended with Texas leading 14-7.

Hooper Boots Field Goal

A 69-yard touchdown run by Lary brought them within a point. Hooper's try for point was blocked. But Hooper kicked a field goal from the Aggie 21 a short time later and the Aggies got their final touchdown when Dick Gardemal passed from the Texas 44, the ball was batted into the air by Tom Stolhandske and Lary gathered it in and sped to the score. Hooper missed the conversion.

Texas stormed back for a touchdown in the final period, driving 80 yards on Page's passing and Dawson's running. Ochoa sliced right tackle from the Aggie eight for the score and Davis converted.

Twice more Texas slashed into Aggie territory. But the first time Johnny Salyer intercepted a pass on the Aggie 17 and the next time, as time ran out, Davis tried that desperate field goal. It was straight but short.

A. & M.'s great ground game rolled up 375 yards and Texas got 281. In the air, Texas amassed 150 and A. & M. 70. Score:

TEXAS	7	7	0	7	—21
TEXAS A. & M.	7	0	15	0	—22

Texas scoring: Touchdowns — Dawson, Ochoa 2; Conversions—Davis 3. Texas A. & M. scoring: Touchdowns—Tidwell, Lary 2; Conversion—Hooper; Field Goal—Hooper.

Marion Signs With Browns

Marty Gets 3-Year Coach-Player Pact

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29 (AP)—Marty Marion was back in St. Louis major league baseball today.

The smiling thin man, fired only recently as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, signed not one contract but two with the St. Louis Browns for a three-year hitch. One contract was as a coach and the other as a player.

That's because Marty feels sure that he is about to overcome a bad knee and back which last season kept him from his 11-year stand in the Cardinal infield where he became known as Mr. Shortstop.

Owner Bill Veeck, himself full of smiles at the signing today, explained that while Marion was nailed down by two contracts he could leave the Browns anytime he gets a chance to manage a major league club.

To get Marion, Veeck reportedly had to put $15,000 a year on the line as a coach and another $10,000 or so if he makes his comeback as a shortstop. Marty reportedly got around $35,000 for his one year as manager of the Cardinals.

Veeck hired him primarily as a coach but he left no doubt Marty would be a happy addition afield for the Browns who are undergoing a winter overhauling.

Marty says his knee is well. He was out last season following an operation on it. His bad back? Well, he says, his physician thinks if he keeps on taking prescribed strengthening exercises it should be in shape by spring.

The 33-year-old Marion turned down an attractive offer with the Boston Braves because "I wanted to stay in St. Louis."

Marty steered the Cardinals into third place in the National League race last season.

When Marion was dropped as Cardinal manager it generally was understood that owner Fred Saigh felt he lacked aggressiveness. Saigh still is on a hunt for a manager. The word is that he has his eye on fiery Eddie Stanky, New York Giant second baseman.

Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Department, reports that wholesale game law violations, principally jacklighting of deer, are keeping state game officials on their toes.

A number of arrests have been made and some fines imposed but the law-breaking continues, Vaughn says.

Reports of jacklighting of deer have come from practically every county in which deer are found. In some measure, Vaughn attributes these illegal acts to the shortages of domestic meats.

The state director recalls that a similar situation prevailed during 1946-47.

Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke reports that most of the deer killed by spotlight hunters are during the months of October and November and early December. The animals are traced to their feeding grounds and the lights used by the hunters seem to charm the deer long enough for them to be easy targets for high powered guns used by the law violators.

Minke believes Maryland should have a law similar to that of Pennsylvania which states that a gun must be in a case or securely wrapped when carried in an automobile. He also recommends stiffer fines for violators.

Fines are supposed to run from $100 to $200 but in only one out of 10 cases this year has the maximum penalty been imposed. The majority were around $100 while one was $50.

Paul Menton, Baltimore Evening Sun sports editor, says there are a dozen or more football coaches in line for the coach-of-the-year awards, including Tatum of Maryland and Caldwell of Princeton, but he thinks Clarence L. "Biggie" Munn deserves the award without debate.

"What coach ever had a team before which beat Ohio State, Michigan and Notre Dame in the same season and also remained undefeated?" Menton asks.

"Michigan State had to reach peak form in the second game of the season, maintain it until last Saturday when it crushed Michigan on successive weeks. Yet its finest performance was in November against Notre Dame. The Irish were never in the ball game and the 35-0 score was the worst suffered by a team coached by Frank Leahy."

Tiger Gridder Says Dartmouth Played "Dirty"

Accuses Indians Of Fouling Kazmaier

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 29 (INS) — Princeton quarterback George Stevens charged today that a Dartmouth player was out "to get" All-America Dick Kazmaier in the season finale between the two schools last Saturday.

Stevens, Kazmeier's room-mate, made his charge in the "Daily Princetonian," the university undergraduate newspaper. Other members of the unbeaten Tiger team accused Dartmouth of "dirty football" and added fire to the rhubarb that has followed the rough game.

"Kazmaier was roughed up on just about every play in the first quarter by Dartmouth's Don Myers," Stevens was quoted as saying.

"On the buck lateral series where I fake a handoff to Kaz, he was given a going over by Myers even though he did not have the ball."

Stevens added that after awhile Kazmaier asked him to do something about it and he (Stevens) told the referee.

"Kaz told me Myers was out to get him on every play," Stevens declared.

Twelve players were helped from the field in the rugged game which the Tigers won, 13 to 0, to run their victory streak to 22 straight. Two received major injuries. Kazmaier suffered a broken nose and a concussion and Dartmouth's Jim Miller sustained a fractured leg.

Princeton coach Charlie Caldwell has announced he will recommend to the rules committee that the penalty for unnecessary roughness be made more severe.

Texas Aggies Defeat Texas By One Point

Longhorns Lose 1st Time In 12 Years; 40,500 See Battle

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 29 (AP)—Texas A. & M. bound up its football season into one frenzied afternoon and beat its greatest rival, Texas, 22-21, today in a wild, rib-cracking game that saw members of the two teams coming to blows in the finish.

The triple rapiers of Aggieland—Yale Lary, Glenn Lippman and Billy Tidwell—and that giant of the shot put circle, Darrow Hooper, furnished the power that brought A & M its first win over Texas in 12 victory-starved years.

A crowd of 40,500 went wild as A. & M. staved off two mighty Texas drives in the last minutes and June Davis missed a field goal from the Aggie 30-yard line with 10 seconds to go.

So bitter was the battle that players on both sides swung at each other repeatedly in the last quarter and once a Texas player came off the bench to hit Charley Hodge, Aggie end, during a pile-up at the sidelines.

A. & M. had reached the end of the gridiron road today without a victory in conference play this season. Texas still was in the race for a share of the title, but Aggieland wasn't to be denied this time.

Lippman Runs Wild

Lippman, who personally gained 172 yards in 19 bull-like runs, led the Aggie ground assault that was fearsome to behold. Dan Page speared a tremendous Texas air game and Gib Dawson, a whirling dervish of a halfback, smashed and crashed for long gains and raced 65 yards for one Longhorn touchdown.

The Aggies scored first on a 14-yard run by Tidwell but Texas tied it up on Dawson's great run. Then Texas took the lead in the second period as the result of a mighty pass that Page boomed to Gilmer Spring on the Aggie 45. Spring sprinted to the eight before Lary ran him down. Page, Don Barton and Dick Ochoa alternated in hammering to the score, Ochoa making it in a dive over from one foot out. Davis converted.

Hooper, who had kicked the extra point after the first Aggie touchdown, tried a field goal from the Texas 35 but it was wide.

The half ended with Texas leading 14-7.

Hooper Boots Field Goal

A 69-yard touchdown run by Lary brought them within a point. Hooper's try for point was blocked. But Hooper kicked a field goal from the Aggie 21 a short time later and the Aggies got their final touchdown when Dick Gardemal passed from the Texas 44, the ball was batted into the air by Tom Stolhandske and Lary gathered it in and sped to the score. Hooper missed the conversion.

Texas stormed back for a touchdown in the final period, driving 80 yards on Page's passing and Dawson's running. Ochoa sliced right tackle from the Aggie eight for the score and Davis converted.

Twice more Texas slashed into Aggie territory. But the first time Johnny Salyer intercepted a pass on the Aggie 17 and the next time, as time ran out, Davis tried that desperate field goal. It was straight but short.

A. & M.'s great ground game rolled up 375 yards and Texas got 281. In the air, Texas amassed 150 and A. & M. 70. Score:

TEXAS	7	7	0	7	—21

Texas scoring: Touchdowns — Dawson, Ochoa 2; Conversions—Davis 3. Texas A. & M. scoring: Touchdowns—Tidwell, Lary 2; Conversion—Hooper; Field Goal—Hooper.

High Pressure Football No Good, Former Tennessee Player Asserts

No Time For School During Grid Season

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 27—(INS)—A star football player who said he played for Tennessee without having to go to class calls his decision to leave the Knoxville school "the turning point of my life."

The Charleston Gazette, in its series entitled "The True Story About Football," tonight quoted Leon McCoy, star center on Morris Harvey College's team for the past three years, as saying, "I wonder sometimes how those fellows at Tennessee ever manage to go through their football routine for four years."

Added McCoy:

"It would have killed me and I wouldn't have had an education when it was all over. You can have that high pressure football. It's no good."

Gazette Sports Editor A. L. Hardman, recounting McCoy's story, said Tennessee paid the latter's way in prep school to complete his requirements for college enrollment and then gave him "the usual Southeastern Conference allowance. . . . including room, books, board, tuition, laundry and $10 per month."

Extra spending money, the article added, could be had for the asking "when things became a little pressing." McCoy's meals were furnished at a training table.

Sports Editor Hardman said McCoy found that once football time arrived, he did not have time to go to school.

"The records showed, however," Hardman wrote, "that he had a so-called 'w-p', which means 'withdrew passing.' Therefore, his eligibility continued.

"But he had a yen to get an education. When the third quarter of the school term arrived, Mac packed his bags and returned to Charleston. He said Gen. Bob Neyland, the Tennessee coach, 'urged me to stay and try to get my class work up, but it was too much to ask of a fellow who had to devote so much of his time to football."

Corcoran was fined for striking Buffalo player Ab Demarco over the head with his stick and Labine was fined for striking Lloyd Finkbeiner. Both Hershey players received match penalties.

High Pressure Football No Good, Former Tennessee Player Asserts

No Time For School During Grid Season

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 27—(INS)—A star football player who said he played for Tennessee without having to go to class calls his decision to leave the Knoxville school "the turning point of my life."

The Charleston Gazette, in its series entitled "The True Story About Football," tonight quoted Leon McCoy, star center on Morris Harvey College's team for the past three years, as saying, "I wonder sometimes how those fellows at Tennessee ever manage to go through their football routine for four years."

Added McCoy:

"It would have killed me and I wouldn't have had an education when it was all over. You can have that high pressure football. It's no good."

Gazette Sports Editor A. L. Hardman, recounting McCoy's story, said Tennessee paid the latter's way in prep school to complete his requirements for college enrollment and then gave him "the usual Southeastern Conference allowance. . . . including room, books, board, tuition, laundry and $10 per month."

Extra spending money, the article added, could be had for the asking "when things became a little pressing." McCoy's meals were furnished at a training table.

Sports Editor Hardman said McCoy found that once football time arrived, he did not have time to go to school.

"The records showed, however," Hardman wrote, "that he had a so-called 'w-p', which means 'withdrew passing.' Therefore, his eligibility continued.

"But he had a yen to get an education. When the third quarter of the school term arrived, Mac packed his bags and returned to Charleston. He said Gen. Bob Neyland, the Tennessee coach, 'urged me to stay and try to get my class work up, but it was too much to ask of a fellow who had to devote so much of his time to football."

Hockey Players Fined

Jim Thorpe Gives Trophy To Winner

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 29—(AP)—Charles M. Feltner's Ringmeup, an also ran in his last 10 starts, inched up in the last stride to win the $3,000 Jim Thorpe Purse at Bowie today and return $100.40 for $2 to his backers.

Ringmeup won by a nose in a photo finish from J. J. Schwebel's Sig, who set the early pace and tired in the stretch. He ran the mile and a sixteenth on a fast track in 1:49 3-5.

Jim Thorpe, one of the greatest athletes of all time, was on hand to greet Ringmeup and Jockey Willie Downs in the winner's circle and present a trophy to Feltner, owner-trainer.

100,000 To See 52nd Army-Navy Clash Tomorrow

Traditional Rivalries Dot Gridiron Slate

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Army meets Navy at Philadelphia and Notre Dame tangles with Southern California at Los Angeles Saturday in two of college football's most ancient rivalries.

But the big money games of the day come in the Lone Star country, where they still have to settle the Southwest Conference championship and that league's Cotton Bowl representative.

Texas Christian, leading in the Southwest, meets Southern Methodist, while second-place Baylor takes on Rice in the key games down Texas way. A victory for T.C.U. would clinch the title and give the Horned Frogs a crack at Kentucky, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas on New Year's Day.

Texas A&M knocked Texas out of any chance at the title today in a Texas Thanksgiving Day game, 33-21. The Aggies came from behind with 15 points in the third period to beat Texas for the first time in 12 years.

Games To Be Televised

The largest crowd of the day, which ends the hectic 1951 college season except for a game here and there and the various bowl tilts, will be at Philadelphia. In spite of their poor records, some 100,000 will watch the 52nd Army-Navy service spectacle.

This game, plus the USC-Notre Dame clash, will be televised on a coast-to-coast hookup. Army-Navy starts at 1:30 p. m., while the Los Angeles kickoff is 5 p. m., both Eastern Standard Times.

Tennessee and Georgia Tech, the two leaders in the Southeastern Conference, appear likely to wind up as co-champions. Tennessse, the No. 1 team in the country, goes after its 20th straight victory in a game with Vanderbilt before 35,000 at Knoxville.

A crowd of 41,000 is expected to see Georgia Tech No. 6 in the land, play Georgia in Atlanta.

Oklahoma, the Big Seven champion and No. 10 team, is host to Oklahoma A&M, while Missouri plays at Kansas in two Western rivalries.

Still Seeks Bowl Bid

Other Southern games find Alabama vs Auburn at Birmingham, Tulane at Louisiana State, Mississippi at Mississippi State, and Southern University at Xavier of Louisiana.

Detroit is at Tulsa, Marquette at San Jose State, Utah State at New Mexico, Houston at North Texas State, and East Texas State at Sul Ross State.

Probe Is Begun Into Death Of Dominic Liotta

Villanova Football Star "Was Depressed"

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29 (AP) — Villanova College authorities began an investigation today into the death of football star Dominic (Nick) Liotta, whose death was reported variously as resulting from a hanging or a heart attack.

Liotta, who had been chosen on the Football Writers' Association's All-America team, was found dead in the basement of his dormitory yesterday.

The Villanova College team physician said that Liotta had been suffering from "mental depression" for several days.

The death of the 22-year-old football star was the most recent development in a long series of mishaps which have befallen college football this season.

It was considered possible that Liotta's untimely death might provoke some college authorities to take steps to curtail intersectional football contests.

While the fact that Liotta was required to do much travelling with his team was not listed officially as having had any bearing on his death, there were some persons familiar with the situation who believed that it did.

Some sources said that Liotta was "dog tired" from making the trips, from playing 60 bruising minutes a game and from trying to keep up with his studies. He had the highest average of any of the players on the Villanova team.

Radnor Township police reported that Liotta's body was found beneath a piece of piping, that a telephone wire was coiled about his neck and that the wire had been hooked over the piping.

The Delaware County coroner's office, however, stood by its original finding that Liotta died of a heart attack. The coroner said at various times that there would be an autopsy, that there wouldn't be, and that there was no need for one.

New W. Va. Hunting Licenses Are Smaller

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 29—(AP)—The conservation commission said today that next year's hunting and fishing licenses would be in the hands of county clerks by Dec. 15—in plenty of time for Christmas gifts.

Some 670,000 licenses were printed. They feature one change regarded by sportsmen as important.

Instead of being about four and one-half by three and one-half inches in size—as was the case in 1950 and 1951—the new licenses, when folded to fit the carrying case, will be two and one-half by one and seven-eighth inches.

A 1951 legislative enactment directing that the size be reduced also directed that county clerks distribute the holders, made of plastic, to all license purchasers.

May Release Pitcher

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Pvt. Johnny Antonelli, the Boston Braves' $50,000 "bonus baby" pitcher, may be released from the army because of sinus trouble.

The Military District of Washington said Antonelli is at the Walter Reed Medical Center awaiting examination by a physical evaluation board.

Traditional Rivalries Dot Gridiron Slate

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Army meets Navy at Philadelphia and Notre Dame tangles with Southern California at Los Angeles Saturday in two of college football's most ancient rivalries.

But the big money games of the day come in the Lone Star country, where they still have to settle the Southwest Conference championship and that league's Cotton Bowl representative.

Texas Christian, leading in the Southwest, meets Southern Methodist, while second-place Baylor takes on Rice in the key games down Texas way. A victory for T.C.U. would clinch the title and give the Horned Frogs a crack at Kentucky, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas on New Year's Day.

Texas A&M knocked Texas out of any chance at the title today in a Texas Thanksgiving Day game, 33-21. The Aggies came from behind with 15 points in the third period to beat Texas for the first time in 12 years.

Games To Be Televised

The largest crowd of the day, which ends the hectic 1951 college season except for a game here and there and the various bowl tilts, will be at Philadelphia. In spite of their poor records, some 100,000 will watch the 52nd Army-Navy service spectacle.

This game, plus the USC-Notre Dame clash, will be televised on a coast-to-coast hookup. Army-Navy starts at 1:30 p. m., while the Los Angeles kickoff is 5 p. m., both Eastern Standard Times.

Tennessee and Georgia Tech, the two leaders in the Southeastern Conference, appear likely to wind up as co-champions. Tennessse, the No. 1 team in the country, goes after its 20th straight victory in a game with Vanderbilt before 35,000 at Knoxville.

A crowd of 41,000 is expected to see Georgia Tech No. 6 in the land, play Georgia in Atlanta.

Oklahoma, the Big Seven champion and No. 10 team, is host to Oklahoma A&M, while Missouri plays at Kansas in two Western rivalries.

Still [illegible] Bowl Bid

Other Southern games find Alabama vs Auburn at Birmingham, Tulane at Louisiana State, Mississippi at Mississippi State, and Southern University at Xavier of Louisiana.

Detroit is at Tulsa, Marquette at San Jose State, Utah State at New Mexico, Houston at North Texas State, and East Texas State at Sul Ross State.

Probe Is Begun Into Death Of Dominic Liotta

Villanova Football Star "Was Depressed"

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29 (AP) — Villanova College authorities began an investigation today into the death of football star Dominic (Nick) Liotta, whose death was reported variously as resulting from a hanging or a heart attack.

Liotta, who had been chosen on the Football Writers' Association's All-America team, was found dead in the basement of his dormitory yesterday.

The Villanova College team physician said that Liotta had been suffering from "mental depression" for several days.

The death of the 22-year-old football star was the most recent development in a long series of mishaps which have befallen college football this season.

It was considered possible that Liotta's untimely death might provoke some college authorities to take steps to curtail intersectional football contests.

While the fact that Liotta was required to do much travelling with his team was not listed officially as having had any bearing on his death, there were some persons familiar with the situation who believed that it did.

Some sources said that Liotta was "dog tired" from making the trips, from playing 60 bruising minutes a game and from trying to keep up with his studies. He had the highest average of any of the players on the Villanova team.

Radnor Township police reported that Liotta's body was found beneath a piece of piping, that a telephone wire was coiled about his neck and that the wire had been hooked over the piping.

The Delaware County coroner's office, however, stood by its original finding that Liotta died of a heart attack. The coroner said at various times that there would be an autopsy, that there wouldn't be, and that there was no need for one.

New W. Va. Hunting Licenses Are Smaller

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 29—(AP)—The conservation commission said today that next year's hunting and fishing licenses would be in the hands of county clerks by Dec. 15—in plenty of time for Christmas gifts.

Some 670,000 licenses were printed. They feature one change regarded by sportsmen as important.

Instead of being about four and one-half by three and one-half inches in size—as was the case in 1950 and 1951—the new licenses, when folded to fit the carrying case, will be two and one-half by one and seven-eighth inches.

A 1951 legislative enactment directing that the size be reduced also directed that county clerks distribute the holders, made of plastic, to all license purchasers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Pvt. Johnny Antonelli, the Boston Braves' $50,000 "bonus baby" pitcher, may be released from the army because of sinus trouble.

100,000 To See 52nd Army-Navy Clash Tomorrow

Traditional Rivalries Dot Gridiron Slate

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Army meets Navy at Philadelphia and Notre Dame tangles with Southern California at Los Angeles Saturday in two of college football's most ancient rivalries.

But the big money games of the day come in the Lone Star country, where they still have to settle the Southwest Conference championship and that league's Cotton Bowl representative.

Texas Christian, leading in the Southwest, meets Southern Methodist, while second-place Baylor takes on Rice in the key games down Texas way. A victory for T.C.U. would clinch the title and give the Horned Frogs a crack at Kentucky, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas on New Year's Day.

Texas A&M knocked Texas out of any chance at the title today in a Texas Thanksgiving Day game, 33-21. The Aggies came from behind with 15 points in the third period to beat Texas for the first time in 12 years.

Games To Be Televised

The largest crowd of the day, which ends the hectic 1951 college season except for a game here and there and the various bowl tilts, will be at Philadelphia. In spite of their poor records, some 100,000 will watch the 52nd Army-Navy service spectacle.

This game, plus the USC-Notre Dame clash, will be televised on a coast-to-coast hookup. Army-Navy starts at 1:30 p. m., while the Los Angeles kickoff is 5 p. m., both Eastern Standard Times.

Tennessee and Georgia Tech, the two leaders in the Southeastern Conference, appear likely to wind up as co-champions. Tennessse, the No. 1 team in the country, goes after its 20th straight victory in a game with Vanderbilt before 35,000 at Knoxville.

A crowd of 41,000 is expected to see Georgia Tech No. 6 in the land, play Georgia in Atlanta.

Oklahoma, the Big Seven champion and No. 10 team, is host to Oklahoma A&M, while Missouri plays at Kansas in two Western rivalries.

Still Seeks Bowl Bid

Other Southern games find Alabama vs Auburn at Birmingham, Tulane at Louisiana State, Mississippi at Mississippi State, and Southern University at Xavier of Louisiana.

Detroit is at Tulsa, Marquette at San Jose State, Utah State at New Mexico, Houston at North Texas State, and East Texas State at Sul Ross State.

Probe Is Begun Into Death Of Dominic Liotta

Villanova Football Star "Was Depressed"

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29 (AP) — Villanova College authorities began an investigation today into the death of football star Dominic (Nick) Liotta, whose death was reported variously as resulting from a hanging or a heart attack.

Liotta, who had been chosen on the Football Writers' Association's All-America team, was found dead in the basement of his dormitory yesterday.

The Villanova College team physician said that Liotta had been suffering from "mental depression" for several days.

The death of the 22-year-old football star was the most recent development in a long series of mishaps which have befallen college football this season.

It was considered possible that Liotta's untimely death might provoke some college authorities to take steps to curtail intersectional football contests.

While the fact that Liotta was required to do much travelling with his team was not listed officially as having had any bearing on his death, there were some persons familiar with the situation who believed that it did.

Some sources said that Liotta was "dog tired" from making the trips, from playing 60 bruising minutes a game and from trying to keep up with his studies. He had the highest average of any of the players on the Villanova team.

Radnor Township police reported that Liotta's body was found beneath a piece of piping, that a telephone wire was coiled about his neck and that the wire had been hooked over the piping.

The Delaware County coroner's office, however, stood by its original finding that Liotta died of a heart attack. The coroner said at various times that there would be an autopsy, that there wouldn't be, and that there was no need for one.

New W. Va. Hunting Licenses Are Smaller

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 29—(AP)—The conservation commission said today that next year's hunting and fishing licenses would be in the hands of county clerks by Dec. 15—in plenty of time for Christmas gifts.

Some 670,000 licenses were printed. They feature one change regarded by sportsmen as important.

Instead of being about four and one-half by three and one-half inches in size—as was the case in 1950 and 1951—the new licenses, when folded to fit the carrying case, will be two and one-half by one and seven-eighth inches.

A 1951 legislative enactment directing that the size be reduced also directed that county clerks distribute the holders, made of plastic, to all license purchasers.

May Release Pitcher

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Pvt. Johnny Antonelli, the Boston Braves' $50,000 "bonus baby" pitcher, may be released from the army because of sinus trouble.

100,000 To See 52nd Army-Navy Clash Tomorrow

Traditional Rivalries Dot Gridiron Slate

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Army meets Navy at Philadelphia and Notre Dame tangles with Southern California at Los Angeles Saturday in two of college football's most ancient rivalries.

But the big money games of the day come in the Lone Star country, where they still have to settle the Southwest Conference championship and that league's Cotton Bowl representative.

Texas Christian, leading in the Southwest, meets Southern Methodist, while second-place Baylor takes on Rice in the key games down Texas way. A victory for T.C.U. would clinch the title and give the Horned Frogs a crack at Kentucky, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas on New Year's Day.

Texas A&M knocked Texas out of any chance at the title today in a Texas Thanksgiving Day game, 33-21. The Aggies came from behind with 15 points in the third period to beat Texas for the first time in 12 years.

Games To Be Televised

The largest crowd of the day, which ends the hectic 1951 college season except for a game here and there and the various bowl tilts, will be at Philadelphia. In spite of their poor records, some 100,000 will watch the 52nd Army-Navy service spectacle.

This game, plus the USC-Notre Dame clash, will be televised on a coast-to-coast hookup. Army-Navy starts at 1:30 p. m., while the Los Angeles kickoff is 5 p. m., both Eastern Standard Times.

Tennessee and Georgia Tech, the two leaders in the Southeastern Conference, appear likely to wind up as co-champions. Tennessse, the No. 1 team in the country, goes after its 20th straight victory in a game with Vanderbilt before 35,000 at Knoxville.

A crowd of 41,000 is expected to see Georgia Tech No. 6 in the land, play Georgia in Atlanta.

Oklahoma, the Big Seven champion and No. 10 team, is host to Oklahoma A&M, while Missouri plays at Kansas in two Western rivalries.

Still Seeks Bowl Bid

Other Southern games find Alabama vs Auburn at Birmingham, Tulane at Louisiana State, Mississippi at Mississippi State, and Southern University at Xavier of Louisiana.

Detroit is at Tulsa, Marquette at San Jose State, Utah State at New Mexico, Houston at North Texas State, and East Texas State at Sul Ross State.

Operation Is Success

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29—(INS)—The Cleveland Indians' front office reported today that Luke Easter's knee operation was performed successfully today at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

An Indians' spokesman said that Dr. George Bennett, who removed a section of cartilage from the giant first baseman's left knee, felt confident Easter will now have a sound knee.

Probe Is Begun Into Death Of Dominic Liotta

Villanova Football Star "Was Depressed"

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29 (AP) — Villanova College authorities began an investigation today into the death of football star Dominic (Nick) Liotta, whose death was reported variously as resulting from a hanging or a heart attack.

Liotta, who had been chosen on the Football Writers' Association's All-America team, was found dead in the basement of his dormitory yesterday.

The Villanova College team physician said that Liotta had been suffering from "mental depression" for several days.

The death of the 22-year-old football star was the most recent development in a long series of mishaps which have befallen college football this season.

It was considered possible that Liotta's untimely death might provoke some college authorities to take steps to curtail intersectional football contests.

While the fact that Liotta was required to do much travelling with his team was not listed officially as having had any bearing on his death, there were some persons familiar with the situation who believed that it did.

Some sources said that Liotta was "dog tired" from making the trips, from playing 60 bruising minutes a game and from trying to keep up with his studies. He had the highest average of any of the players on the Villanova team.

Radnor Township police reported that Liotta's body was found beneath a piece of piping, that a telephone wire was coiled about his neck and that the wire had been hooked over the piping.

The Delaware County coroner's office, however, stood by its original finding that Liotta died of a heart attack. The coroner said at various times that there would be an autopsy, that there wouldn't be, and that there was no need for one.

New W. Va. Hunting Licenses Are Smaller

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 29—(AP)—The conservation commission said today that next year's hunting and fishing licenses would be in the hands of county clerks by Dec. 15—in plenty of time for Christmas gifts.

Some 670,000 licenses were printed. They feature one change regarded by sportsmen as important.

Instead of being about four and one-half by three and one-half inches in size—as was the case in 1950 and 1951—the new licenses, when folded to fit the carrying case, will be two and one-half by one and seven-eighth inches.

A 1951 legislative enactment directing that the size be reduced also directed that county clerks distribute the holders, made of plastic, to all license purchasers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Pvt. Johnny Antonelli, the Boston Braves' $50,000 "bonus baby" pitcher, may be released from the army because of sinus trouble.

It's Robert Taylor's year, careerwise. He goes from one whopping picture to another at MGM, the latest being "All The Brothers Were Valiant," Ben Ames Williams' dramatic story.

Co-starring with Bob is Stewart Granger, who is doing all right in the good stories department himself. They'll play the seafaring brothers, Joel and Mark. Pan Berman produces.

Getting back to Bob, I wonder what the big attraction is for him in Europe. You'd think he'd had enough after "Quo Vadis" in Rome and "Ivanhoe" in London. But he's returning for six weeks. A lady, maybe?

Chatter in Hollywood:

Elizabeth Taylor is wearing a huge sapphire ring surrounded by diamonds on her engagement finger, put there by Michael Wilding.

She had with her a tiny white poodle, the cutest thing, and the most emotion I ever saw this amazing Taylor child display was when the little dog ran into three studio cats (the real thing) lying in wait, and ran yelping to her in fright. She ran and saved his life — at least she felt she did — and she was shaking as much as the poodle.

Claire Windsor, once called "the most beautiful blonde" of silent pictures, follows Gloria Swanson along the movie comeback trail. Claire is almost as lovely today as she was 25 years ago. It's true she dropped out of movies, but she is very social, being seen everywhere always beautifully groomed in furs and jewels. She still turns masculine heads when she walks into a room.

Maybe this is what gave Producer Rene Williams the idea of bringing Claire back in a film, "The Last Act," which will also be a TV feature. It's about an older woman, who looks so young that she wins the love of a man 20 years younger than she.

Claudette Colbert will be an aunt in June. That's the date the Charles Wendlings expect their baby. Charles is Claudette's brother and agent.

This is news everyone will be glad to hear. Frances Farmer, who hit the toboggan so hard a few years ago, has found herself a new life and is doing wonderful work in an Oregon hospital. She is idolized by the patients.

Jack Mahoney, Columbia actor, formerly known as Jacques O'Mahoney when he and Yvonne De Carlo were news a few years ago, is getting married — not to Yvonne, but to Margaret Field, former Columbia actress.

Eleanor Parker, in "Scaramouche" since August, said she's going to sleep for a week when she finishes the picture. Eleanor (for "Detective Story") and Jane (for "Blue Veil") are mentioned for the Academy marathon by many people.

Ed Wynn, foot all wrapped up, at Dinah Shore's TV cocktail party. Mrs. Wynn told me Ed's leg just suddenly went bad. He didn't break it through a fall, it just snapped. But he's much better.

Dinah wore the beautiful blue gown she appeared in earlier on her TV show. Just about everyone was there. Cobina Wright, just back from New York, looked so well I have the urge to go East myself.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Engineer To Speak

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Answer: A girl's biggest problem is that of outgrowing her dependence on her mother in her adolescent years, says Dr. Helene Deutsch in her monumental book, "The Psychology of Women." A boy has somewhat less difficulty because he is able to identify himself with his father, who seems to him to be independent of her. With a girl, "attachment to the mother represents a greater danger than attachment to the father (because) the mother is a greater obstacle to the girl's desire to grow up," and a great deal of emotional childishness in adult women is the result of an early, "unresolved" attachment to their mothers.

Answer: Yes, writes Gladys M. Cooper in Marriage and Family Living. Personality development goes hand in hand with physical growth, which depends on nourishment. A child's earliest human contacts and emotional responses are associated with the satisfaction of his need of food. An undernourished baby develops a sense of insecurity that may block his emotional growth, and with older children, "good nutrition is one factor in creating the kind of atmosphere necessary for good personality development." From this standpoint, cooking and planning meals is no mere "chore" — it is a truly creative activity.

Answer: No more than you can eat — or anyhow, enjoy eating — if you are not hungry. A girl's failure to "fall in love" when she reaches marriageable age is not generally the result of never having "met the right man," but of her unreadiness to accept a real man (as distinct from an "ideal" one) as a person with whom she may expect to be happy. One reason why I believe this is that I have seen so many women who have fallen in love and married as a result of "emotional re-education" through psychoanalysis. There are girls and women who have really never had a chance to "marry for love," but there are not many of them.

Stubborn D. C. Fire Brought Under Control

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—An early morning fire that threatened for a time to spread through a row of three-story business buildings in downtown Washington was brought under control after hours of stubborn work early yesterday and confined to one structure.

The fire department estimated the damage at $10,000. Two firemen were injured.

Nearly destroyed were a bus terminal office, fruit stand, billiard parlor and dance studio, all located in a building on 11th Street near Pennsylvania Avenue, across the street from the Evening Star.

Clarksburger Seeks W. Va. Governorship

West Virginia To Study Nearby Fishing Streams

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 29 (AP)—A three-year study of sections of Lost River, Cacapon and the Potomac's South Branch, aimed at improving fishing conditions, will be undertaken by the West Virginia Conservation Commission.

The project will be financed by state funds, supplemented by federal money available during the current fiscal year for the first time under the Dingell-Johnson federal aid to hatcheries act.

Eleanor Parker, in "Scaramouche" since August, said she's going to sleep for a week when she finishes the picture. Eleanor (for "Detective Story") and Jane (for "Blue Veil") are mentioned for the Academy marathon by many people.

Ed Wynn, foot all wrapped up, at Dinah Shore's TV cocktail party. Mrs. Wynn told me Ed's leg just suddenly went bad. He didn't break it through a fall, it just snapped. But he's much better.

Dinah wore the beautiful blue gown she appeared in earlier on her TV show. Just about everyone was there. Cobina Wright, just back from New York, looked so well I have the urge to go East myself.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Answer: A girl's biggest problem is that of outgrowing her dependence on her mother in her adolescent years, says Dr. Helene Deutsch in her monumental book, "The Psychology of Women." A boy has somewhat less difficulty because he is able to identify himself with his father, who seems to him to be independent of her. With a girl, "attachment to the mother represents a greater danger than attachment to the father (because) the mother is a greater obstacle to the girl's desire to grow up," and a great deal of emotional childishness in adult women is the result of an early, "unresolved" attachment to their mothers.

Does nutrition affect personality development?

Answer: Yes, writes Gladys M. Cooper in Marriage and Family Living. Personality development goes hand in hand with physical growth, which depends on nourishment. A child's earliest human contacts and emotional responses are associated with the satisfaction of his need of food. An undernourished baby develops a sense of insecurity that may block his emotional growth, and with older children, "good nutrition is one factor in creating the kind of atmosphere necessary for good personality development." From this standpoint, cooking and planning meals is no mere "chore" — it is a truly creative activity.

Answer: No more than you can eat — or anyhow, enjoy eating — if you are not hungry. A girl's failure to "fall in love" when she reaches marriageable age is not generally the result of never having "met the right man," but of her unreadiness to accept a real man (as distinct from an "ideal" one) as a person with whom she may expect to be happy. One reason why I believe this is that I have seen so many women who have fallen in love and married as a result of "emotional re-education" through psychoanalysis. There are girls and women who have really never had a chance to "marry for love," but there are not many of them.

Stubborn D. C. Fire Brought Under Control

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—An early morning fire that threatened for a time to spread through a row of three-story business buildings in downtown Washington was brought under control after hours of stubborn work early yesterday and confined to one structure.

The fire department estimated the damage at $10,000. Two firemen were injured.

Nearly destroyed were a bus terminal office, fruit stand, billiard parlor and dance studio, all located in a building on 11th Street near Pennsylvania Avenue, across the street from the Evening Star.

Clarksburger Seeks W. Va. Governorship

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 29 (AP)—A Republican aspirant for the West Virginia governorship, Melvin C. Muntzing, Clarksburg, has announced his candidacy in the 1952 gubernatorial race.

Muntzing, 50-year-old owner of a Clarksburg automobile agency, thus became the first member of his party to put himself definitely in the running.

At end of 1950 there were 107 television stations in the United States.

West Virginia To Study Nearby Fishing Streams

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 29 (AP)—A three-year study of sections of Lost River, Cacapon and the Potomac's South Branch, aimed at improving fishing conditions, will be undertaken by the West Virginia Conservation Commission.

The project will be financed by state funds, supplemented by federal money available during the current fiscal year for the first time under the Dingell-Johnson federal aid to hatcheries act.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Not Much Of Anything

I don't know about the future of women in television or, for that matter, anywhere else. "Time" magazine in a recent article on the younger generation referred to modern American women as "emotional DP's," a fine phrase for them. Just now an awful lot of these displaced persons are being displaced on television, the latest being Sarah Churchill, the daughter of Winston, who has a 15-minute interview program on CBS-TV at 5:45 p.m. EST Sundays.

John Crosby

Miss Churchill is a handsome girl with a long, intelligent face, a broad brow, a good deal of experience in the theater and—most importantly—a wide acquaintanceship among the celebrated folk. Her program, we were informed on the opening one, would be "fireside chats with famous celebrities of government, politics, business and the theater." That, of course, is the air of a lot of other programs and most of the "famous celebrities," a redundancy I won't forgive easily, have been interviewed almost to the end of their wits and certainly to the end of mine.

• — • — •

Her first guest was Samuel Goldwyn, the noted scholar and critic of the motion picture industry, who vouchsafed, that's a word that's been lying around here unused for five years now—that you can't make a lot of pictures and make good ones. Its' a thesis Mr. Goldwyn has stated many times before in magazine articles, interviews and one place and another but just possibly it needs restatement for the television audience, a good portion of which doesn't know what movies are. This led into a plug for Mr. G's last picture and for his next one, that being one of the requirements of this game. You get the celebrities for nothing but you've got to pat the movie (or the book or the play) on the head or the famous folk sulk.

Right there lies the weakness of most interview programs; everyone is just too darned polite to everyone else. You can't ask really searching questions because searching questions are likely to be embarrassing questions. And you mustn't embarrass a celebrity or he won't play. I hasten to add that this desire to rumple the hair of the famous folk is not sadism on my part—not entirely, anyway—but a simple healthy desire to put a little ginger into these programs.

About the only sensible and pertinent and reasonably lively discussion I've heard on Miss Churchill's program was contributed by Russel Crouse, who said, among other things: "Nobody can read my typewriting except myself." From there he went on to talk about his collaboration with Howard Lindsay and especially about the use they make of an audience as a third collaborator. "We think if an audience doesn't laugh at a line, it isn't funny—no matter how funny it is. We listen to an audience very carefully at the tryouts. I don't think an audience coughs because it has a cold—I think they're bored."

Miss Churchill listens to these observations with poise, and sometimes, considering what's being said, an unreasoning degree of interest. She's one of the best listeners on TV, if that's any recommendation, but on the more positive side I have some reservations. Her own contributions to the conversation, delivered in that fashionably cracked voice which Margaret Sullavan has made standard practice for all actresses, seem a trifle too studied and lack what I can only describe as pith. At least there's not enough pith there to justify putting it all on television.

When not interviewing, Miss Churchill is wont—another word that has not been earning its keep around here—to read the poetry of William Blake. This led on one occasion into a commercial for Hallmark greeting cards, possibly the strangest use Blake's poetry has ever been put to, and one I'm sure he wouldn't approve of. Tony Beauchamp, Miss Churchill's husband, is also on the program, usually shakes hands with the visiting celebrity, and then vanishes discreetly. I consider this an improper or at least insufficient use of a husband, but then I expect it's none of my business. Beauchamp, incidentally, is pronounced Beecham. Don't know how they pronounce Beecham in England. Worcestershire, probably.

All of which brings us back to the future of women in television. Women, as Ed Wynn has sagely remarked, are prettier than men—except on kinescope. But, if they're just going to stand around being decorative, it's going to give the sex a bad name.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BIDDING GOVERNS PLAY

SINCE bridge is played by human beings instead of precisely-operating machines, the play of a hand is greatly influenced by the manner of bidding which brought the declarer to his final contract. Not only does it guide the actions of players who make the soundest possible moves. One line of bidding may give some of them opportunities for mistakes which would not be made if the contract were reached by a different route.

There you have the bidding at the two tables of a team match among quite human human beings. You can't very well question the superiority of 2-Diamonds by West instead of 2-Clubs, as making it easier to show his second suit if the need later arose. Even after that more good bidders would prefer a double of 2-Hearts by East instead of the diamond raise, but that is not the point for which the deal was selected. It was to show how the bidding influenced the play by the defense.

At the first table, West felt that he had too many hearts to make it desirable for him to lead that suit which East had doubled, so laid down the club K, followed by the A and the 7, which East ruffed with the spade 3. East then simplified the play for South by laying down the heart A, which was ruffed by the spade 4. The spade A, K and ruff of a diamond put the lead in dummy for two hearts to furnish diamond discards after one diamond was given up to the defense, only the fourth trick lost by South.

West, at the other table, recalling his partner's diamond raise, led the diamond 7 to the K. The club Q was scored, the 5 led to the K, the A scored and the 7 led to the J. East was smart enough to ruff high with the spade 10, obliging South to use the K for an over-ruff. This promoted West's Q to trick-taking rank and beat the contract. That play, an "uppercut," was foreseen by West as sure unless South's spades were topped by the A-K-10.

If West had made a spade overcall during the auction and leads the club 10, how should South play at 4-Hearts?

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Not Much Of Anything

I don't know about the future of women in television or, for that matter, anywhere else. "Time" magazine in a recent article on the younger generation referred to modern American women as "emotional DP's," a fine phrase for them. Just now an awful lot of these displaced persons are being displaced on television, the latest being Sarah Churchill, the daughter of Winston, who has a 15-minute interview program on CBS-TV at 5:45 p.m. EST Sundays.

John Crosby

Miss Churchill is a handsome girl with a long, intelligent face, a broad brow, a good deal of experience in the theater and—most importantly—a wide acquaintanceship among the celebrated folk. Her program, we were informed on the opening one, would be "fireside chats with famous celebrities of government, politics, business and the theater." That, of course, is the air of a lot of other programs and most of the "famous celebrities," a redundancy I won't forgive easily, have been interviewed almost to the end of their wits and certainly to the end of mine.

• — • — •

Her first guest was Samuel Goldwyn, the noted scholar and critic of the motion picture industry, who vouchsafed, that's a word that's been lying around here unused for five years now—that you can't make a lot of pictures and make good ones. Its' a thesis Mr. Goldwyn has stated many times before in magazine articles, interviews and one place and another but just possibly it needs restatement for the television audience, a good portion of which doesn't know what movies are. This led into a plug for Mr. G's last picture and for his next one, that being one of the requirements of this game. You get the celebrities for nothing but you've got to pat the movie (or the book or the play) on the head or the famous folk sulk.

Right there lies the weakness of most interview programs; everyone is just too darned polite to everyone else. You can't ask really searching questions because searching questions are likely to be embarrassing questions. And you mustn't embarrass a celebrity or he won't play. I hasten to add that this desire to rumple the hair of the famous folk is not sadism on my part—not entirely, anyway—but a simple healthy desire to put a little ginger into these programs.

About the only sensible and pertinent and reasonably lively discussion I've heard on Miss Churchill's program was contributed by Russel Crouse, who said, among other things: "Nobody can read my typewriting except myself." From there he went on to talk about his collaboration with Howard Lindsay and especially about the use they make of an audience as a third collaborator. "We think if an audience doesn't laugh at a line, it isn't funny—no matter how funny it is. We listen to an audience very carefully at the tryouts. I don't think an audience coughs because it has a cold—I think they're bored."

Miss Churchill listens to these observations with poise, and sometimes, considering what's being said, an unreasoning degree of interest. She's one of the best listeners on TV, if that's any recommendation, but on the more positive side I have some reservations. Her own contributions to the conversation, delivered in that fashionably cracked voice which Margaret Sullavan has made standard practice for all actresses, seem a trifle too studied and lack what I can only describe as pith. At least there's not enough pith there to justify putting it all on television.

When not interviewing, Miss Churchill is wont—another word that has not been earning its keep around here—to read the poetry of William Blake. This led on one occasion into a commercial for Hallmark greeting cards, possibly the strangest use Blake's poetry has ever been put to, and one I'm sure he wouldn't approve of. Tony Beauchamp, Miss Churchill's husband, is also on the program, usually shakes hands with the visiting celebrity, and then vanishes discreetly. I consider this an improper or at least insufficient use of a husband, but then I expect it's none of my business. Beauchamp, incidentally, is pronounced Beecham. Don't know how they pronounce Beecham in England. Worcestershire, probably.

All of which brings us back to the future of women in television. Women, as Ed Wynn has sagely remarked, are prettier than men—except on kinescope. But, if they're just going to stand around being decorative, it's going to give the sex a bad name.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

BIDDING GOVERNS PLAY

SINCE bridge is played by human beings instead of precisely-operating machines, the play of a hand is greatly influenced by the manner of bidding which brought the declarer to his final contract. Not only does it guide the actions of players who make the soundest possible moves. One line of bidding may give some of them opportunities for mistakes which would not be made if the contract were reached by a different route.

North: ♠ 9 7 2 ♥ K Q 6 5 4 ♦ 8 ♣ J 9 6 2
West: ♠ Q J ♥ 8 7 3 ♦ A 10 9 7 ♣ A K 8 7
East: ♠ 10 3 ♥ A J 10 9 2 ♦ K 4 3 2 ♣ Q 5
South: ♠ A K 8 6 5 4 ♥ None ♦ Q J 6 5 ♣ 10 4 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

	South	West	North	East
1.	1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♥	Dbl
	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
	Pass	Dbl
2.	1 ♠	2 ♦	2 ♥	3 ♦
	3 ♠

There you have the bidding at the two tables of a team match among quite human human beings. You can't very well question the superiority of 2-Diamonds by West instead of 2-Clubs, as making it easier to show his second suit if the need later arose. Even after that more good bidders would prefer a double of 2-Hearts by East instead of the diamond raise, but that is not the point for which the deal was selected. It was to show how the bidding influenced the play by the defense.

At the first table, West felt that he had too many hearts to make it desirable for him to lead that suit which East had doubled, so laid down the club K, followed by the A and the 7, which East ruffed with the spade 3. East then simplified the play for South by laying down the heart A, which was ruffed by the spade 4. The spade A, K and ruff of a diamond put the lead in dummy for two hearts to furnish diamond discards after one diamond was given up to the defense, only the fourth trick lost by South.

West, at the other table, recalling his partner's diamond raise, led the diamond 7 to the K. The club Q was scored, the 5 led to the K, the A scored and the 7 led to the J. East was smart enough to ruff high with the spade 10, obliging South to use the K for an over-ruff. This promoted West's Q to trick-taking rank and beat the contract. That play, an "uppercut," was foreseen by West as sure unless South's spades were topped by the A-K-10.

Tomorrow's Problem

South: ♠ A Q 10 2 ♥ K 10 9 6 4 2 ♦ 3 ♣ 8 7

If West had made a spade overcall during the auction and leads the club 10, how should South play at 4-Hearts?

Buying Of Railroads Puts Market On Recovery Road

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Buying of railroad shares put just enough steam behind the stock market today to get it back on the recovery track.

Radio-television and copper mining shares, along with selected chemical and oil issues, joined the rails on the upside. Steels, now involved in negotiations on wage demands, were a notable exception to the rise, holding virtually unchanged.

The Associated Press 60-stock average climbed 40 cents to $95.90. The average of 15 rails jumped $1, while industrial and utility components were up 20 cents each.

Gains were general among the carriers. New York Central topped the most active list with 19,100 shares traded. It finished ¾ higher at 18⅛. Northern Pacific was fifth most active, up 2⅝ at 61, and Pennsylvania Railroad, 12th on the list, was ahead ½ at 17⅞.

A flurry of demand for radio-television shares carried Radio Corp. to the second most active spot where it had a ⅜ gain at 23. Avco Manufacturing ranked third, ahead ⅛ at 7, and International Telephone fourth, up ⅜ at 16½.

Santa Fe, up 1⅛ at 73, Southern Railway, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific and Nickel Plate joined in the carriers' advance. The infrequently-traded New York & Harlem, which leases its property to the New York Central, appeared on the ticker tape at 450, up 45 points.

Superior Oil of California, another wide mover, sold at 550 for a 26-point advance. Standard Oil (N.J.) was up ¾ at 69⅜ and Texas Co. up ⅞ at 53.

Among other radio-TV issues, Zenith moved up 1½ at 67½ and Philco ⅞ at 26. Admiral Corp, was up ½ at 25½ after reports it was negotiating to acquire the Norge division of Borg-Warner Corp.

Buying Of Railroads Puts Market On Recovery Road

Radio-television and copper mining shares, along with selected chemical and oil issues, joined the rails on the upside. Steels, now involved in negotiations on wage demands, were a notable exception to the rise, holding virtually unchanged.

The Associated Press 60-stock average climbed 40 cents to $95.90. The average of 15 rails jumped $1, while industrial and utility components were up 20 cents each.

Gains were general among the carriers. New York Central topped the most active list with 19,100 shares traded. It finished ⅜ higher at 18⅛. Northern Pacific was fifth most active, up 2⅝ at 61, and Pennsylvania Railroad, 12th on the list, was ahead ½ at 17⅞.

A flurry of demand for radio-television shares carried Radio Corp. to the second most active spot where it had a ⅝ gain at 23. Avco Manufacturing ranked third, ahead ⅛ at 7, and International Telephone fourth, up ⅜ at 16½.

Santa Fe, up 1⅛ at 73, Southern Railway, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific and Nickel Plate joined in the carriers' advance. The infrequently-traded New York & Harlem, which leases its property to the New York Central, appeared on the ticker tape at 450, up 45 points.

Superior Oil of California, another wide mover, sold at 550 for a 26-point advance. Standard Oil (N.J.) was up ¾ at 69⅜ and Texas Co. up ⅞ at 53.

Among other radio-TV issues, Zenith moved up 1½ at 67½ and Philco ⅞ at 26. Admiral Corp. was up ½ at 25½ after reports it was negotiating to acquire the Norge division of Borg-Warner Corp.

Business, Professional Men Urged To Get Into Politics

Kiwanians Hear District Head

"Idiotic and wasteful" government spending would end if business and professional men would enter politics, C. Oscar Hartsock, Hagerstown, district Kiwanis lieutenant governor, said yesterday.

In a speech titled "Whose Country Is This?" Hartsock said "It is time we learn the truth from the failures of Great Britain and every other nation that has followed the socialistic path to poverty, slavery and ultimate oblivion."

Hartsock spoke during his second official visit to the local Kiwanis Club at a dinner-meeting at Central YMCA.

He said the trouble with America is "an obvious breakdown in the moral fiber of the people" created largely "by the insane socialistic philosophy that there is something for nothing—that all we have to do is hold out our hands and they will be filled with gold.

"The people of Great Britain have been made victims of a vicious socialist program of 'free' social services, which they have purchased at a dear price—their individual economic freedom.

Hartsock also reminded the Kiwanians of a 1946 warning by the late Alfred E. Smith, onetime Presidential candidate, who noted the danger of "draining resources of our people into a common pool for redistribution, not by any process of law, but by a whim of a bureaucratic autocracy."

A registered Democrat and an executive in Funkhouser Industries, Hartsock declared the national debt ($257,357,000,000) would feed "all the people in the United States for nine years."

By the end of the 1952-53 fiscal year, said Hartsock, the government will have spent $402 billion—$235 billion more than the total spent from 1789 through 1940.

10 Area Firemen Complete Course Of Instruction

University Sponsors Classes In Training

Ten area firemen completed a Fire Instructors Course last night at LaVale Fire Hall. Instructor for the 30-hour course, sponsored by the Fire Extension Service of the University of Maryland, was Robert C. Byrus, director.

Completing the course, which has been taught over a period of ten weeks, were: Joseph G. Wenrich, Walter V. Dutton, Cresaptown; Joseph Stuckey, Oakland Geiger, Corriganville; Harry DeHaven, Baltimore Pike; Robert C. Long, assistant chief, Cumberland; Cromwell C. Zembower, LaVale; Homer Ambrose, McCoole; John Roberts, Barton; and Eugene Kreissig, LaVale.

The final session last night was preceded by a banquet prepared and served at the hall by the auxiliary unit of LaVale Volunteer Fire Department. The class was one of six being taught throughout Maryland as part of the training program of the Extension Service. LaVale's class was the only one in Western Maryland.

Completion of the course now qualifies the various instructors to teach short courses throughout the fire departments of this area, some of which are now in progress. The purpose is to prepare the instructor to approach a problem and "put it across" to the individual group.

Included in the short courses are lectures and demonstrations of various problems arising in fire fighting, training, and first aid.

$625 Verdict Returned In Suit

A dispute over extra costs entailed in construction of a home for a Frostburg couple was settled by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury which yesterday returned a verdict of $625 in favor of the plaintiff.

Attorney Noel Speir Cook had filed a suit for $830.58 for James G. Neilson, Thomas J. Neilson and William Ludwig Neilson, trading as Neilson Brothers Paint and Supply Company, McColloh Street, Frostburg. Defendants were James Broderick and Thelma Broderick, his wife.

The suit listed house plans, paint and building materials as extra expenditures entailed in building the home for the Brodericks.

Attorney Edward J. Ryan, representing the Brodericks, then filed a cross-claim for $2,000, charging construction was faulty and that the Brodericks had to pay large sums for repairs to the property.

The jury decided the cross-claim in favor of the Neilsons after awarding them the $625 verdict in the original suit.

State Veterans Office To Move

The local office of the Maryland Veterans Commission is moving to new quarters. Beginning Monday, the office will be located in Room 7B in the Union Street County Building, Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant state service officer, announced yesterday. The office was formerly located in the Liberty Trust Building.

Work To Continue

Work will be resumed Saturday on a dirt moving project at Stitcher Field in North Cumberland, to complete a baseball park in the area.

According to committeemen working on the project, volunteers are needed to drive trucks and any contractors or other truck owners who will lend trucks for the day, are asked to cooperate.

A power shovel is at the scene to load shale and dirt and hauling is confined to the site itself. Volunteers and trucks are asked to report Saturday at 8 a. m. at the field.

Weather

In keeping with a Weather Bureau request, the elements calmed down a little and remembered their manners yesterday to bring Cumberland its first mild day after weeks of wintry, windy chills. The high temperature was 49, the low, 27, and at 8:15 p. m. the official reading was 34 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 55 per cent. Today should bring more of the same type of weather as another weekend gets under way. Prediction: mostly sunny and somewhat milder.

World War II POWs Asked To File Claims

Eligible Persons Given Details

Area ex-prisoners of World War II, who have not yet filed a claim for benefits under the War Claims Act of 1948, as amended, are urged to do so immediately.

The War Claims Commission pointed out that while Public Law 16, 82nd Congress, of last April extended the terminal date for filing claims with the Commission to March 31, 1952 it is hoped to have all American ex-POW claims settled by the end of this year.

Eligibility Explained

This of course cannot be accomplished unless all claims in this category are filed in the immediate future. Daniel F. Cleary, chairman of the commission, expressed his opinion that in addition to some living ex-POW's a number of survivors of the prisoners who are eligible for the benefits have not yet filed claims. Widows, children and parents of the deceased POWs, in that order, are eligible for benefits under the War Claims Act.

The benefits available to American POWs or their survivors under present law are $1.00 for each day the POW was interned by the enemy and was not provided with the amount and quality of food required under the Geneva Convention of 1929 relating to the treatment of prisoners of war.

Forms Available

Claim forms may be obtained directly from the War Claims Commission, Washington 25, D. C. or through Maryland Veterans Commission, 8 South Street, Baltimore 2. Further information may be obtained from Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant service officer, Maryland Veterans Commission, Room 7B, Union Street County Building, Cumberland.

All-American Pilot Strike Is Postponed

Settlement Prospects Appear Encouraging

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — A threatened strike of All-American Airways pilots was indefinitely postponed today and a spokesman for the National Mediation Board said prospects for a settlement appeared "definitely encouraging."

Representatives of the pilots, after agreeing—at the government's request—to call off the strike they had scheduled to start at midnight, continued negotiations with company officials and the Mediation Board.

The conferees included Board Chairman Leverett Edwards, and President Robert M. Love of All-American and Clarence N. Sayen of the AFL Airline Pilots Association.

The pilots, including co-pilots, seek increased monthly salaries and a new contract to replace the one that expired last January. About 90 pilots are involved.

The company said it has offered to increase salaries by 12½ per cent.

On this basis, the company said, pilots that are now making an average of $773 a month would receive increases to make the average pay $883. Co-pilots, under the same percentage raise, the company said, would jump from $325 average to $360.

Naval Reserve Seeks Recruits For Its Units

Five Men Enlisted Since Drive Opened

Five men have been sworn into the local Naval Reserve thus far as a result of a recruiting drive begun Monday to bring reserve units up to full strength, Lt. Comdr. W. E. Woodson, Jr., inspector-instructor of the reserve units here, announced last night.

Comdr. Woodson said authorized strength of the units is 85 men each. It is hoped to attain full strength by January 31 when the drive will end, he added.

He stated the Naval Reserve was primarily interested in young men of 17 years of age or older. "The worth of the Naval Reserve has been fully demonstrated since the start of the Korean conflict. But the future of the reserve units depends on those young men of 17 or older who either join the regular Navy or a Reserve unit," Comdr. Woodson said.

The reserve program gives young men a chance to become familiar with a technical trade, such as electronics and radar, and also an opportunity to meet other men of the community socially, Comdr. Woodson pointed out.

There are also many rates open for older men with experience in the Construction Battalion, known as the Sea Bee Unit. Comdr. Woodson pointed out that the Sea Bees in the Pacific alone accounted for the building of 111 major air strips, 441 boat and ship piers, 700 acres of warehouses, hospitals for 70,000 patients, storage tanks for 100,000,000 gallons of gasoline and housing for 1,500,000 men.

He said the Sea Bees is made up of 65 construction trades which are grouped into seven Navy Petty Officer ratings.

Men are needed with experience as bus mechanics, carpenters, construction foreman, electrical repairmen, engineering equipment mechanics and many others.

The manpower needs of the Navy have seldom been greater than at present, Comdr. Woodson stated. "There is a possibility the taut international situation may continue for years. Such a situation makes it most urgent that we Americans maintain a strong-well-trained reserve force ready for instant service," he said.

Four-Alarm Fire Guts Lafayette Ave. Building

Four Firemen Hurt In Morning Blaze

An early morning blaze yesterday resulted in a four-alarm fire on Lafayette Avenue which destroyed a large structure housing three local firms, burned two vehicles, and sent four firemen to hospitals for treatment of injuries.

Owned by Richard M. Laughlin, 503 Franklin Street, the building which covers four lots in the 800 block, was occupied by the Shipway Motor Company, the Harris Express Company and storage space for the Cumberland Macaroni Manufacturing Company.

Damages Not Known

Estimate of the damages to the sheet metal building was not known last night although, according to the owner, it was "partially covered by insurance."

Injured during the blaze, which took a couple hours to bring under control, were Captain Vincent Wegman, Central, nail in foot; James Rowan, driver for South End, lacerated hand; Pipeman Calvin Wilt, South End, burns of the shoulder and knee; and Pipeman Thomas Gulbronson, South End, lacerated wrist.

The fire broke out about 5:45 a.m. yesterday in an office of the Shipway firm, firemen noted, although the origin is unknown. South End answered the alarm at 5:58, Central, including the aerial truck, went out at 6:10 on a call from Box 67. At 6:17 the same box summoned West Side and East Side.

Ridgeley Fills In

The Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Company filled in at Central at 6:40 a.m. to handle other local calls. A six-room unoccupied apartment in front of the building escaped flames although damage was caused by smoke and water.

A 1951 Chevrolet automobile, owned by Guy True, an employe of the Shipway firm, and a 1948 truck, belonging to Laughlin, were a total loss in the fire with damages estimated at $3,200.

The area was rocked by several mild explosions which roused residents from their beds. Oil drums and other inflammable materials in the building were blamed by officials for the blasts.

Allegany, Garrett Medical Group Approves Blood Bank

The Allegany County Red Cross blood program has been approved by the Allegany and Garrett Counties Medical Society according to Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, chairman of the program.

Dr. Skitarelic said both staffs of Allegany and Memorial Hospitals also approved the Blood Bank program. The doctors here are whole heartedly in favor of the plan, he said.

The Allegany County blood program has a two fold purpose, Dr. Skitarelic explained, to supply blood for the use of armed forces and to supply the needs of the blood banks in the local hospitals.

Percentage of blood going for each purpose will vary each month, he stated, but the county is practically assured of blood for civilian needs.

Blood Assured

Dr. Skitarelic explained that by donating blood to the Red Cross blood bank, people in the county are assured of blood when needed from the hospitals' banks.

Blood given at the hospitals will be free of charge except for the usual cost of service which includes cost of transfusion, typing, etc. It will not be necessary for persons receiving blood to secure donors to replace blood taken from the hospital bank. This blood will be replaced by the county blood program, Dr. Skitarelic said.

In short, the blood program set up has the dual purpose of supplying blood for both army and domestic use.

Local Center

The blood center here will be located at Cumberland Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles home on North Mechanic Street. The order has donated the entire first floor of its home to the Red Cross for this use.

DR. BENEDICT SKITARELIC

Mrs. Witherup said all persons wishing to sign up to donate blood may do so by visiting Red Cross headquarters in the Post Office building or by telephoning 3556.

Donors in Frostburg may contact Mrs. J. C. Cobey or telephone 236 if they wish to register.

Miss Colletta McNamee is the Mt. Savage representative at 2451. Miss Eleanor Sloan of Lonaconing will handle calls in that section. The telephone is 5151.

Mrs. Ferman Moreland is the representative at Ridgeley, telephone 1508-W. In Eckhart donors may contact Mrs. Clarence Thomas in order to register by telephoning 2767-M.

Mrs. Arthur Hoffa of Barton is the representative for that area and may be contacted by telephoning Lonaconing 6261. Mrs. Edward Smith of Midland is taking calls in that section. Her telephone is Lonaconing, 3784.

Travel Guide Will Note Data, Scenes Of Cumberland Area

The City of Cumberland and surrounding area will be included in the fourth of a series of American Travel Guides being prepared by Travel Enterprises, Inc. of New York City.

Anthony Saeli, manager of the Chamber of Commerce is now compiling vital information concerning the Queen City and area for use in the guide. Other sections of Maryland, will be included as well as Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Historic buildings, scenic spots, exhibits, recreational facilities, as well as resorts, institutions and sightseeing facilities will be part of the text. The detailed presentation, according to Saeli, will feature pictures and maps of the local area.

Each book tells what to see, what to do, where to go, how to get there and how much to pay. Upon its completion next year the guide will provide a complete informative text. Thus far such guides have been compiled on Florida, California and New England.

Aliens Reminded To File Current Address Reports

Forms To Be Available At U. S. Post Offices

All aliens must submit current address reports through any U. S. Post Office during the period January 1-11 inclusive, according to Attorney General J. Howard McGrath.

Under the amended law any alien residing in the United States on January 1, 1952, except one in an authorized temporary status, must notify the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, Washington, D. C. of his current address within ten days thereafter and during the same period in EACH SUCCEEDING YEAR.

Forms To Be Available

Argyle R. Mackey, Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, stated that the Immigration and Naturalization Service will make available forms for submitting the required reports at all Post Offices throughout the continental United States, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

The report is to be submitted on Form I-53, which will be available to the public beginning January 1, 1952. Mackey also advised aliens that it is to their distinct advantage to promptly notify the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Washington, D. C. of any change of address during the period between annual address reports. This will faciliate and greatly expedite the handling of all records pertaining to aliens and their families.

Annual Requirement

Mackey emphasized that the address report is an annual requirement and is not to be confused with alien registration. An alien residing

Area Prudential Agents Schedule Strike Saturday

Will Meet Today To Decide Course

At least 31 Prudential Insurance Company agents in the Tri-State area will be included in a 35-state strike scheduled to start tomorrow, a union spokesman said last night.

Members of Local 214, International Association of Insurance Agents (AFL) will meet at 2 p. m. today at the Algonquin Hotel to discuss the strike call.

Barring unforeseen developments, the strike would in effect begin at the close of the work day today, since agents ordinarily do not work on Saturdays. Nationally, the strike would affect some 15,500 Prudential agents.

George Russ of Washington, union president, said no renewal of negotiations was in sight, but that he was staying in New York in case Federal mediators called for a new conference.

The union members want a $55-a-week base pay, plus commissions, in place of the present $35-a-week base pay, plus commissions.

The comany contends that under the present scale the agents average $100 a week, including company benefits, and that some make more than $10,000 a year.

Prudential has offered an increase in commission rates, which it said would average $5.45 weekly, and a change in the retirement plan to make it non-contributory on the part of the agents.

The union has rejected the offer.

The local represents 31 of the 58 Prudential agents in the Cumberland District, which includes Hagerstown, Hancock, Frederick, Front Royal, Va., Berkeley Springs, W. Va., and points in the immediate Tri-State area. Some 15 of these agents are in the Cumberland office.

Also represented by the association are Metropolitan and All-State company agents.

President of the local is Benjamin Yates of Hagerstown. John E. Cooper, Cumberland, is vice president and Raymond W. Hamilton, also of Cumberland, is financial secretary.

Garrett County Court Term Lists One Case

The December term of Garrett County Circuit Court will open Monday and indications are it will close on the same day.

State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover said last night that an 18-year-old Garrett County youth is scheduled for trial Monday on a forgery charge.

Because the December term is non-jury, Stover expressed doubts that any civil cases will be tried.

Lyverl R. Snyder, who lives near Deep Creek Lake, is charged with forging a $20 check through which he allegedly obtained four $5 bills from the F. A. Smouse grocery in Oakland. This occurred October 30.

Snyder has been confined in the Garrett County Jail since November 1. Unable to obtain bond, he has prayed for an immediate trial and has agreed to waive indictment and be tried on a criminal information, Stover stated, rather than wait until the March jury term.

Associate Judge George Henderson will go to Oakland Monday to call the docket and will hear evidence in the Snyder case.

Suit Against B & O Set Today

The $5,000 suit of a woman who contends she was struck by the "overhanging" of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad locomotive at the Baltimore Street crossing will be tried today in Allegany County Circuit Court.

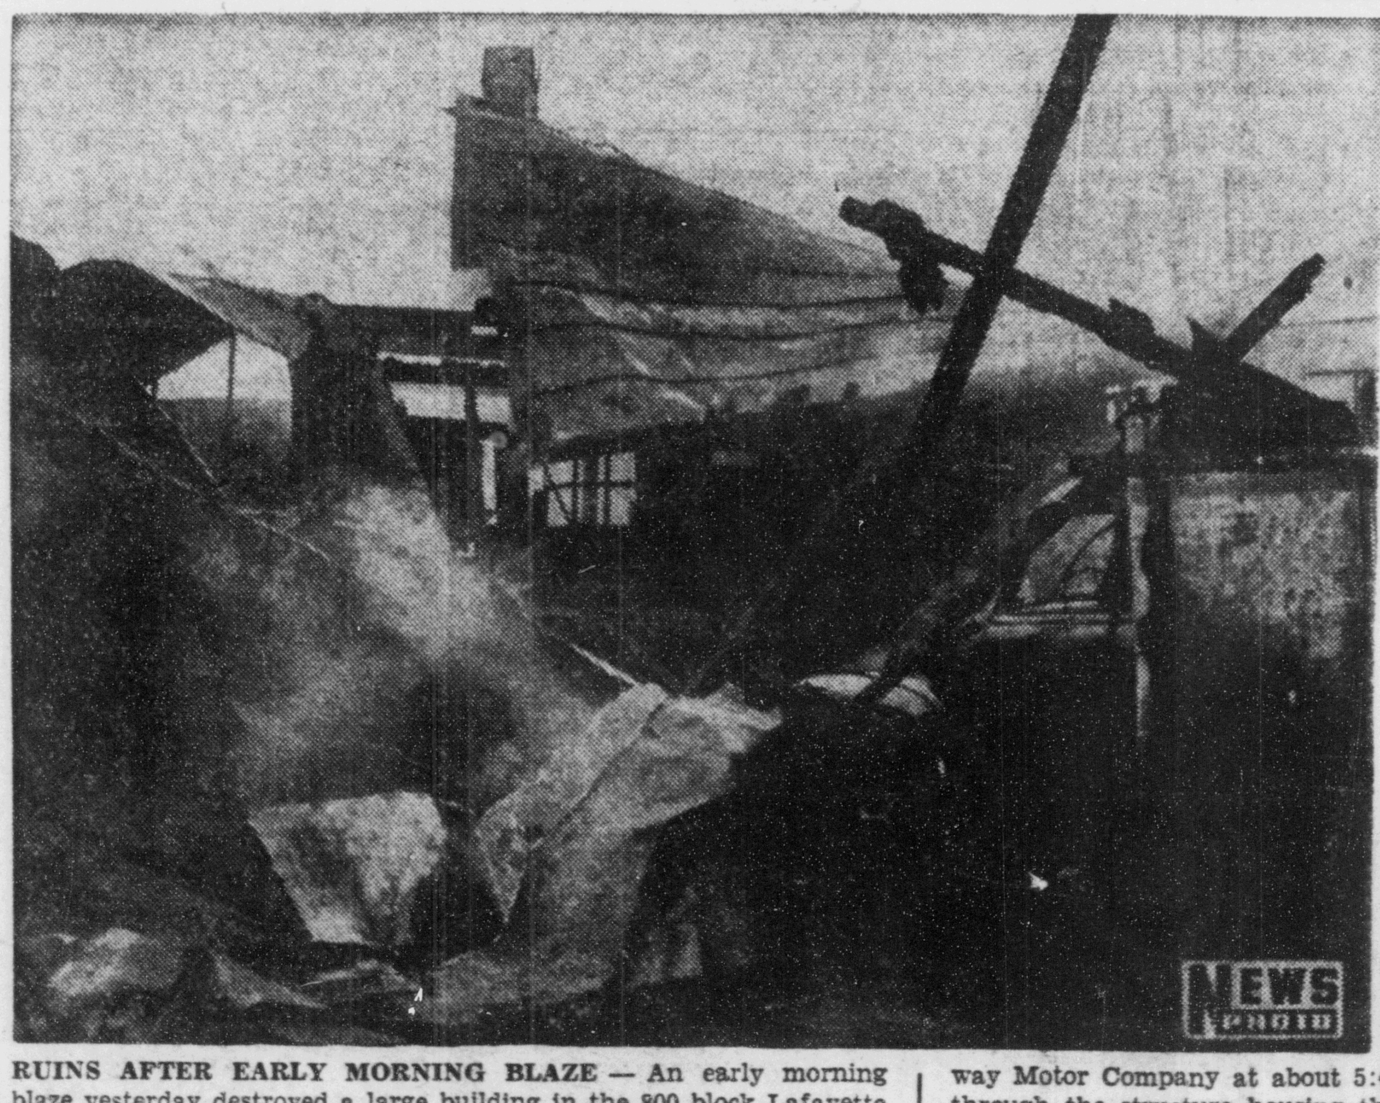
Resident Hurt In Auto Mishap

Mrs. Ralph E. Seaders, 411 Decatur Street, is reported in "good" condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted early yesterday morning with injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Oakland on Route 219.

She reportedly received abrasions and lacerations. The accident occurred about 1 a. m. when the automobile driven by her husband skidded off the road and apparently turned over. Three other local residents, who were occupants of the automobile, were "shaken up" but none required medical treatment.

The party was reported to have been returning from a district meeting of the Moose at Oakland when the accident occurred. Maryland State Police investigated.



RUINS AFTER EARLY MORNING BLAZE — An early morning blaze yesterday destroyed a large building in the 800 block Lafayette Avenue and sent all four city fire companies to the scene. Four firemen were injured while fighting the blaze, which took several hours to bring under control. Originating in the office of the Shipway Motor Company at about 5:45 a. m., the flames quickly spread through the structure housing the Shipway firm, storage space for the Cumberland Macaroni Manufacturing Company and the Harris Express Company. Smouldering ruins of a portion of the building can be seen in the picture at left. To the right of the collapsed roof is a 1948 1½-ton truck owned by Richard M. Laughlin, owner of the building. The truck and an automobile owned by Guy True, Shipway employe, were destroyed. In the photo at right, city firemen train a stream of water on the blaze. No estimate of damage could be given, but Laughlin said the loss was partially covered by insurance.

State Veterans Office To Move

The local office of the Maryland Veterans Commission is moving to new quarters. Beginning Monday, the office will be located in Room 7B in the Union Street County Building, Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant state service officer, announced yesterday. The office was formerly located in the Liberty Trust Building.

Work To Continue

Work will be resumed Saturday on a dirt moving project at Stitcher Field in North Cumberland, to complete a baseball park in the area.

According to committeemen working on the project, volunteers are needed to drive trucks and any contractors or other truck owners who will lend trucks for the day, are asked to cooperate.

A power shovel is at the scene to load shale and dirt and hauling is confined to the site itself. Volunteers and trucks are asked to report Saturday at 8 a. m. at the field.

Weather

In keeping with a Weather Bureau request, the elements calmed down a little and remembered their manners yesterday to bring Cumberland its first mild day after weeks of wintry, windy chills. The high temperature was 49, the low, 27, and at 8:15 p. m. the official reading was 34 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 55 per cent. Today should bring more of the same type of weather as another weekend gets under way. Prediction: mostly sunny and somewhat milder.

World War II POWs Asked To File Claims

Eligible Persons Given Details

Area ex-prisoners of World War II, who have not yet filed a claim for benefits under the War Claims Act of 1948, as amended, are urged to do so immediately.

The War Claims Commission pointed out that while Public Law 16, 82nd Congress, of last April extended the terminal date for filing claims with the Commission to March 31, 1952 it is hoped to have all American ex-POW claims settled by the end of this year.

Eligibility Explained

This of course cannot be accomplished unless all claims in this category are filed in the immediate future. Daniel F. Cleary, chairman of the commission, expressed his opinion that in addition to some living ex-POW's a number of survivors of the prisoners who are eligible for the benefits have not yet filed claims. Widows, children and parents of the deceased POWs, in that order, are eligible for benefits under the War Claims Act.

The benefits available to American POWs or their survivors under present law are $1.00 for each day the POW was interned by the enemy and was not provided with the amount and quality of food required under the Geneva Convention of 1929 relating to the treatment of prisoners of war.

Forms Available

Claim forms may be obtained directly from the War Claims Commission, Washington 25, D. C. or through Maryland Veterans Commission, 8 South Street, Baltimore 2. Further information may be obtained from Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant service officer, Maryland Veterans Commission, Room 7B, Union Street County Building, Cumberland.

All-American Pilot Strike Is Postponed

Settlement Prospects Appear Encouraging

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — A threatened strike of All-American Airways pilots was indefinitely postponed today and a spokesman for the National Mediation Board said prospects for a settlement appeared "definitely encouraging."

Representatives of the pilots, after agreeing—at the government's request—to call off the strike they had scheduled to start at midnight, continued negotiations with company officials and the Mediation Board.

The conferees included Board Chairman Leverett Edwards, and President Robert M. Love of All-American and Clarence N. Sayen of the AFL Airline Pilots Association.

The pilots, including co-pilots, seek increased monthly salaries and a new contract to replace the one that expired last January. About 90 pilots are involved.

The company said it has offered to increase salaries by 12½ per cent.

On this basis, the company said, pilots that are now making an average of $773 a month would receive increases to make the average pay $883. Co-pilots, under the same percentage raise, the company said, would jump from $325 average to $360.

The co-pilots contend they are now getting an average of $275 a month and pilots, or captains, $650.

Naval Reserve Seeks Recruits For Its Units

Five Men Enlisted Since Drive Opened

Five men have been sworn into the local Naval Reserve thus far as a result of a recruiting drive begun Monday to bring reserve units up to full strength, Lt. Comdr. W. E. Woodson, Jr., inspector-instructor of the reserve units here, announced last night.

Comdr. Woodson said authorized strength of the units is 85 men each. It is hoped to attain full strength by January 31 when the drive will end, he added.

He stated the Naval Reserve was primarily interested in young men of 17 years of age or older. "The worth of the Naval Reserve has been fully demonstrated since the start of the Korean conflict. But the future of the reserve units depends on those young men of 17 or older who either join the regular Navy or a Reserve unit," Comdr. Woodson said.

The reserve program gives young men a chance to become familiar with a technical trade, such as electronics and radar, and also an opportunity to meet other men of the community socially, Comdr. Woodson pointed out.

There are also many rates open for older men with experience in the Construction Battalion, known as the Sea Bee Unit. Comdr. Woodson pointed out that the Sea Bees in the Pacific alone accounted for the building of 111 major air strips, 441 boat and ship piers, 700 acres of warehouses, hospitals for 70,000 patients, storage tanks for 100,000,000 gallons of gasoline and housing for 1,500,000 men.

He said the Sea Bees is made up of 65 construction trades which are grouped into seven Navy Petty Officer ratings.

Men are needed with experience as bus mechanics, carpenters, construction foreman, electrical repairmen, engineering equipment mechanics and many others.

The manpower needs of the Navy have seldom been greater than at present, Comdr. Woodson stated. "There is a possibility the taut international situation may continue for years. Such a situation makes it most urgent that we Americans maintain a strong-well-trained reserve force ready for instant service," he said.

Four-Alarm Fire Guts Lafayette Ave. Building

Four Firemen Hurt In Morning Blaze

An early morning blaze yesterday resulted in a four-alarm fire on Lafayette Avenue which destroyed a large structure housing three local firms, burned two vehicles, and sent four firemen to hospitals for treatment of injuries.

Owned by Richard M. Laughlin, 503 Franklin Street, the building which covers four lots in the 800 block, was occupied by the Shipway Motor Company, the Harris Express Company and storage space for the Cumberland Macaroni Manufacturing Company.

Damages Not Known

Estimate of the damages to the sheet metal building was not known last night although, according to the owner, it was "partially covered by insurance."

Injured during the blaze, which took a couple hours to bring under control, were Captain Vincent Wegman, Central, nail in foot; James Rowan, driver for South End, lacerated hand; Pipeman Calvin Wilt, South End, burns of the shoulder and knee; and Pipeman Thomas Gulbronson, South End, lacerated wrist.

The fire broke out about 5:45 a.m. yesterday in an office of the Shipway firm, firemen noted, although the origin is unknown. South End answered the alarm at 5:58, Central, including the aerial truck, went out at 6:10 on a call from Box 67. At 6:17 the same box summoned West Side and East Side.

Ridgeley Fills In

The Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Company filled in at Central at 6:40 a.m. to handle other local calls. A six-room unoccupied apartment in front of the building escaped flames although damage was caused by smoke and water.

A 1951 Chevrolet automobile, owned by Guy True, an employe of the Shipway firm, and a 1948 truck, belonging to Laughlin, were a total loss in the fire with damages estimated at $3,200.

The area was rocked by several mild explosions which roused residents from their beds. Oil drums and other inflammable materials in the building were blamed by officials for the blasts.

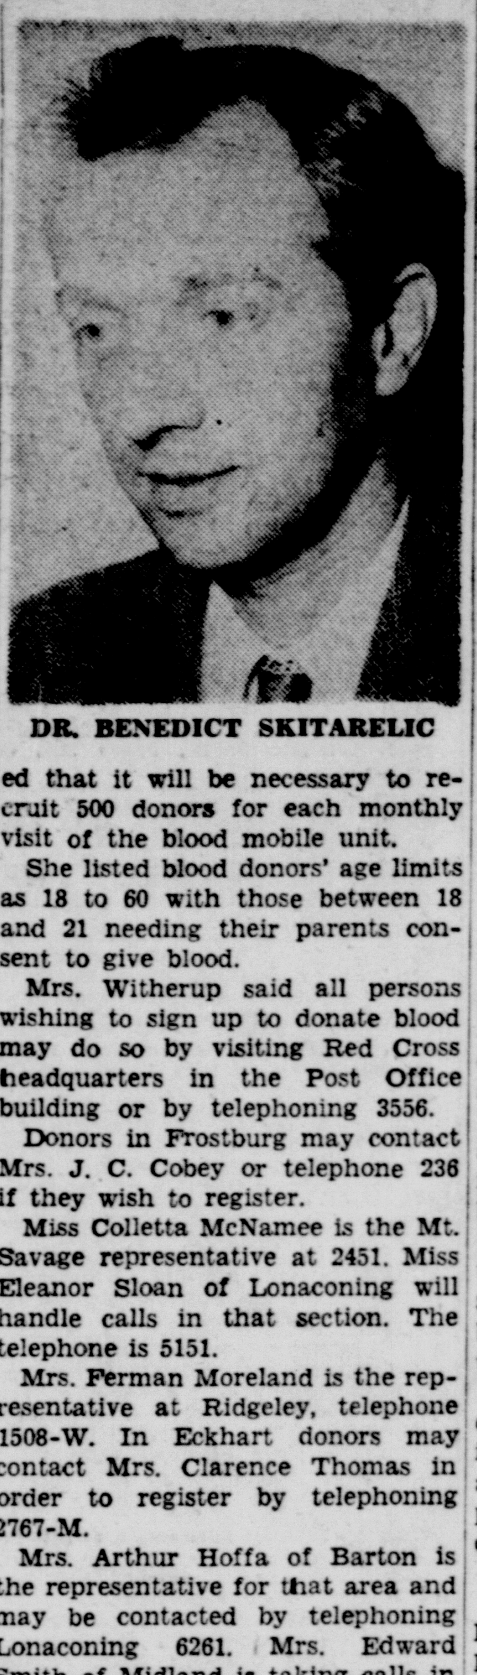
Allegany, Garrett Medical Group Approves Blood Bank

The Allegany County Red Cross blood program has been approved by the Allegany and Garrett Counties Medical Society according to Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, chairman of the program.



DR. BENEDICT SKITARELIC

Dr. Skitarelic said both staffs of Allegany and Memorial Hospitals also approved the Blood Bank program. The doctors here are whole heartedly in favor of the plan, he said.

The Allegany County blood program has a two fold purpose, Dr. Skitarelic explained, to supply blood for the use of armed forces and to supply the needs of the blood banks in the local hospitals.

Percentage of blood going for each purpose will vary each month, he stated, but the county is practically assured of blood for civilian needs.

Blood Assured

Dr. Skitarelic explained that by donating blood to the Red Cross blood bank, people in the county are assured of blood when needed from the hospitals' banks.

Blood given at the hospitals will be free of charge except for the usual cost of service which includes cost of transfusion, typing, etc. It will not be necessary for persons receiving blood to secure donors to replace blood taken from the hospital bank. This blood will be replaced by the county blood program, Dr. Skitarelic said.

In short, the blood program set up has the dual purpose of supplying blood for both army and domestic use.

Local Center

The blood center here will be located at Cumberland Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles home on North Mechanic Street. The order has donated the entire first floor of its home to the Red Cross for this use.

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, Red Cross chapter executive secretary, explained that it will be necessary to recruit 500 donors for each monthly visit of the blood mobile unit.

She listed blood donors' age limits as 18 to 60 with those between 18 and 21 needing their parents consent to give blood.

Mrs. Witherup said all persons wishing to sign up to donate blood may do so by visiting Red Cross headquarters in the Post Office building or by telephoning 3556.

Donors in Frostburg may contact Mrs. J. C. Cobey or telephone 236 if they wish to register.

Miss Colletta McNamee is the Mt. Savage representative at 2451. Miss Eleanor Sloan of Lonaconing will handle calls in that section. The telephone is 5151.

Mrs. Ferman Moreland is the representative at Ridgeley, telephone 1508-W. In Eckhart donors may contact Mrs. Clarence Thomas in order to register by telephoning 2767-M.

Mrs. Arthur Hoffa of Barton is the representative for that area and may be contacted by telephoning Lonaconing 6261. Mrs. Edward Smith of Midland is taking calls in that section. Her telephone is Lonaconing, 3784.

Aliens Reminded To File Current Address Reports

Forms To Be Available At U. S. Post Offices

All aliens must submit current address reports through any U. S. Post Office during the period January 1-11 inclusive, according to Attorney General J. Howard McGrath.

Under the amended law any alien residing in the United States on January 1, 1952, except one in an authorized temporary status, must notify the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, Washington, D. C. of his current address within ten days thereafter and during the same period in EACH SUCCEEDING YEAR.

Forms To Be Available

Argyle R. Mackey, Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, stated that the Immigration and Naturalization Service will make available forms for submitting the required reports at all Post Offices throughout the continental United States, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

The report is to be submitted on Form I-53, which will be available to the public beginning January 1, 1952. Mackey also advised aliens that it is to their distinct advantage to promptly notify the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Washington, D. Area Prudential Agents Schedule Strike Saturday

Will Meet Today To Decide Course

At least 31 Prudential Insurance Company agents in the Tri-State area will be included in a 35-state strike scheduled to start tomorrow, a union spokesman said last night.

Members of Local 214, International Association of Insurance Agents (AFL) will meet at 2 p. m. today at the Algonquin Hotel to discuss the strike call.

Barring unforeseen developments, the strike would in effect begin at the close of the work day today, since agents ordinarily do not work on Saturdays. Nationally, the strike would affect some 15,500 Prudential agents.

Negotiations in New York between the company and the international union broke off Tuesday. The agents are seeking higher pay in a new contract.

George Russ of Washington, union president, said no renewal of negotiations was in sight, but that he was staying in New York in case Federal mediators called for a new conference.

The union members want a $55-a-week base pay, plus commissions, in place of the present $35-a-week base pay, plus commissions.

The comany contends that under the present scale the agents average $100 a week, including company benefits, and that some make more than $10,000 a year.

Prudential has offered an increase in commission rates, which it said would average $5.45 weekly, and a change in the retirement plan to make it non-contributory on the part of the agents.

The union has rejected the offer.

The local represents 31 of the 58 Prudential agents in the Cumberland District, which includes Hagerstown, Hancock, Frederick, Front Royal, Va., Berkeley Springs, W. Va., and points in the immediate Tri-State area. Some 15 of these agents are in the Cumberland office.

Also represented by the association are Metropolitan and All-State company agents.

President of the local is Benjamin Yates of Hagerstown. John E. Cooper, Cumberland, is vice president and Raymond W. Hamilton, also of Cumberland, is financial secretary.

Garrett County Court Term Lists One Case

The December term of Garrett County Circuit Court will open Monday and indications are it will close on the same day.

State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover said last night that an 18-year-old Garrett County youth is scheduled for trial Monday on a forgery charge.

Because the December term is non-jury, Stover expressed doubts that any civil cases will be tried.

Lyverl R. Snyder, who lives near Deep Creek Lake, is charged with forging a $20 check through which he allegedly obtained four $5 bills from the F. A. Smouse grocery in Oakland. This occurred October 30.

Snyder has been confined in the Garrett County Jail since November 1. Unable to obtain bond, he has prayed for an immediate trial and has agreed to waive indictment and be tried on a criminal information, Stover stated, rather than wait until the March jury term.

Lewis R. Jones of Oakland has been appointed by the court to represent the youth.

Suit Against B & O Set Today

The $5,000 suit of a woman who contends she was struck by the "overhanging" of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad locomotive at the Baltimore Street crossing will be tried today in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Maggie Growden, through Attorney James Alfred Avirett, charged in her suit against the B & O that she was struck by the "overhanging" of the right side of a locomotive as she was walking across Baltimore Street just north of the northernmost track.

Resident Hurt In Auto Mishap

Mrs. Ralph E. Seaders, 411 Decatur Street, is reported in "good" condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted early yesterday morning with injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Oakland on Route 219.

She reportedly received abrasions and lacerations. The accident occurred about 1 a. m. when the automobile driven by her husband skidded off the road and apparently turned over. Three other local residents, who were occupants of the automobile, were "shaken up" but none required medical treatment.

The party was reported to have been returning from a district meeting of the Moose at Oakland when the accident occurred. Maryland State Police investigated.

RUINS AFTER EARLY MORNING BLAZE — An early morning blaze yesterday destroyed a large building in the 800 block Lafayette Avenue and sent all four city fire companies to the scene. Four firemen were injured while fighting the blaze, which took several hours to bring under control. Originating in the office of the Shipway Motor Company at about 5:45 a. m., the flames quickly spread through the structure housing the Shipway firm, storage space for the Cumberland Macaroni Manufacturing Company and the Harris Express Company. Smouldering ruins of a portion of the building can be seen in the picture at left. To the right of the collapsed roof is a 1948 1½-ton truck owned by Richard M. Laughlin, owner of the building. The truck and an automobile owned by Guy True, Shipway employe, were destroyed. In the photo at right, city firemen train a stream of water on the blaze. No estimate of damage could be given, but Laughlin said the loss was partially covered by insurance.
